JAMES WILLIAM BEEKMAN.

BY JOSIAH COLLINS PUMPELLY, A. M., LL. B.

James William Beekman, a descendant of the old Knickerbocker family of that name, was born in New York, Nov. 4, 1847, died at his country residence, "The Cliffs," Oyster Bay, Long Island, Aug. 7, 1908.

He was the son of the late Hon. James William and Abian Steele Millidoler Beekman (1819-1897), and his grandparents were Gerard Beekman (1774-1833) and Catharine Saunders (1785-1835).

From these he traces his ancestry back through James Beekman (1732-1807), William Beekman (1684-1770), Gerardus Beekman (1653-1723), to Wilhelmus Beekman (1623-1707) and Katrina De Boog, who came to this country about 1645.

Mr. Beekman was educated at Columbia University, was a student in the School of Mines and a graduate of the Law School in 1871.

He was an Annual Member of The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society. He was also a member of The Saint Nicholas, Holland, Historical and Colonial Wars Societies, and a member of Union, Metropolitan, Knickerbocker, University, Century, New York Yacht, Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Clubs, the Down Town Association, Bar Association; President New York Dispensary; Governor New York Hospital and a member of the Collegiate Dutch Church, corner 29th Street and Fifth Avenue.

He was Lieutenant-Governor of the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of New York from 1895 to 1897; Deputy-Governor from 1897 to 1902, and Governor from 1902 to 1904, and on his death a resolution was passed wherein it is said: "His high character and personal charms inspired the abiding affection of all those who came in contact with him, and by his uniform courtesy, his respectful consideration and interest in the affairs of the Society he contributed much to its success."

Mr. Beekman joined the New York Historical Society in 1886, and was one of the Executive Committee in 1903, and at the time of his death was a Trustee in the new building, in which undertaking he "showed courage, zeal and great patience in bringing his plans to their outcome with marked success." His associates, mostly men who had known him through life, testify to his great worth.

From the able Secretary of the Holland Society the following interesting data has been received: "Mr. Beekman was President of the Holland Society, 1893-1894, and it was during his term of office that the Dutch cruiser Van Speyk visited these shores, and his participation in the hospitality extended to the Dutch visitors caused the Queen to confer upon him the decoration of the Order of Nassau, of which he was justifiably proud. His urbanity and bonhomie made friends of all whom he met, and it was but natural that he should receive the honors which fell to him in The Holland Society, as well as those conferred by the Saint Nicholas Society, in which his position as President (1890-1891) rounded out a term of service, beginning with the office of Steward and running up through the various Vice-Presidencies to the head of the official list. Among good fellows there was no more agreeable companion than he, and I can readily believe what one of his friends said, that "he had more friends than any other man of his acquaintance."

From an interesting tribute written by Mr. Beekman's brother-in-law, an old friend of the writer, I quote the following: "Mr. Beekman not only appreciated the privilege of good birth but realized that it brought with it responsibilities. He keenly felt the "noblesse oblige" which belonged to his high social standing. He was careful and conscientious in the discharge of every duty, great or small. He required from others honesty and uprightness in all business dealings, and when he did not find it he preferred severing negotiations although to his own personal disadvantage. In his social life, where he was facile princeps, he was never so happy as when he was making others happy. Few men have been members of more clubs and societies, and though mingling with every variety of man, he never by word or deed relaxed his high standard of living; also as a loyal citizen Mr. Beekman openly upheld all that was good in our government, and just as openly condemned bad government, be it either National, State or Municipal.

In his official duties he was not only constant and painstaking but a cheerful and a pleasant man to work with, and gladly did all he could to advance the interests of those he deemed most deserving. When he was Governor of the New York Hospital, of which his ancestor was a founder, and as President of the New York Dispensary, Mr. Beekman showed marked ability, and his spoken appreciation of faithful work done by nurses and employees was a constant source of encouragement to them.

Having been at Columbia, a student of the School of Mines and graduate of the Law School, and having travelled extensively in Europe, Asia, Africa and the Far West of our own country, Mr. Beekman's mind was well stored with useful knowledge and his companionship and conversation were valued highly.

As a Christian he was a constant attendant at the Church of his ancestors, and a devout follower of the Master and to Him without a fear he committed his soul as his loved ones stood around his dying bed.

In his home town Protestants and Catholics alike prayed for his life, so universally was he beloved by both rich and poor.

There are three elements absolutely essential and inseparable from the makeup of a complete manhood, and these are sincerity, individuality and reverence, and it was these attributes of character which the subject of this sketch possessed in a marked degree. The writer regrets that he had not the opportunity of knowing Mr. Beekman personally, but can in a sense, through the letters received very well understand the appreciation and esteem in which he was held by all who knew him, and feels that this glimpse one has into the depth and conscientious rectitude of a life such as was his, leaves one the stronger and better prepared to fulfill the obligations which God has placed upon him.

Mr. Beekman had in him, as Jonathan Edwards would have said: "more than the average quantity of being."

He was a full man on every side, and his generous nature and genial sympathy and good humor were ever a benediction to his friends and social co-workers. In him there was an admirable blending of the practical and the ideal, of the material and the spiritual in harmonious combination.

Also it seems plain that he never left out of the forces of his life as he used them, that which lies beneath and upholds all others, the knowledge of the service of God.

And it is in the contemplation of this highest aspect of Mr. Beekman's earthly career that those who now revere his memory, think of his life work not as ended but as entered upon that higher stage of larger knowledge and activity which is linked with the eternities. In this faith and hope the ties which were so sweet in life are not broken, but are made stronger by the memories of the past and the expectations of a surer future beyond.

In these days when gross materialism is all around and about us, such a just life as this should be rightly honored, and this man's zeal for right doing should be held up as a bright example for the young men of this generation. The quality of the leading citizens of any age gives the measure of our nation's civilization. Strong and fiercely virile as is the commercial spirit of our time, the crowning glory of our century after all has been the rise of the humanist and the development of a new order of chivalry among many of that leisure class to which Mr. Beekman belonged.

In the words of that grand old man, Gladstone, "the safety of our country is not in law and legislators, but in Christian gentlemen." And of such was the subject of this sketch. His was genuine service for his generation, constant and fruitful, and now that he has "passed to where beyond these voices there is rest and peace," those who knew him best must feel that he has left to them a precious example and a blessed memory.

A DIGEST OF ESSEX WILLS.
WITH PARTICULAR REFERENCE TO NAMES OF IMPORTANCE IN THE AMERICAN COLONIES.

BY WILLIAM GILBERT,

Corresponding Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, Member of the Essex Archaeological Society, etc.

FOREWORD.

It has been observed that wills are the backbone of pedigrees and it is now generally admitted by the genealogist that, of all the sources of information available to him, they stand absolutely first in respect of importance, as they enlighten him more than any other class of document as to the habits, possessions, occupations and relations of his ancestors, as well as informing the antiquary and topographer of the names of estates, farms, fields and houses long since vanished and forgotten. Previous to the commencement of our Parish Registers (A. D. 1538), and subsequently where the early register has been lost or destroyed, wills are of a value that cannot be overestimated in rescuing names and circumstances from oblivion, and recovering somewhat from the ever engulfing stream of time. I propose in the following series to give a digest of the wills of Essex families proved in the 16th and 17th centuries, more especially those whose names are now to be found in America. If any period is important to the American genealogist it is from 1560 to 1625. Comparatively few, in the first instance at any rate, require wills of a much earlier period, while those whose ancestors emigrated later, will, I hope, find the present series a useful basis for further research. This period in England embraces the reigns of Queen Elizabeth and King James I, and the country was calm and peaceful compared with the earlier time of the Reformation and the later time of the civil wars. We therefore find many people of quite a humble station of life exercising testamentary powers to dispose of their little properties; frequently only a few personal things. The wills were usually drawn up either by the parson or the parish clerk—a busy person in those days, frequently combining the duties of schoolmaster, singing master, sexton and verger. There is a great uniformity of expression—the majority commencing “In the name of God Amen,” then the date, both the year of the Lord and the year of the reign being given, then the name, abode and occupation of the testator, usually recounting the fact that he is “sicke in bodye but of good hole and pfect mynde and memorie” and thanks Almighty God for it. It is possibly sentiment, but it appeals to many as being a more picturesque procedure than our modern practical method. The wills also frequently contain other religious sentiments and quotations from the Scriptures, which were held in the highest esteem. One reason for this "packing" perhaps lay in the fact that the scribe was remunerated according to the length of the will, and it is not an uncommon circumstance to find moral sentiment and religious hope occupying a good half of it. We however, as genealogists, while deriving a pleasure from this reading leave it to the student of contemporary religious thought and busy ourselves mainly with the earthly relatives and possessions of the deceased; so the digests which follow do not as a rule trouble about the religious clauses except where the fabric of the church is mentioned, or where there is something unusual, curious, or likely to be of service to the antiquary.

The Archdeaconry of Essex had a wide testamentary jurisdiction within the county and the wills date from the year 1400. This was one of the chief courts of Probate for Essex but is far from being the only one, as, without including the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, there were at least fifteen others having powers over various portions, the principal being the Commissary and Consistory Courts of London, the Peculiar of the Dean and Chapter of St. Pauls, and the Commissary Court of Essex and Hertfordshire. I hope to draw upon the vast stores of information in all these repositories.

It must be borne in mind that prior to 1752 the year commenced on March 25th (subsequently it commenced on January 1st), otherwise it will appear that a number of wills were proved before they were written which, as Euclid would say, is absurd.

The sign x after witnesses names signifies "his mark," and that he (or she) was unable to write.

It now only remains for me to say that I have a great pleasure in presenting these notes to my American friends (several of whom have corresponded with me at different times, and a few of whom I have personally seen), and I hope that, should anyone be able to throw further light on any of the wills, he will contribute such explanatory details as he may have to this magazine, which will thus become a store-house of no little value, to the antiquary and the genealogist.

† For many centuries there was, in England, a strong prejudice against being buried on the north side of the churchyard, and that portion was usually reserved for the reception of suicides, excommunicate persons, unbaptized infants and those who had been executed. Oct. 23, 1774); father Henry van Emburg Hopper, b. May 13, 1813, at Stony Creek, N. J.; m. Tabitha M. Hunt, b. Jan. 7, 1815.

Major George Clinton Hopper (Muster Rolls N. Y. S. Vols. [1864] Albany, state he was b. in Jordan, Onondago Co., N. Y., March 20, 1831; moved to Michigan at 15 and enlisted there), paymaster Michigan Central R. R., of Detroit, whose grandfather was Hassel Hopper of Mountain River, 12 miles from Newark and moved to Cayuga Co., N. Y. Father, Henry Hopper, who went to Detroit when 40 years old and d. 1849.

THE MILITARY TRACT OF NEW YORK STATE.

BY GRACE M. PIERCE.

There is no more interesting section of New York State than the region lying between the Mohawk Valley and the Genesee country, as it is frequently called. This central lake region is rich in legendary and historical lore.

Its eastern boundary was the extreme western frontier of American civilization at the beginning of the American Revolution, and further progress of the white race westward was held in check by the powerful alliance of the Indian tribes of New York known as the Iroquois Confederacy. During the War of the Revolution this Indian Confederacy was allied with Great Britain, and incited by the agents of the English government, the tribes were at enmity with the Continental government and were continually committing depredations upon the frontier settlements.

After the massacre of Wyoming, the Continental Government decided that a force should be sent into central New York to punish these Indians for their murderous sallies and British sympathy, and an army was gathered for that purpose and dispatched under General Sullivan. This expedition for the first time made known to any considerable number of white men the desirability of central New York for settlement, and many of them at the close of hostilities, returned to this region and founded new homes for their families.

The hunting grounds of the central tribes of the Confederacy, were, however, to become the homes of their former enemies in a more general way than by chance settlers, through the desire of New York State to repay her defenders for their patriotism and service in the hour of need, and central New York came to be known as "The Military Tract."

This "Military Tract" was originally bounded on the north by Oneida Lake, Oswego River, and Lake Ontario; west by a line drawn from the head of Great Sodus Bay to the head of Seneca Lake; on the south by a line drawn from the head of Seneca Lake to the west line of the present county of Chenango; on the east by the counties of Chenango and Madison, and the Oswego River; the tract comprising all of the present counties of Onondaga, Cayuga, Seneca and Cortland, and a part of each of Oswego, Tompkins and Wayne counties. As Onondaga was the only county known at the time the tract was surveyed, the entire tract was frequently designated at that time as "the Onondaga Military Tract."

The history of the Military Tract really begins with the resolution adopted by the Continental Congress, Sept. 16, 1776.

This resolution called for eighty-eight battalions to be enlisted as soon as possible, to serve during the war, and that each state should furnish its respective quota. That twenty dollars be given as bounty to each non-commissioned officer and private who should serve during the war unless sooner discharged. The resolution also provided that the appointment of all officers and filling of vacancies, except general officers, should be left to the government of the several states; and that every state provide arms, clothing, and every necessary for its quota of troops, according to the foregoing estimates. The expense of the clothing to be deducted from the pay of the soldiers as usual. All general officers were to be commissioned by Congress. And the same resolution provided for grants of land to the soldiers who served through the war, and to the representatives of those soldiers who should be slain, in the following proportion:—to a colonel, 500 acres; to a lieutenant-colonel, 450 acres; to a major, 400 acres; to a captain, 300 acres; to a lieutenant, 200 acres; to an ensign, 150 acres; to a non-commissioned officer and to each private, 100 acres. These lands were to be provided by the United States, and whatever expense there might be to produce such lands, the said expenses should be born by the states in the same proportion as the other expenses of the war.

On Aug. 12, 1780, Congress further provided land bounties for Major-Generals, 1,100 acres, and for Brigadier-Generals, 850 acres.

All these lands were situated in Ohio, but later the United States government made an arrangement with the New York State government, that any soldier legally relinquishing his claim to the one hundred acres in Ohio, should draw a full right of six hundred acres in New York. But failing to relinquish that right by neglect or otherwise, the one hundred acres over five hundred acres (the amount given to each private by New York State, as will be explained later), should revert to New York State. The reversion of this one hundred acres gave rise to the term "State's Hundred," which was formerly so much used in the Military Tract.

On March 20, 1781, a law was passed by the Legislature, providing for the enlistment of two regiments for the defense of the frontier of New York, to be armed, accoutred, clothed, subsisted, and paid at the expense of the United States, and to continue in service three years unless sooner discharged. "The Council of appointment of the State of New York was to commission the field officers, and the Governor of the state, the captains and subalterns, who were to enlist as speedily as possible the aforesaid regiments."

The faith of the state was pledged to the officers and privates, that should they continue to serve the full time of three years, or to the time they were respectively discharged, such officers and privates, or in the case of their death, their legal representatives, should respectively receive grants of lands as follows:—each non-commissioned officer and private, 500 acres, and officers to receive in proportion to their rank, after the land had been surveyed by the surveyor-general of the state. A major-general was to receive 5,500 acres; a brigadier-general, 4,250; a colonel, 2,500; a lieutenant-colonel, 2,250; a major, 2,000; a captain and regimental surgeon, each 1,500; chaplain, 2,000, and each subaltern and surgeon's mate, 1,000 acres. And this was all the bounty or emolument to be received from New York State.

In case these lands were not actually settled within three years after the war was closed, they were to be forfeited, and were to revert to the state. The forces raised upon these conditions were to be mustered and commanded by the commander-in-chief of the armies of the United States.

On March 27, 1783, the Legislature passed the following measure:—"Whereas Congress by act of the sixteenth day of September, 1776, did resolve, that certain quantities of Bounty Lands should be given to officers, non-commissioned officers and privates serving in the Continental army.

"And, Whereas, the Legislature of this state are willing not only to take upon themselves to discharge the said engagement of Congress, so far as it relates to the line of this state, but likewise as a gratuity to the said line, and to evince the just sense this Legislature entertain of the patriotism and virtue of the troops of this state, serving in the armies of the United States:"

"RESOLVED THEREFORE, that besides the bounty of land so promised as aforesaid, this Legislature will by law provide that the major-generals and the brigadier-generals now serving in the line of the army of the United States, and being citizens of this state; and the officers, non-commissioned officers and the privates of the two regiments of Infantry commanded by Colonels Van Shaick and Van Courtlandt; such officers of the regiment of artillery commanded by Colonel Lamb, and of the corps of sappers and miners, as were, when they entered the service, inhabitants of this state; such of the non-commissioned officers and privates of the last mentioned two corps as are credited to this state as part of the troops thereof; all officers deranged by any acts of Congress subsequent to the 16th day of September, 1776; all officers recommended by Congress as persons whose depreciation of pay ought to be made good by this state, and who may hold military commissions in the line of the army at the close of the war; and the Rev. John Mason and John Gano, shall severally have granted to them the following quantities of land, etc." (These grants were in the same proportion as had already been granted in the act of 1781.)

"That the lands so to be granted as bounty from the United States, and as a gratuity from this state shall be laid out in townships of six miles square; that each township shall be divided into 156 lots of 150 acres each, two lots whereof shall be reserved for the use of a minister or ministers of the gospel, and two lots for the use of a school or schools; that each of the persons above described shall be entitled to as many such lots as his bounty and gratuity land as aforesaid, will admit of; that one-half of the lot that each person shall be entitled to shall be improved at the rate of five acres for every one hundred acres, within the term of five years next after the grant, if such lots are sold by the original grantee, or within ten years of such a grant, if the grantee shall retain the possession of such lots, and that the said bounty and gratuity lands be located in the district of this state reserved for the use of the troops by an act entitled, 'An act to prevent grant or locations of the lands therein mentioned,' passed the twenty-fifth day of July, 1782."

From the foregoing it will readily be understood that the one hundred acres promised each private by the United States was known as his "bounty" land, and the five hundred given by New York State was distinguished as his "gratuity" land.

In May, 1784, Commissioners were appointed "to proceed to grant military bounty land, and to settle individual claims. These Commissioners were the Governor, Lt.-Governor, Speaker of the Assembly, Secretary of State, Attorney-General, Treasurer, and Auditor, any three of whom transacted business, the Governor always being one of them.

The same act ordered the lands laid out in the form of squares or as nearly a square form as was possible, and inhibited the Surveyor-General from laying out any bounty or gratuity lands in certain tracts or any part thereof.

These reserved tracts of land were, a certain tract adjoining the south end of Lake George, within two miles of the fort called Fort George; certain tracts at Ticonderoga, and at Crown Point; a peninsular adjoining Lake Champlain called Point Au Fer, comprising five hundred acres; two tracts adjoining Lake Ontario where the Onondaga River falls into said lake, running from the mouth of the said river and on both sides thereof as the same river flows, one mile on either side; "a certain tract adjoining the water communication between Lake Erie and Lake Ontario, and to be bounded on the east by a line across a pond one mile distant from the most easterly inclination of the said water communication, on a perpendicular to the general course of the said water communication, and to extend from the said pond to Lake Ontario on one side and to Lake Erie or to the north boundary line of Pennsylvania, as the case may be, on the other;" a certain ore bed about eight miles north of Crown Point adjoining Lake Champlain, commonly called "Skene's ore bed;" "a certain piece adjoining the falls commonly called Oswego Falls on Onondaga River, beginning twenty chains above where the bateaux were heretofore taken out of the said river to be carried across the portage, and extending down the river twenty chains below where the bateaux were usually put into the said river, after having been transported over the portage, extending on each side in every part between the said two places, ten chains from said river."

The first grant of Military Bounty Lands comprised all that tract of country bounded north by Oneida Lake, Oneida River and Lake Ontario; west by a line drawn from Great Point Bay on Lake Ontario to the foot of Seneca Lake, up Seneca Lake to its head; south by a line drawn eastward from the head of Seneca Lake to the Oneida Reservation, and along the Chittenango Creek to its estuary, the place of beginning; except certain reserves for the Onondaga and Seneca Indians, and for the State of New York, in the vicinity of the salt springs.

The Indian titles to these lands had not as yet been extinguished and there was much doubt and uncertainty as to the time when it would be, and many claimants became clamorous for their rights. Consequently, on May 15, 1786, the Legislature passed an act authorizing the Surveyor-General to lay out several townships where Indian titles had been extinguished, to satisfy the claims of the officers and soldiers of the New York regiments.

In compliance with this act, twelve townships were laid out in the northern part of the state, numbered from south to north and back, in two tiers, each township containing ten square miles, being each ten miles square, and equal to 768,000 acres. Of these townships, numbers 1, 2, 11 and 12 are now in Essex

County; numbers 3, 4, 5 and 6 are in Clinton County, and numbers 7, 8, 9 and 10 are in Franklin County. These lands were subsequently known as the "Old Military Tract."

Many of the soldiers' claims had been bought up by speculators, and it was soon ascertained that these lands of northern New York were not to be compared to the central lands for fertility and prospective value, and the Legislature was induced to defer the final settlement of claims until the Indian title had been extinguished to the lands of the Onondagas, Cayugas and Senecas.

This was finally effected by the Treaty of Fort Stanwix, on Sept. 12, 1788, and the individual rights were located as originally intended.

The Onondaga Military Tract originally contained about 1,800,000 acres, or about 3,000 rights, exclusive of reservations. Deception and fraud regarding these rights had already been practiced to a considerable extent, and progress in the settlement of claims was made very slowly, as it was with the greatest difficulty that the Commissioners could distinguish in some cases between the rightful and fraudulent claimants.

In 1789, the Commissioners of the Land Office directed the Surveyor-General to lay out as many townships as would satisfy the claims of persons entitled to bounty lands. He accordingly laid out twenty-five townships, numbering from one to twenty-five inclusive; each township contained 60,000 acres, and these townships were subdivided into lots of six hundred acres each.

In 1790, the Surveyor-General having completed the survey as ordered, it was decided that fifty acres to be located in one of the corners of each lot, was subject to the payment of forty-eight shillings to the Surveyor-General as a compensation for his services. This was the origin of the term of "Survey Fifty;" and the further sum of eight shillings was charged by the Secretary of State upon each lot in addition to his customary fees for perfecting conveyances. Simeon DeWitt, the Surveyor-General, personally laid out the whole Military Tract, by plotting and mapping the boundaries and calculating the whole area. He, however, appointed Moses De Witt and Abraham Hardenburgh as his assistants to divide the Military Tract as laid out into townships, each to contain one hundred lots, and this division into lots of the townships was made under their direction and superintendance, by a corps of surveyors working under them.

It was originally intended to have each township ten miles square, and each lot one mile square, but in reality some townships and also many lots were found to be very irregular.

The terms of township and towns are frequently confounded and the one substituted for the other. A township in the Military Tract was a particular parcel of land laid out, containing certain one hundred lots. A town, in our early organization often embraced several townships.

The townships of the Military Tract were at first numbered, one, two, three, etc., but afterwards the Commissioners of the Land Office named them after distinguished men, an act which explains many of the classical names of towns throughout this section of the state.

The Military townships were named as follows:—1, Lysander; 2, Hannibal; 3, Cato; 4, Brutus; 5, Camillus; 6, Cicero; 7, Manlius; 8, Aurelius; 9, Marcellus; 10, Pompey; 11, Rumulus; 12, Scipio; 13, Sempronius; 14, Tully; 15, Fabius; 16, Ovid; 17, Milton; 18, Locke; 19, Horace; 20, Solon; 21, Hector; 22, Ulysses; 23, Dryden; 24, Virgil; 25, Cincinnatus.

July 31, 1790, at a meeting of the Land Commissioners, the secretary having been furnished by Abraham Hardenburgh, one of the deputies of the Surveyor-General, with a map showing the interference of certain of the military lands with the townships ceded to Massachusetts, known as the "Boston Ten Towns," brought the subject to the attention of the Board, together with the fact that some of the lots thus conflicting had already been balloted.

The Commissioners at once ordered these ballots destroyed and two additional townships to be laid out by the Surveyor-General from the lands set apart for the military, and lot number 26 was named Junius.

On Jan. 1, 1791, the Commissioners proceeded to determine the many claims and to ballot for each individual share, and the record of these drawings was kept in a book known as the "balloting book." Ninety-four persons drew lots in each township; one lot was drawn for the support of literature in the State of New York, one lot was assigned near the centre of each township by the Surveyor-General for the support of the gospel and common schools, and the remaining four lots went to satisfy the surplus share of officers, and to compensate those who by chance might draw lots covered with water. If any lots contained too small a quantity of land the Commissioners were authorized to correct it. The former act relative to actual settlement was repealed and the time for such actual settlement was extended seven years from Jan. 1, 1792. In case of failure to settle within that time, the lands reverted to the State as before. But the equitable adjustment of these land claims proved a source of continual embarrassment and perplexity to the Commissioners and real owners alike.

The warrants under which title was given to these claims were known as "land patents," and were issued under the "Great Seal of the State of New York." This seal was devised by a committee consisting of Messrs. John Jay, Gouveneur Morris and John Sloss Hobart, appointed by the Constitution of the State in 1777. The seal was double-faced, on one side was a rising sun over three mountains; motto underneath, "Excelsior;" and the legend, "The Great Seal of the State of New York." On the reverse side was a huge rock rising out of the sea, and the legend, "Frustra, 1777."

The patent was written on parchment, fourteen or fifteen inches wide, and twenty-one inches long, the lower edge of the parchment was doubled back one and three-fourths inches, and to this doubled edge the seal was attached by a braided white cord an eighth of an inch thick, leaving the seal pendant to the document.

In Aug., 1792, the Board of Commissioners, finding it necessary in order to comply with the grants of bounty lands, lately directed by law to be made to the members of the Hospital Department, caused township 27, and the lots therein, respectively to be numbered according to law, and the township to be designated by the name of Galen.

In 1795, as there still appeared a number of unsatisfied claims for military bounty lands, the twenty-seventh township being disposed of, the Commissioners resolved that the Surveyor-General should lay out one other township, number 28, which was subsequently named Sterling, and the allotment of this township eventually satisfied all remaining claims.

In Jan., 1794, on account of the many frauds committed respecting titles to these military bounty lands, by forging and antedating conveyances, by conveying the same to different persons, and various other methods, and to prevent future frauds, the Legislature passed an act providing that all deeds and conveyances made and executed before that time, or pretending to be so, should be deposited with the clerk of Albany County for the time being, and all that were not so deposited, should be considered fraudulent. The names of the claimants were posted in alphabetical order in the clerk's office at Albany, and also at the clerk's office at Herkimer, for the inspection of all persons interested.

These claims were still contested, the courts were overwhelmed with litigation relative thereto. Scarcely a lot but became the subject of more or less legal controversy; even soldiers themselves going to take possession of the lots for which they had served, were obliged to eject lawless squatters at considerable expense, or to yield their hard earned title and rights. At length, the residents of the Military Tract became so completely wearied with these most annoying and continued contentions, that in 1797, they "unanimously and heartily" united in a petition to the State Legislature to pass a law authorizing a speedy and equitable method of settling all disputes relative to titles.

An act was therefore passed appointing Robert Yates, James Kent and Vincent Matthews, Commissioners with full powers "to hear, examine, award and determine all disputes respecting titles to any and all bounty lands." The Governor was authorized to fill all vacancies on the Board. From the records the name of James Kent does not appear in any transactions of the Board. Most of the awards of 1798-99 were signed by Vincent Matthews and James Emmott; later ones by Vincent Matthews and Robert Yates; and some of the 1801 and 1802 by Vincent Matthews, James Emmott and Sanders Livingston. These Commissioners after long and laborious investigations, finally brought these legal contentions to a satisfactory conclusion.

LISTS OF GERMANS FROM THE PALATINATE WHO CAME TO ENGLAND IN 1709.

The following lists are copied from the original documents preserved in the British Museum Library, London, England, and should be of the greatest genealogical interest to those families in the States of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and elsewhere, which claim descent from the so-called Palatine settlers. These lists have never before been printed to the knowledge of the Editor, and it should be noted that the word "son" or "sons" and "dau." or "daus." followed by figures denote that the heads of the family had as many sons or daughters, as there are figures, and that these sons and daughters were of the respective ages denoted by the figures. The word "wife" indicates that the head of the family was married and that the wife was living. The abbreviations "Ref.," "Luth.," "Bap." and "Cath.," mean that the family belonged to the Reformed, Lutheran, Baptist or Catholic Churches.

BOARD OF TRADE MISCELLANEOUS. VOL. 2 D. 57.

A list of all the poor Germans lately come over from the Palatinate into this kingdom taken in St. Catharine's the sixth May, 1709.

NOTES.

DUMONT FAMILY.—Several years ago I contributed to THE RECORD some articles on the Dumont family, in which was mentioned the military service of one Peter Dumont, who sometimes styled himself Peter H. Dumont to prevent confusion. The chief Bibliographer of the Library of Congress, supplied the following, under the date of Aug. 22, 1907:

"J. P. Snell's History of Hunterdon and Somerset Counties, New Jersey; Philadelphia, 1881; has the following on page 782:

HENRY REED STILES, A. M., M. D., first President and last surviving Charter Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, one of the founders and first Editor of this magazine, died at his home, Hill View, Warren County, N. Y., January 7th, 1909, in the 77th year of his age.

Driven to retirement through bodily infirmities, he continued until quite recently to prepare for publication the mass of historical and genealogical material he had gathered, his last work being the editing of a new edition of "A Journal of the Last Voyage of De La Salle to the Gulf of Mexico to find out the Mouth of the Mississippi."

Although most of his generation has passed away, probably no other genealogist was so widely known,—so universally admired and beloved,—and by none more than the members of the present Publication Committee of the RECORD, whose honored associate as Editor Emeritus he was at the time of his decease.

(An extended obituary of Dr. Stiles will appear in the April issue of the RECORD.)

By request of the Congress, Hillsborough Township appointed a town committee in 1776 and 1777, to act in behalf of their country when necessary. The following were the committees:

1776.—John B. Dumont, Abraham Dubois, Johannes Demott, Cornelius Sebring, Peter A. Dumont, Lawrence Van Kleef, Garret Terhune, Jr.

1777.—Abraham Dubois, John Dumont, Cornelius Sebring, Peter A. Dumont, Isaac Vannuys, Peter H. Dumont, Derrick Low, Peter Stryker, Jr.

The statement that Congress requested Hillsborough Township to appoint a town committee, would seem to be of doubtful authenticity. Each Colony was to appoint its own committee of safety as is seen from the following resolution, adopted by Congress, July 18, 1775:

"That it be recommended to each Colony to appoint a committee of safety, to superintend and direct all matters necessary for the security and defense of their respective Colonies, in the recess of their assemblies and conventions." (Journal of the Continental Congress, edited by W. C. Ford, Vol. II, p. 189.)

GILBERT FAMILY.—On page 5, of a book published in Mass., U. S. A., in 1850, entitled A Genealogical Memoir of the Gilbert Family in Old and New England, by J. W. Thornton, is the statement: "From Compton many stems of the old stock branched off, for instance about 1604 John Gilbert left Compton and settled at Blechington, County of Essex." This should be County of Sussex (representatives of which family are flourishing, I believe, at the present day). I mention this point as I have had no less than four correspondents use this statement as an authority for the conjectural connection between Gilbert of Essex (of whom Sir William Gilbert, the great electrician, temp. Eliz.), and Gilbert of Compton, Devon (of whom Sir Humphrey Gilbert, the navigator), one correspondent suggesting that Blechington (which he has read at Belchington) might be one of the Belchamps in Essex. The pedigree of Gilbert of Essex has been traced back to Suffolk (circa 1420), and I am of opinion that they were not in any way connected with Gilbert of Devon as there were families of this name of equal antiquity in the North and Midlands.

GATES—MERRICK.—Wanted information concerning: Stephen Gates, b. at Canterbury, Conn., Monday, Oct. 17, 1742; and Mary Merrick, his wife, b. at Methuen, Essex County, Mass., Friday, May 8, 1744. Who were the parents of these persons.

R. H. G.

STANTON—WILKINS—LITTLE—WHITE.—Information is desired of the persons mentioned in the following notes:

Mary Stanton, dau. of Geo. and Agnes (Blanck) Stanton, b. Jan. 11, 1760; d. Oct. 10, 1815; m. Sept. 9, 1786, John Wilkins of N. Y. City. They had eleven children, the descendants of some of whom have been traced, but information is still lacking concerning some of the others, and none of the male descendants, if there were any who m., have been traced. Their children were:

Hannah Wilkins, b. Sept. 2, 1791; m. Wm. Holmes.

George Stanton Wilkins, b. —; m. Ann Wilkins.

Jacob Wilkins, b. July 27, 1787; no particulars of family.

John Wilkins, b. —; " "

John Wilkins, b. —; " "

George Wilkins, b. —; “ “
 John Wilkins, b. —; “ “

From the repetition of the names it is probable that some of these sons d. early, especially among those named John and George.

Agnes Stanton, dau. of George and Agnes (Blanck) Stanton, b. June 9, 1771; m. Sept. 2, 1790, Jonathan Little of N. Y. City. They had the following children, none of whom we have any account of:

Maria Little, b. about Sept. 1, 1791(?).

William Little, b. —.

Eliza Little, b. —.

Julia Ann Little, b. —.

George, Little, b. —.

Agnes Little, b. —.

John Little, b. —.

Harriet Little, b. —.

Henry Augustus Little, b. —.

Charles Little, b. —.

George Edwin Little, b. —.

As probably all of the above were residents of N. Y. City, it is probable that some of them had families, and that something can be ascertained about their descendants.

George Stanton, Jr., son of George and Agnes (Blanck) Stanton, b. Sept. 5, 1766; d. Oct. 6, 1793; m. Jan. 27, 1788, Ann Wilkins of N. Y. City(?). They had the following children:

Hannah Stanton, b. June 15, 1788; m. Oct. 22, 1808, Wm. Holmes.

They had sons, Wm., b. May 19, 1809, and George, b. —.

Ann Stanton, b. July 26, 1790; m. Henry V. White(?). They had a dau., Eliza White.

Information about any of the above will be greatly appreciated.

BOOK NOTICES.

JOHN BIDWELL, PIONEER. A Sketch of his Career, by Marcus Benjamin. Paper, Quarto, pp. 52. Privately printed. Washington. 1907.

The subject of this biography was descended from sturdy New England stock, a son of Abraham Bidwell and Clarissa Griggs, and born in Chataqua County, New York. The family later removed to Pennsylvania, thence to Ohio, and finally, in 1839, John Bidwell started for the West, and in 1841 joined one of the first parties organized to cross the Rocky Mountains to California. He took an active part in the early political development of California, which led to her independence in 1846, and in 1849 purchased the domain of Rancho Chico, which William Dickey had obtained in 1844 by a grant from the Mexican government. With a strong bent of mind for farming, Mr. Bidwell proceeded to place his great tract of land under cultivation, subdividing it into some twenty farms, each devoted to the special product of grain, fruit, nuts, vegetables and flowers. Great herds of live stock were collected, and General Bidwell employed an army of 150 farm hands throughout the year, and at harvest time the number ran up to 800.

He also incorporated the city of Chico and donated much valuable land to the municipality. The people of California repeatedly honored General Bidwell with positions of trust and high office, all of which he filled with ability, integrity and success, and the principal facts of his political and legislative career are set forth in detail.

The biography is beautifully printed and illustrated with half tone photographs, and the taste displayed in selection of large type, deckle edge paper and subjects of illustration is unusually good.

GENEALOGY OF JEFFERSON DAVIS. Address delivered October 9th, 1908, before Lee Camp, No. 1, Confederate Veterans, Richmond, Va., by William H. Whitsitt. Paper, Octavo, pp. 16. 1908.

It is curious that the origin of the celebrated statesman should be so shrouded in mystery. From his own account, three brothers came to America from Wales in the early part of the eighteenth century and settled in Philadelphia, but reference to the Welsh Tract Records, 1701-1828, only discloses the names Righart, Shonnet and James David in 1701. The fact is clear that one Evan Davis was the grandfather, and Samuel Davis the father, of the President of the Confederate States, and beyond that all is doubt or hypothesis. The identity of the names David, Davies and Davis is to be doubted and hence the problem of the Davis ancestry is far from being solved. The author, however, has advanced a new theory, and added valuable data to the meagre family records, and has brought to the attention of the public a search which should be taken up by skilled genealogists.

The ancient annals of a family which culminated in Jefferson Davis, the great Confederate leader, are well worth writing, and an exhaustive search of existing court records may result in further facts of value.

REPORT OF THE MEMORIAL EXERCISES IN HONOR OF DEACON JOHN DOANE. Paper, Octavo, pp. 39. Press of David Clapp & Son, Boston. 1908.

These exercises were held at Orleans and Eastham, Mass., on April 21st, 1907, and commemorate one of the founders of Eastham. For generations the Doane family have been identified with the Orleans Church, and while little is known of the first ancestor, who came from England about 1630, he took an active and prominent part in the councils of the Commonwealth of Plymouth Colony. It is possible he was allied to the ancient House of Doane of Ukinton, in Cheshire, but of this no direct proof has as yet been obtained.

THE DUYCKINCK AND ALLIED FAMILIES, being a record of the descendants of Evert Duyckinck who settled in New Amsterdam, now New York, in 1638. Whitehead Cornell Duyckinck and Rev. John Cornell, M.A. New York. Tobias A. Wright. 1908. 8vo, Cloth, pp. x+247.

Genealogies of old Holland families are, unfortunately, comparatively rare, and this very attractive volume is doubly valuable for that reason. It contains the records of over 6,000 of Evert Duyckinck's descendants, and numbers among them some of the best known old New York families. Among these may be noted the Abeel, Allien, Bancker, Bartow, Beekman, Bleecker, Byvanck, Chrystie, Constable, Duane, Edgar, Hoffman, Hooglandt, Kissam, LeRoy, Livingston, McVickar, Pell, Pierrepoint, Provoost, Roosevelt, Rutgers, Sands, Vanderbilt, Verplanck, Whitney and Willett families, all of whom, especially their present-day members, are largely represented in the book, their descent being derived through Duyckinck women.

In addition to these very important genealogies of present-day New Yorkers, the compilers have presented an excellent frontispiece, in color, of the Duyckinck arms, a map of New Amsterdam in 1642, and Marschalk's plan of the vaults in the New Dutch Church Yard in 1765, besides several portraits. The volume is well printed and bound, and will be found invaluable to every student of New York genealogy.

GENEALOGY OF SOME DESCENDANTS OF EDWARD FULLER OF THE MAYFLOWER, by William Hyslop Fuller, of Palmer, Mass. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 306, with Index. Press of C. B. Fiske & Co. 1908.

Edward Fuller, the immigrant, was a son of Robert Fuller of Redenhall, Co. of Norfolk, England, and is mentioned in his father's will, a facsimile copy of which is produced in this work, and while he may have been an armiger, no direct proof has as yet appeared giving him the right to bear arms.

His numerous descendants are admirably traced out, and the lines of descent set forth briefly and compactly. High praise should be accorded the compiler for a most excellent system of genealogical numeration and for confining the pedigrees given to exact data, without diffuse and unnecessary biographical and traditional details. The book is a scholarly production, finely printed, illustrated and bound, and may well serve as a model for those attempting to put together their family history. The searcher is not inflicted with theoretical or peculiar genealogical notation, but is enabled at a glance to turn to such lines as may interest him, and is not burdened with long descriptions of homesteads or commonplace facts.

This work is properly a genealogy, and as such is a necessary addition to the collections of any library of note throughout the land.

COL. DAVID FANNING'S NARRATIVE, with an Introduction and Notes by A. W. Savary. Cloth, Large Octavo, pp. 55. Reprinted from the Canadian Magazine, Toronto, Canada. 1908.

In this diary Col. David Fanning of North Carolina, personally sets out his exploits and adventures as a Loyalist, and for the first time the manuscript has been accurately printed in this interesting book. American writers have repeatedly attacked the character and reputation of Col. Fanning, and attributed to him vices and crimes which existed only in the minds of the patriots who were his opponents. Any Loyalist during the Revolutionary War was treated by the patriotic party with peculiar opprobrium and considered to be without the pale of civilization.

Mr. Savary has earned well deserved praise in placing before the public the complete narrative uncurtailed or expurgated and explained by a series of valuable notes. It was a happy thought to place in permanent library form this remarkable magazine article, and it is from such writings as these that an accurate history of the War of Independence can eventually be compiled, with justice to both Patriot and Tory.

MEMOIRS OF THE GRAHAM FAMILY. Annie Kendrick Walker. New York. Tobias A. Wright. 1908. 12D, Boards, pp. 35.

This exceedingly attractive little brochure, in its demure brown binding, charmingly illustrated with quaint portraits, sets forth the life of a wealthy Tennessee family in the good old days. The Grahams had their immediate origin in Ireland, and Hugh Graham, the American Ancestor, came to this country at the age of fourteen, and settled in Tazewell, Tennessee, where he built his homestead, "Castle Rock." From this family descended the wife of the American Minister to Constantinople, the Baroness Kavanaugh-Ballyane and the Princess de Liguori de Pdesicci.

NEW YORK HISTORICAL SOCIETY, COLLECTIONS 1902. Abstracts of Unrecorded Wills prior to 1790, on file in the Surrogate Office, City of New York. Volume XI. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 256. Full Index. Printed for the Society, New York. 1903.

No more important contribution to the genealogical history of this city could be made than this volume of unrecorded wills, all of which were found in the Surrogate Office by Mr. William S. Pelletreau, and the insertion of facsimiles of rare autographs make it doubly valuable.

The wills of Henricus Selyns, 1700, one of the early ministers of the Dutch Church; Samuel Sands, 1713; Anthony Brockbolst, 1710; Jacob Walton, 1749; Jacob Boelen, 1725; James Livingston, 1763; Jacob Walton, 1782; Martha Mortier, 1786; Maria Barclay, 1788, and Teunis Somarindyk, are peculiarly interesting and their discovery and preservation must be gratifying to their descendants in this city and state.

Next to actual Heraldic Visitations and Ancient Pedigree Charts, the public records contain the greatest material for genealogical study and this series of the Historical Society will prove invaluable when, time, fire or the elements have ruined or destroyed the ancient records.

NEW YORK HISTORICAL SOCIETY, COLLECTIONS 1901. Abstract of Wills on file in the Surrogate Office, City of New York, Volume X, Oct. 23, 1708-Nov. 5, 1782. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 346. Full Index. Printed for the Society, New York. 1902.

This volume is a continuation of the admirable series of digests of wills published by the New York Historical Society, and covers an interesting period of the Revolutionary War. It is printed and bound uniform with the preceding volumes of this series, and will be a treasure trove of information to those whose ancestors were in this city at that period. It is published "in Memoriam" of Eugene Augustus Hoffman, President of the Society 1901-1902, and the expense of preparing and publishing the volume has been provided for by Mrs. Eugene A. Hoffman. The Historical Society is fortunate in being able to edit and publish a work of this character through the generosity of the Hoffman family.

HISTORY AND GENEALOGY OF THE JEWETTS OF AMERICA, a record of Edward Jewett, of Bradford, West Riding of Yorkshire, England, and of his two emigrant sons, Deacon Maximilian and Joseph Jewett, Settlers of Rowley, Massachusetts, in 1639. Also of Abraham and John Jewett, early settlers of Rowley, and of the Jewetts who have settled in the United States since the year 1800, by Frederick Clarke Jewett, M. D. In Two Volumes. Cloth, Large Octavo, pp. 1197. Illustrated and fully Indexed. The Grafton Press, New York. 1908.

In 1855, a meeting of those who bore the name of Jewett was held in Rowley, at which steps were taken to collect and preserve the fast disappearing records of this representative family, but it was reserved for Dr. Jewett to hand down to posterity a family genealogy of which one and all may well feel proud.

All the Jewetts in the country sprang from Edward Jewett, Clothier, of Bradford, Co. York., England, who married Mary, daughter of William Taylor, except four families who came from England subsequent to 1800 and who are, undoubtedly, of the same family originally.

The work appears to be exhaustive of the name in this country, and any one of the great number of descendants can be readily found, owing to the admirable arrangement, following the best standard genealogical system. The stupendous nature of the author's task can be realized from the number given to the last child recorded in Volume II, viz.: 11,042. The biography of each head of a family is concisely told, and throughout the two volumes the reader is impressed with elimination of unnecessary detail and tradition hypotheses of descent. In regard to the right to bear arms, the author states in his preface: "The arms borne by him" (Edward Jewett) "and which were brought to this country by Deacon Maximilian and Joseph Jewett, and which they were so careful to preserve on the records here," but a careful examination of the data given concerning the father and the two emigrant sons does not disclose in what shape, how or where any such arms were preserved. It may be the seals on the wills of Deacon Maximilian and Joseph Jewett bore an impress of the arms claimed, but it is not so stated and if so, it is to be regretted that a photographic reproduction of the seal is not given.

The book is finely printed and sensibly bound for service, and should be included in the collection of every large public library.

TRANSACTIONS OF THE KANSAS STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY, 1907-1908. Edited by Geo. W. Martin, Secretary. Vol. X. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 767. Full Index. Press of the State Printing Office, Topeka. 1907.

This volume embraces addresses at the Annual Meetings, The Centennial of Zebulon Montgomery Pike's visit, including a review of one hundred years under the flag; Fiftieth Anniversary of the First Free State Territorial Legislature, 1857; Also the First State Legislature and the Session of 1868; The Disappearing Indians; The Soldiers of Kansas; Floods in the Missouri's River; and interesting Personal Narratives. The greater part of the volume is taken up with valuable contributions concerning the early history of the State, and while but little matter of genealogical character is found among its pages, the material will prove a veritable mine for those who write up the biographies of early citizens of the State. The accounts of the early Legislatures and of the Indian Wars are particularly interesting, inasmuch as they are told by actual participants, and many details would have been forever lost to posterity but for the effort of the Historical Society to collect, preserve and print these tales of the pioneers. The volume is well printed and bound, reflects high credit upon its editor, and almost needless to add, will prove a welcome and necessary addition to the shelves.

HISTORY AND GENEALOGY OF THE FAMILIES OF MILLER, WOODS, HARRIS, WALLACE, MAUPIN, OLDFHAM, KAVANAGH AND BROWN, WITH NOTES OF THE FAMILIES OF DABNEY, REID, MARTIN, BROADDUS, GENTRY, JARMAN, JAMESON, BALLARD, MULLINS, MICHIE, MOBERLY, COVINGTON, BROWNING, DUNCAN, YANCEY AND OTHERS, by W. H. Miller. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 7-8. With full Index, pp. 127. Press of the Transylvania Co., Lexington, Ky. 1907.

Considering the mass of data collected and the difficulty of arriving at any condensed system of recording the facts concerning so many different families, the author has accomplished wonders, and while his compilation is not in regular genealogical form, by an unusually clear and complete index, he has made the searcher's task comparatively an easy one. Like all American families the Millers are of many nationalities, and the various lines are traced out with a wealth of detail not only admirably arranged, but well set forth in readable form. The patient and persistent research expended upon this volume excites admiration, and its author deserves every success in his effort to leave a permanent record of his ancestors.

The traditions of the Maupin family and its French origin are particularly valuable, and undoubtedly will aid many of the name in tracing out their forebears. The typography is excellent; a trifle small, but this could not be avoided in order to embrace all the material in one volume.

THE NORTHRUP-NORTHROP GENEALOGY—A record of the known descendants of Joseph Northrup, who came from England in 1637, and was one of the original settlers of Milford, Conn., in 1639, with lists of Northrups and Northrops in the Revolution. By A. Judd Northrup, LL.D., of Syracuse, N. Y. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 461. Full Index. The Grafton Press, New York. 1908.

While the spellings of the name of Northrup have been many and varied, the ancestor of this branch of the family in the earliest documents of records, always writes himself as Joseph Northrup. He is supposed to have come from Yorkshire, though this is exceedingly doubtful, as many of like name, spelled somewhat differently are found in Hertfordshire and Kent. The original immigrant was one of Eaton and Davenport's company, sailing from England in the ships Hector and Martin in 1637. This company settled in New Haven in 1638, but many members later affiliated with Sir Richard Saltonstall's Company and moved to Milford, Conn., about 1639.

Joseph Northrup married Mary, daughter of Francis Norton and became the father of eight children, who in turn left numerous descendants. The author displays much patience, care and skill in gathering and setting forth his facts, and has put together an excellent family record. The addition of such data as he obtained concerning the connected families of like name and the Revolutionary records, make the book complete and extremely useful to those who are searching to place ancestors of this name. The standard system of recording is employed, which will commend the book to all practical genealogists. The name of its publisher is enough to insure proper typography and binding, and Mr. Northrup is to be congratulated upon so thorough and useful a family history. It may safely be stated that if genealogies are continued to be collected and published on the lines of this volume, in a few years the libraries of this country will possess unsurpassed collections in this line of research.

THE HISTORY OF ORANGE COUNTY, NEW YORK. Edited by Russel Headley. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 997. Index. Press of Van Deusen & Elms, Middletown, N. Y. 1908.

This work fills a long felt want and presents an accurate and comprehensive history not only of the County of Orange, its settlements, early government, events of the French and Indian, and the Revolutionary and Civil Wars, and the legal, medical and journalistic celebrities of the county, but a detailed sketch of each of the towns contained within its boundaries. Necessarily the main facts of interest from about 1775 to the present time occupy the largest portion of the book, and the biographies printed deal with living representatives of the county, but the pages contain abundant material for the genealogist and authentic lists of the early grantees, military levies and organizations. Mr. Headley shows clear insight and grasp of his subject, and has carried out a difficult task with ability and credit not only to his intelligence and industry, but to the honor of one of the oldest counties in the State of New York. The work is splendidly illustrated with a number of steel engraved portraits and half tone plates of persons and places of interest, and while it must be regretted that no exhaustive index has been made, this lack can be attributed to the great cost in time and labor such an index would require. The history will take its place among the best of kindred works on the State Counties and go far to perfect the record of what may justly be called the Empire State.

THE DESCENDANTS OF JOHN POTTER, by Mr. Wayland Manning. Paper, Octavo, pp. 28, with Index. Privately printed. 1906.

This small pamphlet is a record of the descendants of John Potter, son of James Potter, of Mount Potter and Catharine, daughter of Sir John Stewart, of Ballymoran, County Down, Ireland, born April 12, 1765, who immigrated to Charleston, S. C., in 1784, married Catharine Fuller and removed to Princeton, N. J., in 1824, where he died in 1848.

Among the more prominent families related are those of Conger, Cuyler, Dod, Higginson, Langhorne, Pyne and Stockton, and the vital statistics collected will be of much service to any descendant contemplating a full genealogy of the family.

GENEALOGY OF THE CORTLAND COUNTY, N. Y. BRANCH OF THE SANDERS FAMILY, by Dr. Charles W. Sanders. Cloth, Quarto, pp. 101, with Chart. Press of Meyer Bros., New York, N. Y.

John Sanders of Weeks, Downton Parish, Wiltshire, England, who came to Salem in 1630, was the founder of the American branch of the family, and that he was entitled to bear coat of armor is clearly shown by the will of his grandson, Capt. John Sanders of Salem, who died in 1694. This will was sealed with wax upon which is an impression of a seal bearing an elephant's head, side view, which is the crest of the Sanders Arms, as borne by the English family of that name of Buckinghamshire, Northamptonshire and Wiltshire, England. The lines of descent are tersely set down to the present day, but the work is more of the nature of a skeleton pedigree than a detailed family history. It is illustrated with good wood cut portraits, but neither arranged genealogically nor indexed. It is hoped that these notes may bring to light additional data and result in a more complete genealogy. The book is clearly printed and has many pages for added notes.

A BOOK OF STRATTONS, by Harriet Russell Stratton. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 350. Full Index. The Grafton Press, New York. 1908.

This monumental work is a collection of Stratton Records from England and Scotland, and a genealogical history of the early Colonial Strattons in America with five generations of their descendants, and is to be supplemented later by a second volume containing the generations down to the present day. The compiler belongs to the rare class of born historians and genealogists, and in this work evidences ability of the highest order, not only in the selection and digestion of material, but in the systematic arrangement, following the best system of genealogical nomenclature. The idea of recording every item of importance concerning all the immigrants of the same name is not new, but is almost never attempted because of the immensity of the task, and the courage, energy and genealogical acumen displayed in this book, makes it an unusual and almost unique work. Especially fine is the record of research in the English probate offices, parish and church registers and among the Heraldic Visitations and Pedigrees.

No claim to coat armor or ancient pedigree is made without absolute proof of the right of descent, and the frankness of the compiler in declining to assume ancient lineage on mere tradition or similarity of name, is refreshing in this age of false armorial pretense and abstraction. A list of 16 early Colonial Strattons known to be immigrants is given, and the descendants of 13 of these are traced out to the extent of over 3000. The illustrations of the ancient homes of the Strattons, with photographic reproductions of old documents, records and tombstones, and facsimile copies of signatures, are wonderfully well done and add great interest to the text.

The best of taste is shown in the printing and binding of the volume, and the Grafton Press should be given warm praise for so excellent a publication.

It deserves a place in every historical library interested in keeping pace with modern genealogical research and publications.

LIFE IN OLD VIRGINIA, by James J. McDonald. Edited by J. A. C. Chandler, Cloth, Small Octavo, pp. 374, Unindexed. Press of The Old Virginia Publishing Co. (Inc.), Norfolk, Va. 1907.

The history of the early colony of Virginia has been so often and so admirably written that further works upon this subject would appear superfluous, except they contain original material gleaned from recently discovered records and manuscripts. Mr. McDonald has collected together a series of chapters upon historical subjects which are readable, and has filled the book with photographic productions of persons, places and things of local interest. Its value will be in the preservation of odd bits of information, rather than any genealogical discoveries or records.

THE WITCHCRAFT DELUSION IN COLONIAL CONNECTICUT, 1647-1697, by John M. Taylor. Cloth, Small Octavo, pp. 172, with Index. The Grafton Press. 1908.

No delusion in the history of peoples is of greater psychological interest than that of witchcraft, and so early and anciently was this fear of powers unnatural instilled into human minds that the Code of Hammurabi, digested 2250 B. C. contains provisions against the makers and casters of spells. The wave of superstition that swept Colonial Salem in 1692 was but the aftermath of the greater and more widespread frenzy against magic practice in the Motherland. It was inevitable that the Massachusetts persecutions should be imitated in the other Colonies, and the wonder and shame rests in the fact that reputable men, of education and intelligence, should so drift with the tide of folly and actively aid in the legal commission of crime.

Mr. Taylor has compiled from ancient documents a most valuable record of the Connecticut prosecutions and executions of so-called witch-wives. The quaint and curious language and form of the depositions of witnesses are accurately transcribed and the list of the unfortunate appears to be as accurate as time, research and labor can make it. The date and name of the first victim in New England, who paid the penalty to the superstition of witch-craft, has been disclosed by the author's efforts, and in Matthew Grant's diary can be read; "May 26, 1647, Aise Young was hanged" in Windsor, Connecticut. This is an important discovery and Mr. Taylor is entitled to the highest credit for his solution of a long sought for and vexatious problem. The book is exhaustive on its subject and will become a standard work of reference. In typography, material and binding, the work maintains the exacting standard of The Grafton Press, and deserves the attention of historians.

PEDIGREE CHARTS.

THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY
 226 West 58th Street, New York.

This Society has for sale official forms of genealogical charts called "Register of Pedigrees." These registers are of two varieties, called "single" and "double" charts. They are each paper covered books of 11 x 16 inches in size, properly ruled and printed for the insertion of names of ancestors in successive generations. The single charts consist of 17 pages, and when filled in will give all of the ancestors in all ramifications for 9 generations, arranged so that the family name of each of the 16 great-great-grandparents occupies a page. Family names appear on the marginal index which is formed by the indentation of each leaf. The back of each leaf is arranged for special memoranda concerning the persons named on the page facing it.

The double charts are practically two single charts combined. The object being to devote the first half of the chart to the registration of the complete pedigree of the male line, the second half for a like registration of the female line, and the double chart therefore provides for the registration of 10 generations in both male and female lines.

The price of these charts to members of this Society is as follows:

Single Charts, 75 cts. Double Charts, $1.50

To those who are not members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.00 Double Charts, $2.00

Members of the Society, or others who purchase these Charts and fill them in as fully as possible and present them to the Librarian of the Society for filing in the Society's Library, will receive a new one in exchange therefor without additional cost. These charts may be purchased by application to the Librarian.

It is the desire of the Trustees that the members will supply themselves with these registers, fill them out as far as possible and file them with the Society. When received these will be bound in volumes, fully indexed, and will thus form a record of inestimable value to the Society.

Those who have in their possession full information as to their individual ancestry are especially urged to obtain these Charts, fill them in and file them with the Society, as information of this nature is very frequently lost to posterity owing to negligence on the part of those possessing it to make record thereof, in special depositories provided for that purpose.

OUR EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT

is equipped to undertake any commission, however large or small, and whether genealogical or general in character. We guarantee to satisfy our customers. A few hints as to what we can and are doing in the genealogical line—

Collect the material and write a genealogy from the beginning to the end.

Complete a partly finished manuscript, no matter what stage it is in. Take loose data and put it in perfect condition for printing.

Edit a completed manuscript, supplying the numbering, arrangement, style or good English.

Prepare the index of names, and of places, or both.

Or do anything whatever might be necessary. And we will gladly show examples of our work in all these lines.

AS TO GENERAL WORK—

We have indexed, rearranged, edited, and prepared for publication many manuscripts. For the committee in charge of the New Milford (Connecticut) Bi-Centennial celebration (1907) we took entire charge of their memorial book. The exercises occupied five days and two members of our staff attended and prepared a full account of all of the meetings, including the speeches. The townspeople contributed several articles, and we put the whole into perfect form for printing, submitted the manuscript to the committee and when they had passed upon it we printed and published a handsome and creditable volume.

It costs nothing to consult us and to consider our plan for making any book you may have in mind. Our prices are reasonable and are based on the services rendered. References given if desired.

HENRY REED STILES, A. M., M.D.

One of the founders of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society.

BY TOBIAS A. WRIGHT.

To those who enjoyed the honor of his friendship his death recalls the delightful memory of a refined and noble character. Endowed with the attributes of a graceful and cultured personality, gifted in a high degree with the power to acquire and transmit knowledge through the medium of his published writings, he became the associate and friend of the leading scientists and teachers of his day. They welcomed him to their ranks and the doors of their institutes were opened wide to him. His ready pen advanced the cause of associations and societies formed for the welfare and elevation of mankind, and he was present at the very inception and birth of many of them, our own Genealogical Society being among the number.

Few men possessed greater ability in collecting and conserving the vital statistics and primitive history of New York and New England than Dr. Stiles. While following his chosen profession of physician for a livelihood, it is safe to say that more than one half his life was spent in historical and genealogical work, for which he received no pecuniary compensation. We might even marvel at the number and extent of the publications that came from his pen, though his whole time had been given to this work. His industry, exemplary life and unselfish interest in his fellow man made him much beloved. To the average New Englander it is nobility enough to prove his own descent from one of the Pilgrim Fathers; he made it possible for thousands to trace their ancestry to the founders of our American Government and to honored names in the older governments of the world.

Dr. Stiles descended through a long line of plain Connecticut farmers from John Stiles, a first settler of Windsor in 1636.* His father, Samuel Stiles, a bank note and map engraver, settled about 1830 in New York City, where his eldest son, Henry Reed, was born March 10, 1832. He began his education at the Grammar School of the University of the City of New York; entered freshman at the University in 1848, and sophomore at Williams College, Mass., in 1849. Ill health prevented his graduation there, but in 1876 he received the degree of A. M. from that college. He studied medicine at the Medical Department of the University of the City of New York, graduating in 1855; as also in same year from the New York Ophthalmic Hospital.

He practiced for a few months in New York City; then in Galena, Ill., with a partner, Dr. Timothy M. Wilcox; married in Jan., 1856, and removed shortly after to Toledo, Ohio, where for a few months he edited the Toledo Blade (daily and weekly), and in July of same year removed to Brooklyn, N. Y. In 1857 and '58 he was a member of the firm of Calkins & Stiles, publishers of educational works, and of the American Journal of Education. From 1858 to 1861 he practiced his profession in Brooklyn, and in 1861 removed to Woodbridge, N. J., where he continued in active practice until May, 1863, when his literary tendencies again prevailing he accepted the position of Librarian to the Long Island Historical Society at Brooklyn, of which organization he was one of the founders and a member of the first Board of Trustees named in the act of incorporation. Resigning this position in 1865, he engaged in literary pursuits until in February, 1868, when he was appointed to a clerkship in the Bureau of Vital Statistics in the Brooklyn office of the Metropolitan Board of Health. Two months later he was made chief clerk of the Brooklyn office, which position he retained until the abolition of the Metropolitan Commission in 1870. He was then immediately appointed Sanitary (Medical) Inspector in the newly organized Board of Health of N. Y. City, and served as such in the 2d, 4th and 6th Wards until July, 1873, when he was appointed Medical Superintendent of the State Homeopathic Asylum for the Insane at Middletown, N. Y. He there superintended the erection of the first two asylum buildings, organized the asylum service, and placed the institution on the foundation of success as the first homeopathic insane asylum in the world under government control. Resigning his position here in 1877, he removed with his family to Dundee, Scotland, where he had been called to take charge of the Dundee Homeopathic Dispensary, then under the presidency of Lord Kinnaird, where he remained until 1881, when he was obliged by his own and his wife's health to return to America. Here he engaged in consultation with his old friend Dr. Frederick Humphreys in New York City. In 1888 he removed to Hill View on the shore of Lake George, N. Y., where he had a private establishment for the cure of mental and nervous diseases, but continued his association in N. Y. City until about 1901, when he gave up professional work here and devoted all his time to completing and preparing for publication his great work, the History of Wethersfield, Ct., which was published in two large volumes.

As far back as 1859 Dr. Stiles published his History and Genealogies of Ancient Windsor, Ct., and in 1861 a Supplement to the same; also a monograph on Bundling in America. In 1863 he published the genealogy of the Massachusetts Family of Stiles; in 1865 he was an active member of the "Faust Club" which published limited and choice editions of Wood's History of Long Island, and of Farman's Notes on Brooklyn, N. Y. (the latter being fully annotated by Dr. Stiles). In 1865 he issued (limited edition) two volumes relating to the sufferings and experiences of the prison ship captives in Wallabout Bay, under the title of The Wallabout Prisonship Series, and also edited The Genealogy of the Stranahan and Josslyn Families.

In 1867 he issued the first volume of his History of the City of Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1869 the second, and in 1870 the third. This work placed him in the foremost rank of historical writers, and is a lasting monument to his fame. It is remarkable that a man whose ancestors were English and who had previously no acquaintance, and (as he admitted to the writer) little sympathy with the Dutch element of our early beginning as a nation, should have chosen this stamping ground of the Dutchman, this city that they founded, as a subject upon which to spend years of the most indefatigable investigation and painstaking research, and make their history his crowning work. Surely the citizens of old Brooklyn owe him a lasting debt of gratitude. He wrote a Life of Abraham Lincoln (1865); 22 of the 56 biographies in The Men of Our Day (1868), one or two campaign biographies of Gen. U. S. Grant, and portions of many other subscription books. Among his numerous contributions to newspapers and magazines are sketches of publishers in the Round Table for 1866-7; papers in the Historical Magazine, of which he was editor; letters and historical sketches in the Rahway Times (N. J.), under the nom-de-plume of "Tip Top." In 1884 he edited and largely contributed to the Illustrated History of the County of Kings and the City of Brooklyn, 2 vols., quarto, and in 1887 completed the editing of the Humphrey Family Genealogy.

He was a member of the Kings County, Orange and New York County Societies, State Homeopathic Medical Society, New York Medico-Legal Society; of the Clinical Club; was one of the organizers and first members of the Public Health Association of New York City, and a founder and officer of the Society for Promoting the Welfare of the Insane in N. Y. City; a special lecturer on Hygiene and Sanitary Science in the N. Y. Homeopathic Medical College, and Professor of Mental and Nervous Diseases in the N. Y. Woman's Medical College and Hospital. He was a member (and for eight years Recording Secretary) of the American Ethnological Society; of the Dorchester (Mass.) Historical and Antiquarian Society; the New England Historical-Genealogical Society of Boston, Mass.; the State Historical Society of Wisconsin; the Niagara Historical Society; the Numismatic and Antiquarian Society of Philadelphia, and of the American Philological Society of New York. In 1869 he was one of the organizers of the (now defunct) American Anthropological Institute, and in the same year one of the seven founders of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, and its President from 1869 to 1873; first editor and a frequent contributor to the RECORD, its quarterly magazine. He was also a Life Member of the Long Island Historical Society, and an Honorary Member of the Northwestern Literary and Historical Society of Sioux City, Iowa.

At one period Dr. Stiles was much interested in the subject and philosophy of Freemasonry, in which he took all the degrees of the New York Rite, and all of those in the Scottish Rite, up to and including the Thirty-second Degree.

In bearing he was dignified, but his great kindly nature glowed through the reserve like a burst of sunshine, lighting the way to the hearts of his associates and friends. His quick wit and quaint humor made him a most delightful companion. After retirement to his country seat and when the physical infirmities of age were bearing heavily upon him he kept up a cheerful correspondence with friends, often illustrating his letters with humorous sketches and cartoons, in the art of which he was, like Thackeray, a master.

In religion he was brought up a Presbyterian in the Old Spring Street Church in New York City, of which his father was an elder, but while in Scotland entered the communion of the Catholic Apostolic Church, and his creed was so broad that he considered not the faults of men, but loved them for their virtues.

In 1856 Dr. Stiles married Sarah Ann Woodward, dau. of Rev. Charles Moore Woodward. Mrs. Stiles died in 1903. Their surviving children are Dr. Chas. Butler Stiles and Mrs. Elliott (Stiles) Truesdale, wife of Fred. E. Truesdale of Hill View, N. Y.

RESOLUTION adopted by the Board of Trustees of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society on the occasion of the death of Dr. Henry Reed Stiles, Jan. 7, 1909:

"The Board of Trustees of this Society record this tribute to the memory of Henry Reed Stiles, A.M., M.D.: That he gave a life to the cause of Education, to Genealogy, to the ennoblement of the standards of his profession and to civic righteousness."

CLUES FROM ENGLISH ARCHIVES CONTRIBUTORY TO AMERICAN GENEALOGY.

BY J. HENRY LEA AND J. R. HUTCHINSON.

It is well known that the English records contemporary with the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers contain a wealth of information concerning the family history of the early colonists, not only of the New England but of the Southern settlements. The searchers of the Probate and Chancery Records, Feet of Fines, Manorial Court and Plea Rolls, Inquisitions Post Mortem, Star Chamber Court, Ship Money Tax, Subsidies and Parish Registers have found these documents a veritable treasure mine of genealogical information. It is proposed in this and succeeding articles to extract, digest and place before the reading public as much of this invaluable matter as can be found from the period of 1600-1675, exclusive of what has already been published, and to thus establish beyond reasonable doubt the kinship of many of the early American families with their English ancestors.

29 July, 1655, I Sir EDMUND PLOWDEN of Wansted, co. Southampton, Knight, Lord Earle Palatine, Governor and Captaine Generall of the Province of New Albion in America, and a peere of the Kingdome of Ireland, being in perfect health of body. To be buried in Lidbury church in Shropshire, in the Chappell of the Plowdens, neere Plowden, with a monument of Stone with brasse plate engraved with my Armes and Inscription and brasse plates of my eighteen children, affixed to ye said monument at thirty or forty pounds charges, together with my p'fect pedigre as is drawne at my house. To the eleven parishes in Hampshire, Sussex and Shropshire wherin my lands lye 40s. each. To Mr Edward Weedon late of Aston on the Walls, Northants, £40 for pious uses. And whereas my eldest son Francis Plowden hath been extremely disobedient and vndutifull vnto me for these eighteen yeares past, setting division, strife and debate between me his father and my wife his own mother, whereby many yeares, suites, scandall and greate expences have been expended and she carryed away and hid from me, with diverse of my cattle and goods purloined by them, and by their practises I was wrongfully and cruelly imprisoned in the flecte vntill by the Pords Peeres Committees in Parliament about fifteen yeares since I was freed, and she ordered to returne and cohabite with me, my said son being specially forbid to meddle with my estate or rents did nevertheless when I was in Ireland report I was dead and took diverse of my rents . . . riotously and forcibly . . . and brake upp my closet and took away or lost one deed of revocation of Submission to Arbitrators betwixt me and my father and one Bond of £400, for want of which, and other sinister practices of him and his mother, I was barred of £10,000 due to me from my father, and since my residing in America and Albion six yeares, my said son being expressly forbidden my house and lands . . . did nevertheless many yeares reside in my house at Wansted and forcibly received my rents and stocks, giving out I was dead, and by acting therein . . . and his mother's practise to sequester my estate in my absence in America, I am barred of six yeares rent and engaged in many suits to recover my estate, so as by his vndutifull carriage I have been damnified by him, in these last eighteen yeares time, fifteen thousand pounds, and his mother being a mutable woman and by him alienated in affection from me, and set on in a new suite scandallously and wickedly to refuse to cohabite and live with me, but to sue for alimony, and forcibly to kepe my house etc. to the value of three hundred pounds, and secretly to pilfer, steal and sell my goods, though since the said Peeres order she had a child by me, And whereas by mediation of friends, and to winne him by kindnesse, five yeares since I received him to my house for two full yeares, in which tyme he could not be brought to acknowledge his greivous offences, and hath threatened to shorten my life, and hath basely married his mother's chambermaid after having had an illegitimate child by her, Therefore I think him not fitt to make mine heire nor any of his issue by . . . his nowe wife soe meanly borne, And I think it fitt that my English lands shall be vnitd to my Honor, County Palatine, and Province of New Albion, and doe conceive that his mother will sufficiently provide for him, to whom I leave five hundred pounds a yeare in lands and jointure for her life, namely Wansted and all other lands heretofore her father Mr Peter Mariner's, which I purchased of her and her mother . . . and walled out the sea and improved the lands, in all neare £4,000 charges, and payments to her mother, who lived twenty yeares afterwards; which lands, with Herriard Grange and parsonage in Hampshire, I doe confirm to my wife for her life, on condition that neither she nor my son Francis oppose this my will or sell any of the said lands. To my wife £150 in household stuff, to be vsed in my Manor house of Wansted. To my daughter Winifred Plowden the lease I have made her for one and twenty yeares of Bedenham Farme. To my son Thomas his daughter £300 out of Stansted lease lands. I devise all my lease land in England to be sold and with the proceeds free lands to be bought and entailed as the rest of my lands are. To Thomas my son and Thomasine his wife all such estates as I have assured to them vpon their marriage. To Anne, wife of one Carter in Barkshire, if she be living, or else to her children—she being the daughter of one Thomas James of Burfield—£10. And whereas I am seised of the Province and County Palatine of New Albion as of free Principality, and held of the Crowne of Ireland . . . and of the Manor and capitall message of Wansted, the moiety of the Manor of Bedenham, and of diverse lands in Hampshire, and of the Manor of Stackstedd in Farley, etc., all which are entailed on my second son Thomas and the heirs males of his body, with diverse remainders over vnto my brother Francis and his son Edmund, Nowe in accordance with the powers to me reserved in the said settlement I doe annul all the said remainders, and doe devise all the said Province, Manors, lands, etc. vnto my son Thomas for the term of his naturall life, with remainder therein to his heires males, or in default of such to my nephew Edmund Plowden for life, with remainder to his heires males, or in default of such to the heires males of my son Francis not begotten on the body of his nowe wife Margaret, or in default to Winifred my daughter for life, with remainder to her heirs males, soe as they stile themselves by the name of Plowden. To my sister Dame Anne Lake and others, golde rings. Executor in trust, Henry Sharpe, my late servant. Overseer, Benedict Hall, Esq., my kinsman, or, if he be dead, his eldest son my cousin. I appoint as my Trustee for the planting, fortifying, peopling and stocking of this my Province of New Albion, Sir William Mason of Grey's Inn, Knt., who shall summon all my undertakers to transplant thither and there to settle their number of men which such of my estate yearly can transplant, namely, Lord Monson, 50; Lord Sherrard, 100; Sir Thomas

Danby, 100; Captain Batts his heir, 100; Mr. Eltonhead, a Master in Chancery, 50; his eldest brother Eltonhead, 50; Mr. Bowles, late Clerk of the Crown, 40; Captaine Cleybourne in Virginia, 50; Viscount Muskery, 50; and many others in England, Virginia and New England subscribed, and by direction in my manuscript bookes since I resided sixe yeares there, and of policie and government there, and of the best seats, profits, mines, rich trade of furr, and wares, and fruits, wine, worme silke and grasse silke, fish and beastes there, rice and flodable ground for rice, flax, naples, hempe, barley and corne twoe cropps yearly. To build Churches and Schools there, and to indeavour to convert the Indians there to Christianity, and to settle there my family, kindred and posterity. (Signed) Albion. Witnesses, W. H. Smith, R. Minshull, Gilbert Jones, George Penne, Fr: Ewre of Bucknall in Oxfordshire near Brackley, Philip Clarke late Bayly of Ludlo, Roger Raven of Andover, gent, Evan Griffith my clarke, Anthony Foxcrofte of Halifax in Yorkshire. Proved 27 July, 1659, by Henry Sharpe, executor in trust. (P. C. C. Pell 432.)

This long and interesting will of the unfortunate emulator of Smith and Raleigh in the endeavor to found a colony on the Delaware, is of much value, not only as confirming such historical records as exist regarding him but also in furnishing details, hitherto unknown, in the life of this most strenuous and turbulent gentleman. Born of one of the most ancient of English families, the Plowdens of Plowden, in Salop., who had been there seated before the earliest extant records, his first known ancestor was Roger Plowden who accompanied King Richard to Palestine in the 12th Century. He was himself grandson of the eminent jurist of his own name,* by his second but only surviving son, Francis Plowden, Esq., whose second son he was.†

He married, about 1610, Mabel,‡ daughter of Peter Mariner of Wanstead, Hants., a lady who brought him an ample jointure but, we fear, little domestic peace or happiness, and, although she bore him eighteen children, as we learn by his will, he was twice divorced from her and spent two years or more in the Fleet prison rather than pay her alimony,§ while in his will he makes a scathing arraignment of her conduct, tempered by an ample provision for her future.

His life seems to have been an adventurous one: in 1634 he was in Ireland, as we learn from the Visitation of Oxon. for that year.¶ In 1642 he came with Evelin to Virginia, and in 1643 with two faithful retainers, was marooned on Smith's Island, off the coast, by his mutinous crew¶ of servants, from which he was rescued by a passing vessel, and fell into the hands of the Swedish

Governor on the Delaware. He had had four years' travel in Germany, France, Italy and Belgium, served as an officer five years in Ireland and had been seven years in America before 1648.*

The son, Thomas Plowden, seems to have inherited under the will of his father and his own will, proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury in 1698, and the certified verbatim copy of the Patent to New Albion may be found in the article by Prof. G. B. Keen in the Pennsylvania Magazine in 1883.† His third son, Francis Plowden, succeeded his father by his will and came to America to prosecute his rights and died in Maryland. His descendants registered their pedigree in 1774 at the College of Arms in London, but the title of Earl of Albion was never assumed after 1659. There is no trace of any such earldom to be found in the Irish records either as Albion or Plowden.‡

I CHRISTOPHER LAWNE of Blanford in the Countie of Dorset, nowe lying in Charles Citie in Virginia, beyng sicke of bodie. My debts in Virginia and England first to be paid. I give to Anne Oliffe my daughter in lawe £50 at marriage, being her portion. To Robert Olife, being his portion, £20 at marriage. To my wife Susanna £30, to be paid unto her at the first sale of my goods now in Virginia to be sent into England. My will is that all my Bills of Adventure be discharged at the rate of fower for three. To my wife Susanna £20 a year for life out of my goods now to be sent out of Virginia into England. All the rest of my goods I give to my two sons Lovevell and Symon Lawne, whom I make my executors, the increase of my stock to be bestowed for their maintenance and bringing up in learning until they come to the age of fower and twentie yeares. I entreate my loving freinds Captaine Nathaniel Powle, Mr. Samuel Macocke and Captain Ralph Hamor to be Overseers of this my last will and my debts owing to pay and the remainder to send over into England to my loving Friends Mr Lawrence Anthony of the Poultrie in London, Mr Richard Ellis of St. Sythinges Lane in London, Mr John White of Ockford in Dorset, and Mr Wm Willis of Moore in Dorset, whom I request to be Overseers of this my will. I give power to my overseers in Virginia to sell all my goods there and to send the proceeds, together with the rest of my Tobacco and Sasafras, unto my overseers in England. Dated 2 Nov., 1619. Witnesses, Nathaniel West, Pharao Flynton. 17 June, 1620, commission to William Willis, one of the supervisors, to administer during the minority of Lovewell and Simon Lawne, sons of deceased. (P. C. C. Soame 56.)

The testator was a very prominent and picturesque figure in the early history of the Puritan movement, joining the Brownists or Separatists, he repaired with them to Holland, and we find him there marrying, 6 Feb., 1610, to a Susanna,§ whose surname is not given in the record, but the internal evidence of the above will shows her to have been a widow of the name of Oliffe, with two unmarried children, Ann and Robert Oliffe, while he himself had also had two children by a former marriage. He was excommunicated in Jan., 1611-12, in company with John Fowler, Clement Sanders and Robert Bulward,* who united with him in the authorship of a fierce attack on their former associates which was issued in July, 1612, entitled "The Prophane Schisme of the Brownists," etc., and in May, 1613, followed this by "Brownisme turned inside out."†

He was sent out to Virginia by Richard Wiseman, Nathaniel Basse and others‡ and perhaps accompanied Sir Francis Blackwell in 1619§ although, as he represented his settlement (afterwards called the Isle of Wight Plantation) in the Assembly of Virginia in July of that year, it may have been earlier. The probate of his will informs us that he soon succumbed to the malarial climate of the Colony.

8 Julye, 1606, I RICHARD MODVE of Garesdon in the Countye of Wilts, Esquyer, being sicke in body. To be buried in the parish church of Gareston. And for soe much as I have already taken order for the disposing of my lands vnto mine heir, and for the meynテナunce of my wife, the greatest part of my goods I purpose to leave vnto my children. To my daughter Anne Modye £1500 over and above the £500 in the hands of Mr John Bancks of London. Poor of Gareston £20. Nephew Mr Richard Love, bachiler of divinitie, £20. Thomas Harrison in whose howse I nowe remaine, £3-6-8, to be paid before my body be removed out of his howse. Peeter Hawkins my man £6-13-8. Residuary leagtee, my sonne Sir Henry Modye, Knt., whome I make sole executor. Witnesses, Edward Underhill, William Bell, William Reddinge, John Hollway, Townclerke of Oxon. Proved 16 July, 1614, by the executor named. (P. C. C. Lawe 74.)

The testator was father of Sir Henry Moody of Garsdon, Knt. (the executor), who was created a Baronet 11 March, 1621-2, having been Sheriff of Wilts 1618-19, and M. P. 1625-26 and 1628-9. He married Deborah, daughter of Walter Dunch of Avebury, Wilts., by his wife Deborah, daughter of James Pilkington, Bishop of Durham, 20 Jan., 1605-6, and died 23 April, 1629. His widow, Lady Deborah, being a Puritan, came with their young son, Sir Henry Moody, Bart., to New England before 1638. They settled first at Lynn, but getting into trouble with the ecclesiastics, removed to Salem, and later, between 1646 and 1654, to Long Island, N. Y., where she became one of the patentees of Gravesend. She died before 11 May, 1659, when administration on her estate was granted to her son.¶

THE MATTHYSEN-BANCKERS OF SLEEPY HOLLOW.

BY EDW. DOUBLEDAY HARRIS.

The name of Laurens Matthÿzen first occurs in the records of the Dutch Church of New York, March 28, 1686, in connection with the baptism of his daughter Anneken. Thereafter, until his disappearance from the records in 1704, his surname appears as Matthÿzen, Matthÿszen, Mathÿse and Mathÿs.

The name, however, under one or the other of its diverse spellings, is found upon the church records at a much earlier date. May 28, 1651, Abraham and Isaac, sons of Anthony Matthÿszen, a negro, were baptized, followed in 1654 by Cosmus, and in the next year by Cecilia, of the same father. The parents were probably members of the free colored colony, rather than slaves owned by one of the burgomaster families of the town.

In 1662, Anna, daughter of Nicolaes Matthysz and Barentie Dircks, was baptized, but as subsequent baptisms of children of Cornelis and Barentie Dircks are recorded, it is probable that the scribe erred in the father's Christian name, and that Cornelius should be read for Nicholas in the first instance—particularly as "Cornelis Matthÿszen, van Stockholm, en Barentje Dircks, j. m. van Meppel," had been joined in marriage, Feb. 26, 1661. The children of this pair were (besides Anna, 1662) Matthys, 1665, Hendrick, 1669, Catharina, 1676, Sarah and Rachel, 1681. Cornelius appears also as a witness to the baptism of Barbertie, daughter of Jan Adamszen and Geertruyd Direks in 1666.

Annetje Matthys, the wife of Jan Hendrickszen, was the mother of a son Matthys, baptized in 1671. She was undoubtedly the young maid of Fort Orange who was married to Jan Hendricks at Kingston in 1668, and there resided.

One Jeams Matthyszen (and Matthys) was witness to baptisms in 1672 and 1677.

Lysbeth Matthys and Matthys Janszen had daughter Engeltje baptized in 1678.

The names of the witnesses in the various baptisms noted fail to suggest any connection between these Matthyszens and the Laurens Matthysen whose issue we attempt to follow. He might easily have been a son of Cornelius above, but nothing has been found to indicate any relationship with either the New York or Kingston families of the name.

The wife of Laurens' Matthysen was Janneken Hendricks. Their family record, as gathered from the baptismal book of the Dutch Church in New York, is as follows:

Anneken,⁹ of Laurens Matthyzen and Janneken Hendrixen, bap. March 28, 1686; wit.: Jan der Val and Catharina Van Cortlant.

Hendrick, of Laurens Matthyszen and Janneken Hendricks, bap. April 1, 1688; wit.: Stephanus Van Cortlant and Geertruyd Schuyler.

Maria, of Laurens Matthyszen and Janneken Hendrix, bap. March 25, 1691; wit.: Jan Hermanszen and Metje Hardenbroeck.

Rombout, of Laurens Matthyszen and Jannetje Hendrix, bap. May 17, 1696; wit.: Jacobus van Cortlandt and Catalina Van Cortlandt, the wife of Frederick Philipszen.

Fredrik, of Lourense Matthyse and Jannetje Hendrix, bap. May 22, 1698; wit.: Brant Schuyler and Catharina Cortlant.

The occurrence of the name of Philipse as a witness, suggesting an examination of the Sleepy Hollow records, the search there is rewarded by the discovery of this entry:

Adolff, of Lourens Mathyse and Jannitje, his wife, bap. —, 1701; wit.: Gerridt Van Weerdt and Catharina Phillips.

Then follows again in the New York records:

Rombout, of Louwerens Mathys and Niese de Groot, bap. Nov. 5, 1704; wit.: Philippus Van Cortlant and Catharina Philips, widow.

There is no further mention of Laurens Matthysen in connection with the Dutch Church of New York. But the Sleepy Hollow records continue the history. In 1705 he was a witness there at the baptisms of a child of Andries Van Dyk and his wife Geesje, and of a child of Lodewyck Ackerman and his wife Hillegond. Then follows:

Barber (Barbara), of Lourens Mathysse and Niese, his wife, bap. June 16, 1707; wit.: Bastiaen Michgelze and Galant, his wife.

In 1709 Lourens and his wife Niesje witnessed the baptism of a son of Andries Van Dyk and his wife Geesje. Then in 1711, comes this entry:

Johannes, of Louwrens Banckert and Niessje, his wife, bap. March 21, 1711; wit.: Abraham Van Dyck and Marytje de Groot.

And on the same day Louwrens and Niessje Bankert witnessed the baptism of Jenneke, the daughter of Hendrick Krankheyt and Antje, his wife. After the entry of 1709 the surname of Matthyse or Matthysen disappears forever from the Sleepy Hollow records, and Laurens Matthyse, his wife Niesse, and his children, thereafter are known as Banckens or Banckers. On 21st March, 1710, the son Hendrick "Bankert" and his sister Marytie (Maria) witnessed the baptism of Louwrens, the son of Hendrick Krankheyt, this being the earliest appearance of the name of Bancker, in any of its forms, upon the record. In the Register of Members of the Sleepy Hollow Church No. 57 is "Antje Banckert, wife of Henry Krankheyt," and Nos. 59 and 60 are "Lowrens Mathysse Banckert and Niese De Groot, his wife."

The church was organized in 1697, and was put under the pastoral care of Domine Bertholf of Hackensack, but the member list was not compiled until some years later, thus accounting for Laurens and Niese being recorded as Banckerts instead of Matthys.

In Dr. Cole's presentation of the old record book of the congregation it is set forth that "after Lord Frederick Philipse had bought and come into possession of his land tract (i. e. the manor of Philipsburgh) he contracted with a number of people to come and live upon it without charge, that the land might be quickly put to use and settled." This was about the year 1680. The second wife of the lord of the manor was Catharina, daughter of Orloff Stevens Van Cortlandt, and widow of Jan der Val. The Philipse marriage was contracted in 1692, and it seems very probable that Laurens Matthysen, who had been living near enough to New York (perhaps on the manor of Van Cortlandt) to have been enrolled in the Dutch church there followed Catharina der Val when she removed to the Philipse home. She had been, with her first husband, witness to the baptism of the first child of Laurens and Janneken in 1686. Stephen Van Cortlandt had witnessed the baptism of the second child in 1688, and in 1696, Catharina again, as Philipse's wife, witnessed the baptism of Rombout. Then in 1698, in 1701 and in 1704, she stood successively for Frederick, Adolff, and the second Rombout, all these last being the Philipse family names. It is easy to believe that Laurens Matthysen was one of those desirable people that the lord of the manor sought as settlers. Lady Catharina was instrumental in gathering the church at Sleepy Hollow, her name heading the list of members, and naturally Laurens and his wife transferred their association thereto from the more distant congregation in New York.

The date of Laurens Banker's death has not been learned. He was certainly alive in 1735, and must then have been an aged man, probably as old as seventy-five years. His second wife, Niese (Agnes), was also alive at that time, 1735.

HENDRICK² BANCKER (Laurens¹), probably the oldest son was bap. April 1, 1688. His marriage is thus recorded at Sleepy Hollow: Jan. 15, 1715, Hendrick Banckert, j. m., b. in Phillipsburgh, and Marytje de Vouw, widow of the late Jacob Buys, b. in Hackensack, both living in P. His issue were:

- i. Abraham,³ bap. June 11, 1715; wit.: Abram de Vouw and Myno, his wife.
- ii. Jan, bap. June 24, 1718; wit.: Johannis de Vouw and Suzana de Vouw.
- iii. Janitie, bap. Aug. 31, 1720; wit.: Louwerins Baneke and Niese, his wife.
- iv. Necklaes, bap. April 23, 1723; wit.: Adolf Bancken and Catharina de Vouw.
- v. Raghel, bap. Dec. 4, 1725; wit.: Abraham Martelings and Raghel, his wife.
- vi. Hendreck, bap. April 11, 1730; wit.: Jan Boeckhout and Maritie, his wife.

- vii. Isaak, bap. Aug. 21, 1733; wit.: Claas Storm and Raghel, his wife.

The dau. Janitie m. Barent Duyser in 1738, and her sister Raghel m. Petrus Storm in 1744.

FREDRIK² BANCKER (Laurens¹), was bap. in New York, May 22, 1698. Fredreck Bancke, j. m., and Aeltie Storm, j. d., both b. and living in Phillips Burg were m. April 1, 1721. Their issue were:

- i. Tomus,² bap. April 10, 1725; wit.: Tomus Storm and Crestena, his wife.
- ii. Hendreck, bap. Oct. 28, 1727; wit.: Hendreck and Maritie Bancken.
- iii. Johannis, bap. April 11, 1730; wit.: Jan Canckley and Annatie Ecker.
- iv. Abraham, bap. April 23, 1734; wit.: Abraham Bancken and Wyntie Cranchydt.
- v. Engeltie, bap. Aug. 20, 1737; wit.: Abraham Bancke and Annatie Storm.

Frederick Bancker d. sometime after, and his widow Aaltie Storms m. June 9, 1744, Daniel Lamoureux, widower.

ADOLFF² BANCKER (Laurens¹), was bap. in Manor of Philipsburgh in 1701 (month and day omitted in the record). Adolfus Bancken, j. m., b. in P., and Maritie Schouthen, b. in Manor of Cortlandt, both living in P., were m. Jan. 16, 1724-5. He was elected a deacon of the Sleepy Hollow Church in 1736, again in 1738, retiring in 1742. His issue were:

- i. Janitie,² bap. April 24, 1731; wit.: Jan Boeckhout and his wife Maritie.
- ii. Jan, bap. June 26, 1733; wit.: Jan Evere and Elizabeth Boeckhout.
- iii. Jeremias, bap. June 17, 1735; wit.: Jeremias Mebee and Annatie, his wife.

There is no further record of this family upon the Sleepy Hollow book.

ROMBOUT² BANCKER (Laurens¹), the first son by the second wife Niesse De Groot, was bap. at New York, Nov. 5, 1704. Rombout Bancke, j. m., and Maritie Davidson, j. d., both b. and living in Philipsburg, were m. Aug. 5, 1727. Their issue were:

- i. Louwerins,²* bap. April 27, 1728; wit.: Louwerins and Niesen Bancken.
- ii. David, bap. April 11, 1730; wit.: Albartus Gardenier and Janitie Davids.
- iii. Barbera, bap. June 15, 1737; wit.: Johannis Bancken and his wife Chatarina.
- iv. Abraham, bap. June 16, 1744; wit.: Abraham Juel and his wife Zara.

Rombout Banker and Barbera Banker were witnesses at a Thelety baptism in 1756, the latest date at which the former appears on the church record.

* It is worthy of notice that this is the only instance, so far discovered, wherein any son of Laurens Bancker named a son for the grandfather, an indication, perhaps, that the name had not descended in the family.

JOHANNES³ BANCKER (Laurens¹), the youngest son was bap. at Sleepy Hollow, March 21, 1711. He was a witness in 1730 and again in 1731, in both cases associated with a Niese, probably his mother. Joannis Bancken, j. m., and Catharina Davids, j. d., both b. in and living at Philipsburg, were m. Aug. 10, 1734. His issue were:

- i. Niese,³ bap. June 17, 1735, wit.: Louwerins Bancken and his wife Niesen.*
- ii. Myno, bap. May 1, 1748; wit.: Elbert Aerse and Maragryte Roods.

There is no further mention of Johannes Bancker on the records. Jacobus Kennif and a Niesye Banker, j. d., were m. in 1756, and Jacob Timber and Meino Banker, j. d., were m. in 1767.

Besides the children of Laurens Bancker already enumerated, it would seem to be almost certain that there were two, and possibly three others. Antje, the wife of Hendrick Krankheyt, we know from the church record of Sleepy Hollow, to have been a Bancker, and intimately connected with the head of the family. She may have been a younger sister, or a dau. b. before the beginning of the New York record of his children. It is not impossible that she was the dau. "Anneken" who was bap. in 1686.

One Catharina Bancke in 1718 and 1720 was a witness at the baptisms of two Krankheyt children. She was probably one of the younger children of Laurens, and named for the lady of the manor.

One Jacob Bancke in 1716 and 1720 was a witness at the baptisms of two Boeckhout children, and March 15, 1723-4, Jacob Bancke, j. m., and Raghel Montras, j. d., both b. in and living at Philipsburg, were m. He was probably a younger son of Laurens and named for Jacob Van Cortlandt. His children were:

- i. Johannis, bap. Sept. 5, 1724; wit.: Jan Boeckhout and his wife Maritie.
- ii. Jacobus, bap. June 24, 1727; wit.: Jan Montras and Maragriet Montras.
- iii. Petrus, bap. April 11, 1730; wit.: Adolff Bancken and his wife Maritie.
- iv. Johannis, bap. Oct. 17, 1732; wit.: Ressaydt Storms and his wife Mary.
- v. Aaltie, bap. March 4, 1735 (no wit. recorded).

ABRAHAM³ BANCKER (Hendrick,³ Laurens¹), was bap. in Sleepy Hollow, June 11, 1715. Abraham Bancken, j. m., and Raghel Gerritse, j. d., both b. in and living at Philipsburg, were m. Sept. 19, 1741. His issue were:

- i. Ary,[†] bap. June 12, 1742; wit.: Ary Buys and his wife Maritie.
- ii. Abraham, bap. Nov. 10, 1744 (b. Nov. 5); wit.: Abraham Artse and his wife Leeya.

* This is the last mention in the records of either Laurens or his wife Niese.

† Ary was the Dutch equivalent of Adrian or Aaron. It is to be noted that Abraham's mother had been the wife of Jacob Buys of Hackensack.

- iii. Mari, bap. July 26, 1747 (b. June 26); wit.: Ary Buys and his wife.
- iv. Rachel, bap. Oct. 25, 1749; wits.: Willium Aerse and his wife.
- v. Rabecka, bap. April 15, 1754 (b. Dec. 27, 1753); wit.: Barent Delameter and his wife.
- vi. Elisabeth, bap. April 25, 1758; wit.: Johannis Martlinghs and his wife.

NICOLAS² BANCKER (Hendrick,² Laurens¹), was bap. in Sleepy Hollow, April 23, 1723. Niclaes Banker, j. m., and Madleentje Van Wormer, j. d., b. in Catskill, both living in Philipsburg, were m. June 25, 1748. His issue were:

- i. Isaac, bap. Aug. 24, 1748; wit.: Hendrick Bancker and his wife (the grandparents).
- ii. Cornelus, bap. Oct. 25, 1749; wit.: Cornelus Van Wormer and his wife.

HENDRICK³ BANCKER (Hendrick,³ Laurens¹), was bap. in Sleepy Hollow, April 11, 1730. Hendrick Bancker, j. m., and Ruth Matus, j. d., b. on Lang Ilandt, both living in Philipsburg, were m. April 26, 1751. He had:

- i. Emie,⁴ bap. April 4, 1753; wit.: Barent Duyster and his wife.
- ii. Fiebie, bap. Nov. 5, 1756; wit.: Ary Buys and his wife.

The father removed to New York, and in the records of the Dutch Church there we read: "Hendrik Bancker Wed^e van Philipsburg and Marytje Calfort Wed^e van Hoog Duitsland, beide wonende alhier," Nov. 16, 1765. Mrs. Colford was the widow of William, and her maiden name was Byrd. Of her Colford children, Sally, m. a Savage and left descendants; Eleanor m. John Jones and her children m. into the Schermerhorn, Pendleton and Mason families, and Mary m. George McAlpine. Hendrick Bancker's children by his second wife were Susan, who m. Jacob Clinch; Nancy, who m. John Boyer, and a son Hendrick or Henry of New York.

HENDRICK³ BANCKER (Frederic,³ Laurens¹), was bap. in Sleepy Hollow, Oct. 28, 1727. Hendrick Banker, j. m., and Catrina Van Tessel, j. d., were m. Nov. 17, 1750, both natives of and resident at Philipsburg. Their issue were:

- i. Fredrick,⁴ bap. Oct. 8, 1751; wit.: Gorus Banker* and Jannittyte.
- ii. Aaltje, bap. Oct. 28, 1753; wit.: Jacob and Aaltje Van Tessel.
- iii. Jan, bap. June 17, 1755; wit.: Johannis Martlinghs and his wife.

This Hendrick was of Capt. Requa's company in service during the Revolutionary War. He d. Oct., 1804, at the age of 78, and was buried in the shadow of the church that his grandparents Laurens and Janneken Hendricks had been instrumental in founding.

* This name, Gorus (George) Banker, does not again occur in the Sleepy Hollow records, and it may be that the person designated was Tomus (Thomas), the oldest son of Frederic and Aeltie Storm.

CAME TO ENGLAND IN 1709.

The following lists are copied from the original documents preserved in the British Museum Library, London, England, and should be of the greatest genealogical interest to those families in the States of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and elsewhere, which claim descent from the so-called Palatine settlers. These lists have never before been printed to the knowledge of the Editor, and it should be noted that the word "son" or "sons" and "dau." or "daus." followed by figures denote that the heads of the family had as many sons or daughters, as there are figures, and that these sons and daughters were of the respective ages denoted by the figures. The word "wife" indicates that the head of the family was married and that the wife was living. The abbreviations "Ref.," "Luth.," "Bap.," and "Cath.," mean that the family belonged to the Reformed, Lutheran, Baptist or Catholic Churches.

BOARD OF TRADE MISCELLANEOUS. VOL. 2 D. 64.

The second list of 1193 Palatines lately come over from Germany into this kingdom taken at Walworth, 27th of May, 1709, by Mr. John Tribbeko and Mr. Ruperti, German Ministers.

THE HOPPE-HOPPEN-HOPPER LINEAGE.

BY HOPPER STRIKER MOTT.

IV. MATTHIJS ADOLPHUS' HOPPEN (Andries'), bap. in New Amsterdam, March 3, 1658; wits.: Lambert Huijbertsz Mol, Arie Cornelisz, Christena Harmens and Engeltje Wouters. He m. in the Dutch Church there, Anna, dau. of Júrck Paulús, May 2, 1683; he being of N. Y. and she of New Albany, but living at the former place. According to the custom she was known as Antje Jorkse. They removed to Hackensack where they were accepted as members of the church 1687 by Domine Petrus Tassenaker. Hoppen bought a farm adjoining his brother's at Saddle River and was elected deacon of the church May 25, 1704. He returned to N. Y. and bought the farm in Bloomingdale with which his name has become identified, Aug. 13, 1714. Soon after his marriage he dropped his middle name and it was to Mathias Hoppe that the deed was drawn. Issue:

- 70 i. Andries,² Winfield states he was b. in Bergen, April 2, 1684, and that he was alive in 1725. He m. Elizabeth Bras, Aug. 12, 1710, who was b. at Hackensack, in which town they resided. On Jan. 28, 1711, Annetje, their first child was baptized. Mattias, their son, was baptized April 6, 1713, before Mattis Hoppe and Lea Hoppe, his grandfather and aunt. He m. Aaltje Kuyper (Cuyper), Nov. 9, 1741. Vide Rockland Co., N. Y., Records for descendants, where a child was bap. in 1742.
- 71 ii. Christijna, Hackensack records make her baptism July 25, 1686, in presence of Gerrit van Dien and Maijna Pouwels. Van Dien is the son of Geertje Hoppe and Dirk Gerritse van Duyn, heretofore mentioned. She joined the church of her native place upon confession, April 12, 1708, and the next year (May 21) she m. Johannes Huijsman, a young man who was born there and there the couple lived. For issue vide, Staten Island Mss. in Holland Society Library.
- 72 iii. Lea, b. in Hackensack and bap. there Sept. 13, 1695; wits.: Hendrick and Catharijn Hoppe.
- 73 iv. Rachel, bap. Feb. 20, 1703, in presence of Cornelús Breyandt and Hendrickje Houseman.
- 74 v. Johannes, was bap. in Hackensack, May 19, 1706; wits.: Roelof Bogert and Belitie de Groot.
72. LEA' HOPPE (Matthijs,² Andries'), m. Johannes van den Hoef, a young man b. in Albany, but living at Hackensack, May 15, 1714. The N. Y. Church records give issue:

- 75 i. Matheús,⁴ bap. Feb. 12, 1718; wits.: Matthijs Hoppe and Antje, his wife, the grandparents.
- 76 ii. Cornelús, bap. Aug. 21, 1720; wits.: Dirck Hoppe and Catharina van den Berk.
- 77 iii. Catharina, bap. Jan. 30, 1723; wits.: Richard Piero and Johannes van den Berg.
73. RACHEL⁷ HOPPE (Matthijs A.,² Andries¹). Her marriage to Jillis Maúndeviel occurred in N. Y., Dec. 2, 1721, where the church records give their issue, viz.:
- 78 i. Davidt,⁴ bap. March 7, 1722; wits.: Davidt Mandeviel and Marijtje, his wife.
- 79 ii. Matheús (twin), bap. Aug. 17, 1726; wits: Mathijs Hoppe, Geertje Hoppe, Mr. Piero's* wife.
- 80 iii. Júriaen (twin), bap. Aug. 17, 1726; wits.: Júrian Mandeviel, Marijtje van den Berg.
- 81 iv. Anna, bap. Dec. 2, 1739; wits.: Andries Hoppe and Elizabeth Bras, his wife.
74. JOHANNES⁷ HOPPE (John Hopper the Elder) (Matthijs A.,² Andries¹), was elected Collector for the Outward, Bowery Division, Sept. 29, 1733, and served for two years when he was made constable Sept. 29, 1735. A member of Capt. Gerard Stuyvesant's Company of N. Y. Militia in 1738, he served as lieutenant in Gen. Harmer's campaign against the Indians; was severely wounded and left for dead. He finally recovered. On May 30, 1728, Maria van Norden became his wife, and his will, dated Oct. 12, 1778, was proved July 19, 1779. It is not certain how he became possessed of the Hopper farm in Bloomingdale. It would be a fairer presumption that his father conveyed it to him than that he inherited it by right of primogeniture (as the conveyancers agree), for to assume otherwise would have to dispose of the elder son Andries and his descendants. By the terms of the will of 1778, the farm was to be divided into six equal parts among

* Richard Perrow, an Englishman from New Barbadoes, m. Feb. 2, 1721, Geertje Hoppe, a young maid of Hackensack, living at the Great Kill. (The outlet of this stream was at present 42nd Street and the North River.) Fifteen acres of land were conveyed to Richard Pero of New Barbadoes in West Jersey by Mathijs Hoppe of the Groot Kill in the Outward, by deed dated May 29, 1722 (L. 30, 263). Consideration £250; description: all that a certain Messuage, Tenement House and Parcell of Land Situate, laying and being at a place Called the Bowry in the Outward of the City of New York aforesaid, adjoining and being bound on the southside by the Land of Gilos Shalloy, late deceased, and on the East side by a certain Swamp and the land of Jan Pretosge. Having on the northside to the Land of Mrs. Cortlandt and Maritie Solomons and on the west by the Highway, the whole containing 15 acres or thereabouts, being more or less and that in such manner as it hath been held and enjoyed upwards one and twenty years in a Peacable and Quiet Possession and Seizin by Adrian van Schaick and Rebecca van Schaick, deceased.

Valentine locates this property on the Bowery near Stanton Street. It is more likely that the Swamp here mentioned was that from which Minitie-water (little brook) flowed, as Mrs. van Cortland held land in the neighborhood. The land of Solomons (later the Horn tract) extended on the south to 21st Street (Abingdon Road) from Bloomingdale Road (the Highway) to near Seventh Avenue. Minetta-water joined Bestavaar's Killeetje or grandfather's creek on the van Cortlandt farm and the creek was named for him.

the survivors, viz.: Matthew, John, Andrew, Yallas and Jemima, the wife of John Horn of the Bloomingdale Road, as Riker's Harlem has it. The remaining portion went to his grandchildren, the issue of his deceased son Wessell. A map was to be drawn showing such division and six tickets prepared and numbered with the numbers of said six lots, whereupon the said six devisees, their heirs and assigns or guardians for them, were each to draw one ticket and the number thereon should be that of the lot he or she should inherit by the devise. The farm road from the Commons to the river was to run through each one of the six lots "to always be and remain free to any or either of said devisees to pass and repass without any hindrance to or from his or her portion of the farm." Articles of agreement were entered into by the heirs carrying out the above directions on Feb. 4, 1782. On lot No. 2 on said map, was the family burial ground and this was exempted from sale to be reserved forever for that purpose. The courts some fifteen years ago decided that the terms of this agreement were not explicit enough to exempt this ground from other uses and the site of that portion thereof which was not condemned for the opening of Ninth Avenue and 50th Street is now occupied by an apartment house. Hopper's Lane was widened to a uniform breadth of 28 feet throughout its length. The Dutch Church records John and Maria (van Norden) Hopper's issue, viz.:

- 82 i. Mattheüs,¹ bap. Dec. 25, 1728, before Willem Hoppe and Elizabeth van Norden, his wife.
83 ii. Wessel, bap. Feb. 6, 1732; wits.: Jacob van Norden and Christina Zabriskie.

82. MATHEÜS¹ HOPPER (Johannes,² Matthijs A.,³ Andries⁴), lived in N. Y. and m. there Aaltje Jacobs, Nov. 2, 1751. He was buried in the Hopper plot. His will, dated Aug. 2, 1784, is of record in L 37, Wills, 219. Therein he devised to his dau. Letty, wife of John Antonides, one-half of his house and land at Flatbush and the other half to said John provided he paid to the executors £500; to dau. Mary, £25 over and above the equal share of the personalty thereafter devised, and the house and lot, No. 6 Fair Street, N. Y. City;* to his nephews Samuel and Matthew Carter his house and lot in Dey Street, being lot No. 38 in the West Ward of N. Y. C., "bounded southerly in front by Dey Street, westerly by lot No. 39, northerly in rear by lot No. 67 and easterly by lot No. 37," share and share alike. "My good and worthy friends Isaac Mead and Peter Hegeman" of that city to be executors. Wits.: Gabriel Ellison and Henry van Beuren.

* The property through which Fair (present Fulton) Street was laid out was known as the Shoemaker's Field, and was owned in common by Lieut.-Col. Charles Lodwick, John Harberdinck, Castor Leursen, Abraham Santvoort and the widow Heyltje Cloppers, and was divided among them by amicable partition. Col. Lodwick d. at London, England, circa 1724. His will devised to his four children "all those seven and thirty lots lying at N. Y. in the Province of N. Y., commonly called the Shoemaker's Field." No. 6 Fair Street was on the south side of that thoroughfare near Broadway. In 1666, the street was 33 feet broad.

Lot No. 38, 25 x 77 in size, on the map of the estate of Derick Dey was conveyed by the brothers Carter, Feb. 7, 1804, to Richard Varick for $2,900.00. The dates of the births of the children are taken from the family Bible, printed in Dutch, and the other dates from the N. Y. church records. These children were five, viz.:

- 84 i. Johannes,^o b. Aug. 18, bap. Aug. 26, 1752; wits.: Johannes Hoppe and Maria van Norden.
- 85 ii. Maria, b. Sept. 23, bap. Sept. 29, 1754; d. unm. The records spell her name Hoppen. Will dated March 13, 1806, devises all personalty and, for life, use of rents, etc., of realty to sister Aletta; at her death $\frac{1}{2}$ part of realty to nephew Matthew Antonides, the other $\frac{1}{2}$ to Samuel and Matthew Carter, children of her late sister Jane.
- 86 iii. Jacomijntje, bap. July 25, 1756.
- 87 iv. Jannetje, b. Jan. 8, bap. Jan. 18, 1758; wit.: Wessel Hoppe.
- 88 v. Aaltje (Aletta), b. Sept. 26, 1760; m. John Antonides, April 11, 1783, who d. before his wife. He was a grandson of the Rev. Vincentius Antonides, domine of the Dutch churches of Flatbush and Flatlands. Aletta d. in Brooklyn, Aug. 9, 1838. Her will, dated Sept. 2, 1836, devised one equal undivided half of house and lot, No. 111 Prospect Street, in that city, to her son Matthew, as well as all the rest, residue and remainder of her estate, making no specific disposition of the other half. The only child was Matthew^o Antonides, whose birth, recited in the Dutch Bible above mentioned, was Jan. 21, 1785. He d. at Plainfield, N. J., May 2, 1860, and his will, dated Jan. 15, 1851, was proved before Roswell C. Brainard, Surrogate of Kings County, Dec. 20, 1860 (L 23, Wills, 387). Therein he mentions his wife Mary, and children Matthew H. and Catherine A. The widow m. (2) Edmund Brown, one of the executors, Oct. 24, 1865, at Plainfield. He d. there Jan. 19, 1867. She d. at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 15, 1884. Matthew H. d. intestate and unm. at Boston, Mass., Dec. 16, 1861. Catherine Aletta m. Frank H. Mills and lived at San Francisco.

* Garrit Stryker, one of the best-known residents of Flatbush, who was familiarly known there and in the old county towns of Kings County as "Uncle Garry," died on Friday night at his house, 873 Flatbush Avenue, in his seventy-second year. He belonged to the old Dutch family of Strykers who settled in Flatbush more than two centuries ago. In early life he conducted a general village store at Church and Flatbush Avenues, which was known as "Stryker's Corner." He was a member of the old Kings County Troop, a militia organization which was disbanded several years ago. He has been an earnest republican since the party was organized, and a leading member of the Flatbush Reformed Church. He leaves a widow and two daughters.—N. Y. Sun, Sunday, Sept. 21, 1902.

BACON FAMILY.—ORIGIN OF THE SURNAME.

BY LEON BROOKS BACON.

Grimbaldus, a Norman gentleman, it is said, came into England at the time of the Conquest, in company with William de Warenne, Earl of Surrey, to whom he was related. He was an early tenant of Letheringsete, near Holt in Suffolk, and married and had issue: Randolph, Edmund and Ranulf, known as Ralph, who resided at Thorp, in Norfolk, and took the name Bacon. His place was called Bacons-Thorp. The family of de Warenne takes its name from the castle of Varenne, called later Bellencombe, on the river Varenne, Department Siene-Inférieure, and was founded in England by William de Warenne, first Earl of Surrey, who held at one time great estates in twelve English counties. He married Gundred, a child or stepchild of the Conqueror, and a sister of Gherbode, or Gerbod, another child of William the First, and was created Earl of Chester.

There are no records in England before the Conqueror, the principal families descending chiefly from the victorious invaders, and no history of any family much before the eleventh century. Joseph Foster, an eminent genealogist, says in reference to the Bacons: "The early descent of this family, which was very widely spread through Suffolk, is variously set forth, as may be seen on reference to Davy's Manuscript Collections relating to the County."

In Collectanea Genealogica he has given a long list of the manuscript pedigrees in the British Museum which are of importance to students of this family history (Genealogy of the Bacon Family, Add. Ms. 19,116). The early history of the family is in a state of bewilderment, the various conjectures have been hazarded as to the origin of the surname. Lower, in A Dictionary of Family Names, says that Bacon is a seignior in Normandy, and that the name is in the Battle Roll. William Bacon, in 1082, endowed the Abbey of the Holy Trinity at Caen, in Normandy (Taylor's Roman de Rou). He also says that from their connection with Bayeux they were sometimes Latinized De Bajocis. We find that on 22 Oct., 1329, Sir Richard de Bajocis was created a Knight of the Bath, as a Banneret, by Edward the Third. Whether he came from the same family as Sir Thomas Bacon, a Justice of the Common Pleas and the King's Bench, who was created a Knight of the Bath, as a Banneret in 1332, by Edward the Third, is not clear (History of Orders of Knighthood by Nicolas, Vol. III, p. 5). The antiquity of the family is beyond dispute, and there are few houses in the Kingdom more distinguished by the production of eminent and great men. The first name of Bacon known in England was Richard, nephew of Ranulf, Earl of Chester, and founder of the Priory of Poachester in Staffordshire. Among the defaulters in the Red Book in the Exchequer is Roger Bacon, said to have been a brother of Philip de Colombieres (Taylor's Note in Wace's Chronicle 243). The method of obtaining the surname of Bacon is interesting. Ralph,² son of Grimboldus, was known by his place of residence as Ralph de Bacons-Thorp. The word Thorp is Saxon for village, Becunsthorp meaning Beech-tree Village. The early monumental brasses have effigies under trees, an evident allusion to the name.

Sir William Bacon, or Sir Robert Bacon, is taken notice of among knights bearing banners in the reign of Philip the Third of France (1270-1285), and bore for his arms a beech-tree. Roger³ de Baconsthorp, son of Ralph,² was father of Robert,⁴ who assumed the name of Bacon, and to make his identity clear during the change of patronymic, was styled Robert-Fitz-Roger, (Robert, son of Roger). He was a person of great power, and cousin of Geoffrey Ridel, Bishop of Ely. This may have been only a resumption of an ancient Norman surname which is still existing in the North of France.

REGISTRATION OF PEDIGREES.

For many years individuals interested in their personal Pedigrees have experienced the necessity for some Official Bureau where these Pedigrees could be formally registered for the benefit of posterity.

In England some centuries ago this want was felt and its need supplied by the establishment of the Heralds' College. In the prosecution of its work in the earlier centuries, this College sent its Heralds into the various counties of England and there recorded the Pedigrees of important county families and exercised legal jurisdiction over those families in their use of Coats-of-Arms.

The information thus gathered was known as the Herald's Visitations for these counties; and the results of their investigations have in many instances been subsequently embodied in printed volumes known as the "Visitations of Sussex," etc., etc.

These Visitations have ceased years ago, but the Heralds' College still exists for the distinct purpose of permitting those of English birth and descent to formally record their Pedigrees, and to establish their right to bear Coats-of-Arms.

In this country within the recollection of the present generation the necessity of formal Registration of Pedigrees was likewise felt, and was recognized within certain limited spheres by the establishment of the various patriotic and lineage societies which have sprung into existence during that period.

Each and every one of these societies has accomplished most excellent work, within the limited field of its individual usefulness; and it is impossible to overestimate the value of the information which each of these societies has collected and now possesses within the sanctity of its archives.

To a greater or less extent each and every one of these societies however is imbued with an idea that the Pedigrees of its members are sacred and must not be published in full for the benefit of the genealogical public at large.

It therefore has resulted that, while these societies have accumulated a vast amount of most valuable genealogical information, yet, from the policy which they pursue, they have all, with remarkably few exceptions, failed in placing in published detailed form for the benefit of their members, and for that of the genealogical public at large, the information contained in their archives, as represented by the Pedigrees of their individual members; which Pedigrees are the titles to membership in these various societies.

The original Pedigrees of the members in many instances consist of one single copy; in some cases however duplicate copies exist, one filed with the local society and the duplicate filed with the general society at its central headquarters.

While it is improbable, yet it is possible, that simultaneous fire in both the local and general headquarters of these societies might result in the absolute loss of the valuable details of these Pedigrees, for the very reason that up to the present no steps have been taken to publish the Pedigrees in their fullest form. If they were so published, it would be practically impossible to destroy all of the published copies which would be located broadcast in the numerous libraries of this country.

The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society fully appreciates the value of the information above referred to now locked up in the archives of these various Societies; and also appreciates the possibility of their loss to posterity for the above stated reasons; and, while not desiring to criticise the attitude of any of these particular societies, yet it feels that they have failed in their duty to their members in so far as they have neglected to publish in the fullest detailed form the Pedigrees of these members: for the reason that the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society takes the broad and proper stand that these Pedigrees should not be hoarded for the selfish satisfaction of particular Societies, but should be published for the benefit of all interested in genealogy.

The lineage books of these various societies referred to should be the most valuable source of genealogical information obtainable in this country. However, from a practical genealogical standpoint, the genealogical student has long been impressed with the uselessness of the average lineage books of these societies, due to the fact that in the large majority of cases they furnish no definite information as to what the distinct line of descent of their members from certain ancestors may be; and almost never give in detail the vital facts of the successive generations of this line of descent.

Due to the above stated existing condition of affairs, the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, after much deliberation thereupon, has established a Department of its Society for the distinct purpose of Registration of Pedigrees of any and all who may desire to take advantage of the opportunity thus offered.

In the establishment of this new Department, Pedigrees will be received, upon Application Blanks regularly prepared therefor, by the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society; and will be examined and passed upon as to their correctness by competent genealogical authority; and will be subsequently published in volumes of not less than two hundred and fifty Pedigrees each, and delivered to Applicants for Registration whose Pedigrees are contained in that particular volume published.

In publishing these Pedigrees, the vital facts such as birth, marriage and death of the two progenitors of each generation will be published in full.

In due course of time these successive volumes will find their resting place upon the shelves of the principal libraries of this country, as well as in the libraries of the individual applicants; and thus the valuable information thus recorded will be precluded from any possibility of loss which human ingenuity can prevent.

The facilities offered by this Department should appeal to the general public, which may be divided into three classes, namely:

First:—Members of those patriotic or lineage societies, the lineage books of which do not perpetuate in detailed form the vital facts of their Pedigrees which entitles them to membership in those specific societies; and who feel a natural desire to have these Pedigrees published in the fullest detailed form.

Second:—That large group of individuals who, while they are eligible to membership in various lineage societies, yet are not sufficiently interested in any specific society to seek membership therein. This class embraces a large number of those who may desire facilities for Registration of their various lines of descent irrespective of the fact of their incidental eligibility to membership in any society.

Third:—The large and in fact most important group of all, viz.: those not of necessity eligible to any particular society but who naturally take as much interest in their individual Pedigrees as if they were eligible to any or all of these Societies.

The field of this Department is as above outlined of the broadest possible scope; it being the purpose of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, if possible, to make this Department for the American public all and more than what the Heralds' College is for the English people.

Full information as to the course to be pursued by those desiring to Register Pedigrees together with literature explaining cost, etc., will be sent to those interested upon application to the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society.

There being no further business the meeting was duly adjourned.

NOTES.

COREY.—A correction. Some time ago the undersigned was sent by a professional genealogist, an abstract of the will of John Corey, with an interpolated dau., Sarah, added. The original will of John Corey, as recorded in L. I., Session Book No. 1, at Riverhead, from which the following was copied, names, 1 Feb., 1684-5, in the order below, Son John Corey, who is to have a brass kettle, the great Bible, chest and what was in it, etc.; Son Jacob Corey, whose son is to have 14 acres of land; Son Abram Corey, who is to have his father's lot at Oysterponds, Lower Neck, he to pay half the price of it to his brother Jacob Corey, 5 to his brother Isaac Corey, and to settle all his father's debt, etc.

Daughter Hannah is to have the lot by the mill, her dau. Hannah is also named. Daughter Abigail, finishes the list of John Corey's children.

John Corey's will was proved at Southold, 2 Oct., 1685, by John Tuthill, Thos. Mapes, Sr., and Samuel Wines. No inventory is appended, and his son Abram was appointed executor.

There are said to be strong reasons for supposing that Sarah may have been a dau. of John Corey above, but there is no proof.

See The Corey Family of Southampton and Southold Long Island, N. Y., in RECORD, Oct., 1900, and Jan., 1901. LUCY D. AKERLY.

DUMONT FAMILY.—The statements made in the quotation from Snell's History of Hunterdon and Somerset Counties, N. J., are correct, viz.: that Congress requested Hillsboro Township to appoint committees, etc., but the word "Congress" in that passage means the "Provincial Congress of New Jersey" which was the official title of New Jersey's Revolutionary Legislature. It was in distinction from the Provincial Congress that the General Congress was termed the "Continental Congress."

WM. CLINTON ARMSTRONG, New Brunswick, N. J.

HEARD FAMILY.—All interested in the ancestry and descendants of John Heard of Hanover Co., Va., who came from County Tyrone, Ireland, 1710-20, should communicate with J. W. Lilly, 65 West 143d St., New York City, Secretary and Historian of The Heard Association.

TRAVIERRE FAMILY.—In connection with some articles on the Dumont family contributed to the RECORD by the writer several years ago, mention was made of the Traverrier family. The new notes following are of interest: "The date of the marriage of 'pierre trauerriect and Marie Arnaut' was the 11th of April, 1688. In the body of the certificate the names are spelled as above; they are signed: 'pierre trauerrier, Marie Arnaud.'" (Extract from a letter dated Nov. 11, 1898, from Mrs. E. McA. Lawton, Chairman, Library Committee, Huguenot Society of America, New York City.) Further items about the Traverrier family were printed in the Intermédiaire, Paris (1904), vol. 49, pp. 338, 529, 595, which is a useful medium for Huguenot genealogists.

BOOK NOTICES.

A GENEALOGY OF THE DESCENDANTS OF ALEXANDER ALVORD, AN EARLY SETTLER OF WINDSOR, CONN., AND NORTHAMPTON, MASS. Compiled by Samuel Morgan Alvord. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 823. Full Index. Illustrated. Andrew's Press, Webster, N. Y. 1908.

This volume is a splendid example of what an accurate and exhaustive family genealogy should be, for in persistent research, selection of matter, style of composition and arrangement of material its author stands in the front rank of modern genealogists. The work is divided, first, into a brief statement of the English Alvord family and other settlers of the same name in America, wherein it appears reasonably certain that Benedict, Alexander and Joanna Alford, who appear in New England about 1645, were children of Thomas Alford of Whitestaunton, Co. Somerset, England, and second, into a full history of the descendants of Alexander Alford to the tenth generation, 3,042 heads of families being specifically dealt with.

The author continues down the female Alvords one generation and uses a system of numbering the children of married daughters alphabetically—while each child born Alvord is given a number, rendering the tracing of a particular name easy and exact.

While the existence of early manuscript records of the family afforded a foundation for this monumental work yet the labor of extending the early family records, digesting and rearranging the data, and finally placing it in printable form, must have been enormous, covering as it did seven years time.

There would appear to be nothing to add to this book and it will undoubtedly rank as the sole Alvord genealogical authority. For this reason it should win a place in every library of prominence. Copies of the book can be obtained only of Mr. S. M. Alvord, 254 Ashley Street, Hartford, Conn., at its published price of $5.00.

THE BIBLIOGRAPHER'S MANUAL OF AMERICAN HISTORY. Compiled by Thomas Lindsley Bradford, M. D. Edited by Stan. V. Henkels. Vol. III, M to Q. Nos. 3104-4527. Cloth, Large 8vo, pp. 314. Philadelphia. 1908.

The first two volumes of this monumental work were reviewed in Volume XXXIX, p. 140, of the RECORD, and it would seem superfluous to add to the words of praise there accorded to the publication. The present volume of the series continues the excellent and exhaustive revision and covers the books published on Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, New England, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, as well as the titles of the books of Cotton and Increase Mather, John F. Meginness, Cornelis Melyn, F. A. Michaux, John Miller, Nathaniel and Thomas Morton, G. Mourt, Joel Munsell, Edmund D. Neill, E. B. O'Callaghan, Henry Onderdonk, Jr., Francis Parkman, William Penn, Samuel A. Peters, Thomas Prince and other historians.

The character and utility of this publication cannot be too earnestly commended to all libraries desirous of placing a complete set of books of reference upon their shelves and its value to the historian and genealogist is exceptional.

THE TAVERNS AND TURNPIKES OF BLANDFORD, 1733-1833. By Sumner Gilbert Wood, Congregational Minister in Blandford, Mass. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 329. Illustrated. With Appendix and Index. The Plymouth Press, Springfield, Mass. 1908.

The author of this delightful book has turned aside from the dry and dusty highway of town and county histories and turned into the fascinating by-paths of country roads and lanes, where were located those early taverns and houses of entertainment so dear to the hearts and comforting to the palates of our early forebears. The social development of a community naturally centers around the town tavern or village store and given a history of these buildings much is learned of the characters and families of the townfolk. After five years of study and research into town and church records, as well as the examination of over two thousand deeds and many interesting license records, and other ancient documents, the author determined to publish the results of his antiquarian studies and travels along the country roads, supplemented by illustrations from his own camera. The result is a happy mixture of historical and traditional material, fact and fancy, written records and repeated story, set forth in a series of chapters as instructive as they are valuable. The Rev. Mr. Wood has the faculty of turning a phrase and rounding out a sentence which produces good literary style, and his chapters upon The Berkshire Road, The Street and the Old Aristocracy, Social Functions of the Tavern, Turnpike Stories and Tales of Stage Coach, are admirably conceived and carried out. The book is filled with good half tones of points of interest and printed in large clear type on paper of fine quality. Good taste in treatment of material both inside and outside the volume is shown and it is a worthy addition to the literature of a literary State. It is hoped that the book will meet with the success it deserves and that its author will give to the reading world in the near future his proposed work "The Homes and Habits of Ancient Blandford."

COLLECTIONS OF THE CONNECTICUT HISTORICAL SOCIETY—Vol. X11, Lists and Returns of the Connecticut Men in the Revolution, 1775-1783. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 489. Full Index. Hartford. 1908.

The material in this volume supplements that already published in 1889 and 1901 in regard to the service of Connecticut men in the Revolutionary War. The greater part of the volume is made up of names of those who were in the Continental Regiments of the Connecticut line, to which the rolls of companies in service not previously printed have been added. The greatest care has been taken to include every name of record and to index the names under the correct spelling. The book will be a great acquisition to all attempting to determine the patriotism of their Connecticut ancestry and reflects great credit upon the Historical Society and its officers. The arrangement of these long lists is effective, the printing, paper and binding displays good taste, and the volume is a workmanlike production. The Connecticut Historical Society may well feel proud of perpetuating the Revolutionary War Records in so excellent a form.

GLENS FALLS—THE EMPIRE CITY. By J. A. Holden. Paper, Large Quarto, pp. 84. Glen Falls Publishing Co. 1908.

This is a descriptive and illustrative pamphlet of one of the great manufacturing cities of this State and contains memorial biographies of many of the representative citizens both of the past and of the present. It is well printed and admirably illustrated with a number of half-tone reproductions of the leading professional and business men, places of interest, civic buildings and private residences and makes a popular souvenir for those interested in the development of this commercial centre.

MEMOIR OF ABBOTT LAURENCE. By Samuel A. Green. Paper, 8vo, pp. 9. Boston University Press. 1908.

A concise biography of the third and youngest son of Abbott and Katharine (Bigelow) Laurence of Boston. This family had large manufacturing interests in New England, and gave their name to the present City of Laurence. The subject of this sketch graduated from Harvard College in 1849 and later attained the degree of LL.B., at the Law School, though he never practiced this profession.

Of marked literary tastes, he devoted much of his leisure to historical research and in 1876 edited a Journal of a Tour to Niagara Falls in the Year 1805, kept by his grandfather Timothy Bigelow, and several other works of a like character, privately printed. Mr. Laurence took a prominent position in the Massachusetts Historical Society and at his death left it a legacy, the income of which was to be applied to the publishing of the Proceedings and Collections. The pamphlet contains an admirable photogravure portrait and is a timely memorial to one who did much to advance the study of the history and genealogy of his native State.

THE SANFORD ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA. By Rev. A. B. Sanford, D. D. Paper, Small Octavo, pp. 27. New York. 1908.

A booklet describing the two re-unions held in New York of those of the Sanford name and their descendants, with a list of their names and places of residence.

The association has been formed to expedite the publication of a Sanford Genealogy of the Descendants of Thomas Sanford of Milford, Conn., 1639, now in the course of preparation by Mr. C. E. Sanford of Potsdam, New York.

ANCESTRY OF WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT. By Mabel Thacher Rosemary Washburn. With Index. Paper, Small Quarto, pp. 52. Frank Allaben Genealogical Company, New York. 1908.

Appearing, as it does, close upon the election of William Howard Taft as President of the United States, this small booklet seems a timely publication. It purports to set forth briefly the descent of Mr. Taft from Robert Taft or Talfe of Mendon, Mass., in 1677, and his kinship to the allied families of Torrey, Rawson, Wilson, Grindall, Hooker, Cheney and Emerson. The genealogical data contained within its pages will appeal more to the popular and journalistic circles than to those of antiquarian and historical tastes, but the little book does not assume to be exhaustive and will be of undoubted utility to the numerous biographers of the President in the next four years to come.

It is well papered and printed but the wood cut illustrations are poor, doubtless owing to the paper being unsuited for this style of impression, and the brown tint of the reading pages may be artistic but is trying to the eyes.

THE ANCESTRY OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN. By J. Henry Lea and J. R. Hutchinson. Cloth, Large Octavo, pp. 212. With Appendix and Index. Houghton Mifflin Co., Boston and New York. 1909.

No more important contribution to American family bibliography than this sumptuous volume has appeared in this country since the first New Englander collected and put into print the record of his sturdy progenitors. Next to Washington, the Father of his Country, Abraham Lincoln stands pre-eminent as the Preserver of the Republic, and while the former came of aristocratic English ancestry, the latter has always been supposed to have sprung from humble and obscure forbears. It is an astonishing comment upon the record of a great nation, however, that until recently little was known of the Lincoln lineage in America and absolutely nothing concerning the ancestry in England.

That he sprang from "the plain people" was all sufficient for the rank and file of those whose liberties he conserved, and high as they exalted the man, they were indifferent as to his origin. A vigorous effort some years ago resulted in tracing the family back to Samuel Lincoln of Hingham, Mass., in 1637, identified later with the Samuel, son of Edward Lincoln of Hingham, Co. Norfolk, England, baptized there 21 Aug., 1622. The American pedigree at once shattered the illusion of the public as to the humble origin of the Martyr-President but it was reserved for Mr. Lea to discover and prove beyond all possible doubt that for at least four generations the Lincolns of England were of the minor gentry and as land owners held an established position among the county families of Norfolk.

How the discovery was made, what it was and how the evidence is beyond question, is best left for the reader when he turns the pages. The authors are learned and able genealogists, possessed of a sound sense of deduction, skilled in logical argument and arrangement of the topics set forth and have the happy faculty of telling their story well.

The chapters read like a romance and the history of the "find" should encourage every toiler among the dusty files of English church and state records. The book is beautifully illustrated with pictures of places and objects of interest, facsimile signatures, two exhaustive pedigree sheets, as well as transcripts of court and parish registers, wills and documents hitherto unknown and unpublished. The chapters upon "Allied Families" are full of surprising details and the chapter entitled Analysis of Lincoln's Inherited Traits is not only able but an excellent exponent of the psychological value of sound genealogical study and research. The book is finely printed with large type on superior paper, and evidences the great care and artistic taste of its publishers. Every library, public or private, will be incomplete without a copy of this work, which will become the authoritative history of the Lincoln family for all time, and will go far to prove that great men are not begotten by ignoble sires and that good blood endures for generations.

GENERAL CATALOGUE OF PRINCETON UNIVERSITY, 1746-1906. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 544. Full Index. Published by the University, Princeton. 1908.

As no edition of the catalogue has been published since 1896 this volume will be warmly welcomed, particularly as a strong effort has been made therein by the editor to identify the academic and public career of every teacher and executive officer of the University since 1746, the year of the granting of the first charter of the College of New Jersey.

The arrangement, typography, paper and binding of this volume is well fitted for ready reference and the severe use always made by the general library readers of a book of this character.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE AMERICAN JEWISH HISTORICAL SOCIETY, No. 17. Paper, Octavo, pp. 266, with Index. Published by the Society. Baltimore. 1909.

It is a strange fact that this ancient people, of so great historical interest, should until a comparatively recent date have given little attention to collecting and preserving the annals of their communal and family life. The genealogy of the Jews was set forth with particular niceness in the Old Testament, but during the persecution of the early Christian Era and the Middle Ages doubtless little time or attention could be given by the patriarchs to preserving aught but the bare record of their misfortunes, wanderings and religious traditions.

The object of this Society is to collect and publish material bearing upon Ancient Jewish History and no more valuable contributions can be made to our reading public than these records, so admirably gathered together and published.

This number contains an important vindication of Dr. Roderigo Lopez, Queen Elizabeth's Jewish Physician; the Jews of New Jersey from the earliest time to 1850; the early Jewish Colony in Western Guiana; Gen. Grant's Military Orders against the Jews; Lincoln and the Jews; the History of the Sheftalls of Georgia and other articles of interest.

It may perhaps be urged that the importance of some of the articles, in this, as well as in the past publications of the Society, are more local than general and that the records are meagre as to genealogical data, but although the Jews as a nation are as old as history, their identity with this country is but recent. More will be heard of them in the future under a liberal jurisdiction and as a part of a free people, and it is undoubtedly to the credit of this Society to act as the pioneer association for Jewish historical research.

The volume is admirably printed and a scholarly production, the only regret being that it is in paper covers rather than in a binding proper to preserve its valuable contents.

MASSACHUSETTS HISTORICAL SOCIETY, THE COMMEMORATION OF THE TER-CENTENARY OF THE BIRTH OF JOHN MILTON AT THE FIRST CHURCH IN BOSTON, on December 9th, 1908. Paper, Small Quarto, pp. 31.

This record of the exercises by descendants of the early New England Puritans in honor of the greatest member of the Puritan Triumvirate, viz.: John Hampden, Oliver Cromwell and John Milton, contains two interesting portraits of Milton, three of his Sonnets, facsimile title pages of the first printed editions of Milton's Minor Poems, 1625, of Paradise Lost, and of Paradise Regained together with addresses by Charles Francis Adams and William Everett, D. D.

It is curious to note that notwithstanding the literary claims of the early New England Colonies no copy of Paradise Lost can be found on any Massachusetts book shelf prior to 1767, no American edition of this great poem was published before 1777, and his complete works were not printed in this country until 1853, although the re-prints in the Spectator of Addison must have kept the early colonists familiar with the greatest of the Puritan writers.

HENRY CODMAN POTTER—MEMORIAL ADDRESSES DELIVERED BEFORE THE CENTURY ASSOCIATION, December 12th, 1908. Paper, Octavo, pp. 34. Privately printed. New York. 1908.

These addresses made by Hon. John Bigelow, Nicholas Murray Butler, Marvin R. Vincent, Richard Watson Gilder and Joseph H. Choate, are fitting tributes to the late Bishop of New York, and an appropriate memorial to the churchman, scholar and friend from his fellow Centurians.

It was the late Rev. Dr. Potter's fortune to guide the Episcopacy of New York in a period of municipal expansion and progress, filled with civic and ethical problems, and while a free nation has ever been jealous of paternalism and religious interference it is undoubtedly to the credit of this eminent churchman that he advocated good citizenship upon a God-fearing foundation and proclaimed the true relation of Church and State to be mutual intolerance of things evil and corrupt.

The pamphlet is well printed and arranged, contains a half tone portrait of the late Dr. Potter, and the addresses are full of interest.

TOWNSEND GENEALOGY. A Record of the Descendants of John Townsend, 1743-1821, and of his wife Jemima Travis, 1746-1832. Cleveland Abbe, assisted by Josephine Genung Nichols. New York. Frank Allaben Genealogical Company, 1909. 12D, Cloth, pp. 106. Price, $2.00, postage, 10 cents.

This genealogy covers the very difficult field of New York State in and immediately after the Revolutionary War. Only those who have made researches in that period and locality, can realize the obstructions in the way of exact work, hence the very full facts and dates in this little volume will be appreciated by genealogists if by no one else. The ancestor, John Townsend, has not been certainly placed until his appearance in Southeast, Dutchess County, but after that the records are very full. The family founded the settlement of Townsenville, Seneca County, but soon scattered far and wide. Some of the more distinguished descendants are, Professor Abbe, the compiler, Dr. Robert Abbe, and William Godman Stewart, founder and head of the American School of Opera in New York City. The book is well printed on good paper, has an excellent index, and is in every way a credit to those interested in its production.

SCHNELL ASTRONOMY. 12D, pp. 199. By Albert Frederick Schnell, No. 343 West 17th Street, New York City. This work is a treatise on the origin of the Planets and of Daylight. The theory is that vibration is the cause of this origin. A novel theory and of necessity of interest to all astronomical students.

THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY

226 West 58th Street, New York.

This Society has for sale official forms of genealogical charts called "Register of Pedigrees." These registers are of two varieties, called "single" and "double" charts. They are each paper covered books of 11 x 16 inches in size, properly ruled and printed for the insertion of names of ancestors in successive generations. The single charts consist of 17 pages, and when filled in will give all of the ancestors in all ramifications for 9 generations, arranged so that the family name of each of the 16 great-great-grandparents occupies a page. Family names appear on the marginal index which is formed by the indentation of each leaf. The back of each leaf is arranged for special memoranda concerning the persons named on the page facing it.

The double charts are practically two single charts combined. The object being to devote the first half of the chart to the registration of the complete pedigree of the male line, the second half for a like registration of the female line, and the double chart therefore provides for the registration of 10 generations in both male and female lines.

The price of these charts to members of this Society is as follows:

Single Charts, 75 cts. Double Charts, $1.50

To those who are not members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.00 Double Charts, $2.00

Members of the Society, or others who purchase these Charts and fill them in as fully as possible and present them to the Librarian of the Society for filing in the Society's Library, will receive a new one in exchange therefor without additional cost. These charts may be purchased by application to the Librarian.

It is the desire of the Trustees that the members will supply themselves with these registers, fill them out as far as possible and file them with the Society. When received these will be bound in volumes, fully indexed, and will thus form a record of inestimable value to the Society.

Those who have in their possession full information as to their individual ancestry are especially urged to obtain these Charts, fill them in and file them with the Society, as information of this nature is very frequently lost to posterity owing to negligence on the part of those possessing it to make record thereof, in special depositories provided for that purpose.

JOHN HARSEN RHOADES.

BY HOPPER STRIKER MOTT.

The paternal ancestors of the subject of this biography were English and Welsh, the branch which came to this country settling in Massachusetts. The father of Mr. Rhoades was born in that State and removed, as a child, with his parents to Manlius, near Syracuse, N. Y., and afterwards to Skaneateles, where is situated the old farm which yet remains in the possession of the family. John Harsen Rhoades was born in New York City, Oct. 26, 1838, the son of Lyman Rhoades, Sr., member of the Pearl Street drygoods firm of Rhoades, Weed & Co., and was educated in private schools. He began his business career at an early age, entering the store of Messrs. Spring, Bradley & Buffum of Broad Street, N. Y., at the age of 17. Later, he became an employee of Woodward, Lawrence & Co., and when 25 years old, was made junior partner in the drygoods commission house of Leonard, Schofield & Co. The firm afterwards changed to Leonard & Rhoades, to Leonard, Rhoades & Grosvenor, then to Rhoades & Grosvenor, and finally to Grosvenor & Carpenter. He retired from this line of business in 1877, at the age of 38. He became President of the Northern Dispensary at the age of 34 and Vice-President of the Eye and Ear Infirmary at 40.

It was, however, as a banker that Mr. Rhoades made his mark. Having become a trustee of the Greenwich Savings Bank in 1863, he served in that capacity continuously for more than 35 years and was for many years Secretary of the Board. In 1878, he succeeded to the Presidency of that institution, and continued to discharge the duties of that office to the date of his death.

The high position which Mr. Rhoades attained in financial circles is shown by the number of important posts he held and by the weight given to his views on banking affairs, particularly such as related to savings banks, which were the objects of his special solicitude and study. As chief executive officer of the Savings Bank Association of the State, an organization designed to protect the interests of savings bank depositors, he extended its influence to such an extent that it has successfully prevented the enactment of laws inimical to them.

Among the positions of prominence which Mr. Rhoades filled, should be mentioned the directorships of the Bank of America, the U. S. Trust Co., the Greenwich Bank, and the Northern Dispensary, the Presidency of the Eye and Ear Infirmary and the trusteeship of the Roosevelt Hospital. These offices he retained till the close of his life. He was also a director of the Candelaria Mining Co., the Corralitos Co., the Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Co., Lincoln Trust Co., Madison Safe Deposit Co., U. S. Shoe Manufacturing Co., First Vice-President and Director of the Woodbridge Co., and a trustee of the Washington Trust Co. Besides the above, he served as Director of the N. Y. Zoological Society, the N. Y. Botanical Gardens and the American Museum of Natural History. He was a member of the Union League, Century, Metropolitan, City, Lawyers' and Lotos Clubs and of the American Geographical, St. Nicholas and Municipal Art Societies. At one time, he was a trustee of the Women's Hospital and a Governor of the N. Y. Hospital. As a member of the Chamber of Commerce he acted as chairman of its committee of finance and served as the executor of the estate of George Bliss, late of the firm of Morton, Bliss & Co., and I. N. Phelps.

Ever since he cast his first vote for Lincoln, Mr. Rhoades was a staunch Republican and, though urged to go into politics, he always refused. The weight of his name, however, was ever at the command of his party. He was chairman of the New York City delegation to the Indianapolis Sound Money Convention, and took a direct concern in the affairs of his native city, where he was prominent in several civic movements, among them the investigation by the Lexow Committee and that advocating better streets. As foreman of the Grand Jury a few years since, he rendered a noteworthy service by his forceful presentation of irregularities then existing in the Sheriff's office. This led a leading metropolitan paper to propose him as a suitable candidate for Mayor. Years before any definite steps were undertaken, he recommended the construction of a subway system. He took a deep interest in art and accumulated a fine collection of paintings. His summer home was at Seabright, New Jersey, and a fishing camp was located at Indian Rock, Maine.

Through his mother Mr. Rhoades was connected with a long line of noted Dutch families. Cornelia Rachel Harsen, the daughter of Col. Cornelius Harsen, was born on the Harsen farm in Harsenville and baptized Aug. 11, 1816, by the Rev. Alexander Gunn, pastor of the Bloomingdale Dutch Reformed Church. She married Lyman Rhoades and died March 17, 1900. Her father was a prominent and distinguished citizen of New York City until his death which occurred in 1838. At the age of 20, he became an Ensign in the 5th Regiment of Infantry, and three years later (1807), then Captain, he was named as one of a committee of officers to organize a third regiment in the city. He was soon transferred to the Artillery, in which he became Major of the regiment which he assisted in forming. Thereafter, his talents, wealth and social position secured his rapid promotion.

At the breaking out of the War of 1812, he was commissioned Lieut.-Col. of the 11th Regiment, and later in the same year, became Commander thereof. During that war his command was detailed to Bedloe's and Ellis's Islands, in the harbor. In early life he was a hardware merchant in Cherry Street, and in 1817 in the drygoods business. In 1832 he became an incorporator of the Erie Railroad. Among the old New York families with which Mr. Rhoades was connected on the maternal side were the Dyckmans, Cozines, Webbers, van Couwenhovens and Hoppers. The Harsen mansion was built in 1701 and stood in the block between 70th and 71st Streets, Bloomingdale Road and the Hudson river till very recent times. It was a noted landmark in the New York of old.

On October 29, 1862, Mr. Rhoades married Miss Annie G., daughter of Benjamin F. Wheelwright, and had three children: Cornelia Harsen Rhoades, Mrs. Benjamin Ogden Chisholm and John Harsen Rhoades, Jr. He died at his residence, 559 Madison Avenue, Dec. 6, 1906, and the funeral was held at All Souls' Church, 4th Avenue, corner 20th Street, on Saturday, Dec. 8, before a congregation which crowded the edifice, among whom were delegations from the numerous organizations with which he had been connected. A tablet to his memory has lately been unveiled in the church. Thus ended the career of a man who had endeared himself to all with whom he came in contact, by his gracious personality, his genial manner and his kind disposition. Vale.

The following lists are copied from the original documents preserved in the British Museum Library, London, England, and should be of the greatest genealogical interest to those families in the States of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and elsewhere, which claim descent from the so-called Palatine settlers. These lists have never before been printed to the knowledge of the Editor, and it should be noted that the word "son" or "sons" and "dau," or "daus." followed by figures denote that the heads of the family had as many sons or daughters, as there are figures, and that these sons and daughters were of the respective ages denoted by the figures. The word "wife" indicates that the head of the family was married and that the wife was living. The abbreviations "Ref.," "Luth.," "Bap.," and "Cath.," mean that the family belonged to the Reformed, Lutheran, Baptist or Catholic Churches.

THE HOPPE-HOPPEN-HOPPER LINEAGE.

BY HOPPER STRIKER MOTT.

By inadvertence four of the children of Johannes³ Hoppe were omitted from the proper place on page 125 of the April issue of the RECORD. Their consecutive numbers in the lineage should be 84, 85, 86 and 87. Having lost their position it becomes necessary to interpolate them as 83*a*, 83*b*, 83*c* and 83*d*.

83*a* iii. Johannes,⁴ b. May 21, bap. May 26, 1734; wits.: Johannes Webbers and Annatje van Norden, his wife.

83*b* iv. Jacomijntje (Jemima), bap. Dec. 29, 1734; wits.: her parents. She m. John Horn, Aug. 19, 1770, on whose farm at Broadway and 23d Street are now located many important hotels, amusement edifices and retail shops.

83*c* v. Andries, bap. Feb. 27, 1736; wits.: Andries Hoppe and Elizabeth Bras his wife.

83*d* vi. Yallis, bap. Dec. 3, 1738; wits.: Jillis Maundeville and Rachel Hoppe, his wife.

83*d*. JOHANNES⁴ HOPPE (John Hopper the younger) (Johannes,³ Matthijs A.,² Andries¹), m. (1) Wyntie, dau. of Nicholas and Anneke (Cowenhoven) Dyckman, April 21, 1759, who was b. July 16, 1735. They had but one child, Maria,⁵ b. March 31, and bap. April 6, 1760; wits.: Mattheus Hoppe and Aaltje Jacobs; m. James Striker of Striker's Bay, Sept. 23, 1780. She d. Sept. 20, 1786. By his (2) wife, Sarah, eldest dau. of Balam Johnson Cozine, he had no issue. She d. Dec. 23, 1823. By commission dated Oct. 23, 1776, he was appointed 2nd Lieut. in Col. Brewerton's Regt. of the Outward. He had belonged to the City Militia prior to the breaking out of hostilities and continued in the King's service with his comrades. This was done generally at this trying time. Many felt that it was the only way to preserve property rights and save their families from indignity. Hopper remained here but a few months abandoning rank by so doing and enlisted for three years on Jan. 1, 1777, in the 4th Company, 2nd Regt. of the Line, under Washington. He is entered as having deserted Dec., 1779 (Archives State of N. Y., Vol. I, p. 219), but as Comptroller James D. Roberts, the compiler, states in the preface to N. Y. in the Revolution, Second Edition, p. 14, such a designation must not be taken too seriously. Hopper was doubtless absent at roll-call. At any rate he re-enlisted July 5, 1780, in the Lieut.-Col.'s Co. 4th Regiment. He took his discharge Dec. 15, that he might be promoted Ensign of the 2nd Regiment of Continental Troops (Jersey Line). A committee of Congress says Stryker's Officers and Men of New Jersey in the Revolution, was appointed during the summer to make the "arrangement" of the officers of the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Regiment, which arrangement was confirmed by a joint meeting of the Legislature on Sept. 26, 1780. It was under this assignment that Hopper received his commission. It is family history that he rose to the rank of General. This cannot, however, be proved at this day, so many of the records of service having been lost, but that he was called by that title is in evidence. He was in receipt of a pension in this State (N. Y. in the Revolution, p. 272.) He owned a pew in the Bloomingdale Dutch Reformed Church of which his brother Andrew was a founder. Dying at the age of 85 years and 3 months on Aug. 2, 1819, he, as also his second wife and her mother, were interred in the Hopper plot at 50th Street and Ninth Avenue. The funeral took place at the homestead, on the north side of Hopper's Lane, on a site at present located on the north side of 51st Street just west of the Albany Apartment house. Will of record in New York Co.

Andrew Hopper's city house was on the southeast corner of Ann Street and Broadway. This he bought in 1773 of Capt. Thomas White (vide N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Record, Vol. XXXVII, p. 224) and adjoined the property of Christoffel Stymetz, now the site of the Park Bank. The Hopper and Stymets parcels, known as 218-220 Broadway, became vested in Francis Olmstead and were called the "City Saloon." In 1835, this building and the ball-room therein were rented to Alexander Welch for 10 years at $1,900 per annum, and in 1852 to Phineas T. Barnum, where he carried on his museum. The term was for 25 years at $10,000 and taxes and assessments. In 1865, the premises were sold to James Gordon Bennett for $500,000 and here the N. Y. Herald was published for many years.

The directory of 1786 makes Hopper a merchant at 71 Chatham Row. On the property which he had inherited under the agreement of 1782 above mentioned, his father had built for him the residence which became such a conspicuous object on the Bloomingdale Road, at later 50th Street, on the site of the present American Horse Exchange. This was completed at the date of his marriage and in this country seat three of his four children were born. Here he carried on farming, the farmer's house being in the rear near present Seventh Avenue. In 1789, he was an Elder in the Collegiate Church and a supervisor of its school, organized in 1633 and the oldest seat of learning in the country in continuous existence. Its building is now at 77th Street and West End Avenue. In 1815, he was a founder and original Elder of the Bloomingdale Dutch Reformed Church, then at what became 70th Street and the Bloomingdale Road and occupied this position until his death. On Dec. 9, 1813, its pastor, Dr. Gunn, united him in marriage to Elizabeth Guest, the widow of Peter Arell. He d. April 4, 1824, and his widow Elizabeth Dec. 25, 1825, having had no issue. While he was serving in the Revolutionary war, his wife built a large house which was the only brick residence there at the time. It is still in a good state of preservation and was sold by his grandson, John Hopper Newcomb, 1859. We are indebted to The Newcomb Family (1874), a volume of 600 pages, by John B. Newcomb, of Elgin, Ill., for these particulars.

116. JASPER⁶ HOPPER (Andries,⁴ Johannes,⁵ Mathijs A.,³ Andries¹). At the age of 18 he entered the office of the Secretary of State at Albany as a clerk. He served as Clerk of the Assembly for two winters and Nov. 3, 1791, he was appointed Deputy Secretary of State under Secretary Lewis Allaire Scott. A Lieut. in the 5th N. Y. Regt. (Col. In 1799, he was admitted an honorary member of the Law Society of Albany and in the spring of 1802, became Clerk of Onondaga County. The following year he was appointed Supreme Court Commissioner. He held the office of Clerk until 1818, with the exception of one year (1811). He acted as Marshall for taking the Government census of 1810, at a time when Onondaga County comprised the present counties of Cortlandt, Onondaga, and part of Oswego. For nineteen years he was postmaster of Onondaga Hollow, and d. there June 30, 1848, aged 79. The portrait reproduced was taken from a miniature executed at the age of 21 (1791), while he was Deputy Secretary of State. In public and educational enterprises, Hopper was greatly interested and was a leading promoter in all movements for the upbuilding of the then new country of central New York. He was largely instrumental in the establishment in 1811, of the first newspaper of the country, The Lynx, published by Thomas Crittenden Fay, in which office Thurlow Weed, afterwards editor of the Albany Evening Journal, made his bow as a printer. In 1813, Onondaga Academy, one of the famous institutions of learning in the early history of the State, was organized and incorporated, in good part through Hopper's efforts, he being a liberal subscriber to the endowment fund and a trustee from its establishment to his decease.

Politically, he was a leader in the county of the Democratic party and is said to have been "a man of remarkable kindness and docility of disposition, very amiable, courteous, social and obliging. Few men, who have been so much in public life, escape with so little censure or expose themselves to fewer assaults from political opponents." Mr. Hopper m. Wits.: Jillis Maundeviel and Rachel Hoppe, his wife. He m. Elizabeth Waldron, July 15, 1759, dau. of Benjamin Waldron, who built on his part of the family farm in Harlem, a house which, on his death in 1782, passed with the surrounding property to Hopper. This was the fact which caused Riker to mention the family as quoted at the beginning of these articles. The quaint old stone house stood on Second Avenue, west side, between 83d and 84th Streets. There are two pictures of it in existence. Its sides were indented with shot from British warships. The site was historic ground. Gen. Howe held Hoorn's Hoek with his right division while the encampment of his left was posted across the Island to Bloomingdale at Striker's Bay. A powerful American battery was located at the Hoek during the Battle of Harlem Heights, which was not silenced.

Irving relates how certain Pavonians started to find a more eligible site for their habitations and the disaster which befell them. After vanquishing some savages in one of the inlets on the East River shore, on which bay they bestowed the name of Kip, in honor of Hendrik Kip who was of the party, they were shipwrecked in the rapids at a place they called Helle-gat. The author continues: "The woe-begone heroes of Communipaweyed each other with rueful countenances; their squadron had been totally dispersed by the late disaster. Some were cast upon the western shore, where, headed by one Ruloff Hopper, they took possession of all the country lying about the six-mile stone, which is held by the Hoppers at this writing." Bradford, first Governor of Plymouth Colony. He was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1843, and was preceptor of Belfast Academy. Admitted to the bar in Boston, he held there several municipal offices. In 1865 he went to Colorado, crossing the plains by mule team. Settling in Central City, he served in the Territorial Senate, became interested in several mines in Gilpin County and was a part owner of the new Boston mine. He married in 1880, Lettie E. Hurd, the daughter of Z. Lawrence Beebe, and besides his widow, left two brothers, one a physician living in Boston. The funeral was held in Syracuse, the Rev. S. R. Colthrop officiating and burial was made at Mt. Auburn, Boston.—Syracuse paper.

Smith's will, dated Jan. 13, 1825, was proved Aug. 23, 1828 (L. 2, 120 Common Pleas), in which he bequeathed all his estate to his wife Anna, his son-in-law Daniel Smith and his friend Absalom Weeks of New York City in trust and nominated them both executors and trustees. As sole survivor said Smith conveyed land in 84th Street to the Mayor, etc., in 1862 (L. 847, Conv. 610).

Since this series of articles was finished, attention has been called to the omission of three of the children of Matthijs Adolphus³ Hoppe (vide p. 123 of the April issue) viz.:

74a. MATHEUS³ HOPPE, m. Elizabeth Wright, June 3, 1744, and d. at the age of 68. In his will, dated Oct. 17, 1778 (L. 32 Wills, 144) he denominates himself a farmer and bequeathed to his wife all his estate lying in the Outward and known by the name of the Great Kills, during her life. Then to his three sons, John, Matthew and William, share and share alike. Appoints his wife and two elder sons and his friend Jacob van Norden, executors. The Dutch Church records state that twins, Andries and Johannes, were bap. June 3, 1747, and that the witnesses were Andries Hoppe and Elizabeth Bras, his wife, and Jillis Maundevel and Rachel Hoppe, his wife. Andries had evidently d. prior to the date of the will. Matthew m. Elizabeth — and had Matthew, bap. Nov. 28, 1780. The records of the Lutheran Church, as transcribed by Burhans, say that "the child this day is seven weeks old." Wits.: William Hopper and Hannah Webers.

It is to be assumed that the terms of the will were carried out. How the title became vested in Matthew, Jr., is not in evidence, but he advertised it for sale in the public press, Aug. 12, 1786, and this same year it was conveyed to John Leake, the well-remembered philanthropist, for £1,000, who owned premises north and east thereof. (L. 194, Conv. 352.)

74b. PAULUS³ HOPPE, a young man from Grootekil (Great Kill), m. May 30, 1716, a "y. d." (young woman) from Bouwerij, named Marijtje Quackenbos.* He served as Constable for the Outward,

Bowery Division, being elected Oct. 3, 1734. It was under the direction of this "Mr. Paulus Hoppe" that the well at the Work-House was dug. The bill for laborers, etc., £12 N. Y. currency, was ordered paid by warrant No. 621, May 21, 1735. Late in life Hoppe removed to Orange Co., N. Y. A house and ground, being 25 x 100 feet English measure in size, on the south side of Fair (Fulton) Street, N. Y. City, was conveyed by him and his wife Marijtje, then of that county, Nov. 6, 1740, to Johannes de Graaf for £80. Cornelius Turk and Gerard Beekman certify that they were present on the 26th, when Hoppe gave possession of the premises. (L. 40, Conv. 494.) Issue:

The Second Annual Report of the State Historian (Hastings) states that his age was forty, that he was b. in New York and was a farmer by occupation; that he volunteered out of Capt. John Snedeger's Co. of militia, that his statute was 5 feet 5 inches, that he had long brown hair and was a "sett man."

In 1776, the window leads were taken, by order of the Provincial Congress, to be used for making bullets, from the houses of the two brothers, Matthew and Rynear Hopper. That this family were owners of real estate south of the Fresh Water is substantiated by the fact that Matthew, Powles and Rinier signed the petition in 1774 asking for a suspension of the law requiring all buildings thereafter built to be constructed of stone or brick. Other petitioners included their uncle, James Striker, and their cousins, Andrew and Matthew Hopper. Gershom Mott was likewise a signer.

- 140 v. Mattheus, bap. May 2, 1742; wits.: Jillis Maundeviel and Rachel Hoppe, his wife. This son got into a little difficulty when he was forty years old, as evidenced by this entry from Onderdonk's Queens County in Olden Times: "1786, Sept. 21. A bench warrant was issued against Jotham Weeks, farmer, and Jotham Weeks, Jr., of Oyster Bay, and Matthew Hopper, gentleman, of New York, for riotously assembling and breaking in the house of Levi Weeks." This reads like a family affair in which Hopper took sides. No further particulars are vouchsafed.

The connection shown above with Nicholas Hart is most interesting. He was of Taunton, Mass., in 1643, was excommunicated there, went to Boston and was in trouble again in that place in 1644, as was Sarah, wife of Benjamin Keayne, daughter of Gov. Thomas Dudley, who was also excommunicated.* In January, 1648, he was in Warwick, R. I., and in 1651 at Portsmouth. His widow, Jane (or Joan), daughter of Edward Rossiter of Mass., petitioned the General Court for aid being then 70 years old.† Hart's exact relationship with the Evans and Lloyds is not apparent.

Edward Lloyd, brother of Cornelius, was perhaps of Elizabeth City in 1623,‡ he was Burgess of Lower Norfolk, 1644-46, and removed to Maryland before 1659.§ The Col. Thomas Lambert who was Overseer of the will of Elizabeth Lloyd may be identified with "Coll: Lambert" whose Banns of marriage with Dorothy Mason, both of the Parish of Lynhaven, were published in Court, 17 May, 1661.|| She was probably a daughter of Col. Lemuel Mason, but if so, predeceased him, as she is not named in his will, dated 17 June, 1695.¶

Not in Waters, who, however, names a Philip Mallory of Virginia as marrying a Catherine Batt (see Virginia Caroloum, in note infra).

Rev. Philp Mallory was son of Dr. Thomas Mallory, Arch-deacon of Richmond, 1603, and Dean of Chester (1607-1644),* and was born about 1617, being matriculated at Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 28 May, 1634, aged 17 years; he was B. He was in Virginia in 1656, and probably much earlier, in 1657 he was a member of the Assembly, at which he also officiated in 1658-9, and at the religious services when Charles II was proclaimed at Jamestown, 20 Sept., 1660 †. In March, 1660-1, he was appointed, "having been eminently faithful in the ministry," in company with Sir William Berkeley, the Governor, to solicit in England for the church in Virginia on which mission he evidently died, in spite of the fact that he is said to have been minister at Elizabeth City in 1644 and 1664 as "Mr. Mallory."‡ The first of these dates probably refers to the testator, the second certainly to some one else, as the date and probate of his will prove conclusively that he died between July 23d and 27th, 1661, in England, nor could this have been his brother Thomas, as he had then been presented for four years as Prebend of Chester (30 July, 1660),§ but it may

The Dutcher family, now so-called, early appears under the various spellings and misspellings of ye duitcher, je teutscher, de duytscher, de duijtser, de ducker, de duitcher, de duitscher, de diser, de ducher, de duecher, de duitser, de duzer, diser, dizer, deytcher, ducher, duchert, duiaser, duther, dnytscher, duythser, duyser, duytsert, duyts, duytsen, duytsere, duytschen, duyter, duytschess, etc., etc., according to the gentlemanly ideas of orthography possessed by early clerks and later copyists. The family is singular in having retained the national "Dutch" nickname as its modern designation. Its members are to be distinguished from the "Dutch" family of New England, from the descendants, mostly most worthy, of that old matrimonial scamp Laurens Duyts of Holstein, known as the Big Dane or Great Shoe, whose sale of a wife cost him an ear, and from the family of Du Sauchoy, now "Dissoway," members of which, by one of those errors which render indices of little value, are given as "Duyts" (19 Feb., 1676; N. Y. D. Ch., 2-121).

* Savage, I, 462; Pope, 119-120.

† From Parish Registers of Balsham, Cambridgeshire. In Pope and other authorities she is called Horrocks.

The evident meaning of the name, which is a mere tab or label or nick-name, giving no clue either to the patronymic or family name, is "the Dutch Man"—man, as the old divine wisely inspired says, at all times embracing woman, and "Dutch," from the date of its early use more probably implying a Hollander than a German. Today every village has its "Dutchman," who most probably is a German; but as early as 1689, when the Dutchers first appear as such, the proper term for a German was "Hoogdeutser" or "High Dutchman." Thus, in the 1714 Ulster Co., N. Y., List of Freeholders (Clearwater's Hist. of Ulster Co., 66), one Hermanus, a German, appears as "Hermanus de Hoogdeutser," while two of the Dutcher family appear, one as "Cornelis de Duytcher," and one as "Dirck de Duytser" (id., 67, 69). 2 Jan., 1729, in Connecticut, "Ellen Ducher, a Dutch girl" appears, showing an independent use of the term (Early Conn. Marriages, 4th Book, 87).

Down to 1700, and even later, the Netherland people always referred to themselves as Duytsen or Neder Duytsen, whence the English and American appellation of Dutchmen. "De" in French is of or from; but in Dutch the definite article "the."

The U. S. Census of 1790 shows 34 Dutcher heads of families, scattered in New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Vermont, but all are of identical origin.

The early de Duytschers, distinctly so called in church record, are eight in number, and of one, Mageltje Roelofse, i. e., Mathilda, daughter of Roelof, No. 5 hereinafter, the parents are easily determinable. She was not the daughter of Roelof Corneliszen van Houten, as is suggested in "Van Houtens of Bergen," 27 N. Y. Gen., 183, but was the daughter of Roelof Willemszen and Willempje (i. e. Wilhelmina) Thyssen, and is called "de duytscher" once in Kingston entry 1414, 15 Aug., 1703.

Of the remaining seven, six—Cornelis, No. 7, Cornelia, No. 8, Catharine, No. 9, Dirck, No. 10, Roelof, No. 12, and David, No. 13, all first appear at Kingston, in the church records, as parents, and the seventh, Barent, No. 11, who appears at Tarrytown, and Cornelis, Dirck, Roelof and David are all stated in one entry or the other to have been born in adjacent parts of Ulster Co., close to or at Kingston. It was soon apparent that these seven were brothers and sisters, for all born or appearing at or near Kingston, at approximate dates, they acted frequently as godparents to each others children. Thus Cornelis, 7, and Cornelia, 8, were sponsors to Dirck's son Cornelis, 36. Catharine's husband Jan Roeland, 9, was sponsor to Cornelia's son Samuel Wels, 26. David, 13, was sponsor with Maritje Wels, 22, to Dirck's son David, 35, and to Roelof's daughter Margaret, 56, and Dirck, 10, to Roelof's son Johannes, 52, etc. This sponsorship continues among those of the next generation, and the same friends act as godparents to many of the early Dutchers. The military affiliations of the men were close, and resulted finally in a quota of over 40 men and two captains in the Revolution. When, therefore, it appeared that all the original Dutchers who had sons had a son John—being the first son of Barent, of Dirck and of Roelof, the second son of David, the first son of Catharine by her husband Jan Roeland, and the second son of Cornelia, it was evident the common father was a John, a conclusion rendered positive by the fact that Cornelia appears once as Cornelia Jansen (K., 64), and Roelof once as "rullof Johnson" while in the militia. So, also, in similar fashion, the common mother's name is demonstrated to be Margaret, being the name of the only child of Cornelis, the second daughter of Dirck, of Roelof, of Barent and of Cornelia; Catharine having no daughter, and the birth date of David's daughter Margaret being uncertain. Nothing in Dutch genealogy is more certain than such an inference, and it was, therefore, with a sense of inevitable fulfillment of prophecy that some three years ago, I discovered "Jan Willemsen ye Dutcher," 3, who 1 Sept., 1686, in Ulster Co., N. Y., appeared and took the oath of English allegiance at the same time that "Cornelis ye Dutcher," 7, failed to appear (Hist. of Ulster Co., 69-70).

This Dutch game of "Japhet in Search of a Father" thus settled down to an effort to trace the particular John, son of William, and to ascertain his relationship, which if any had to be that of brother, to the Roelof, son of William, whose daughter Mageltie appears once as "de Duytser." Our Jan Willemszen was early proved to be neither Jan Willemszen Yselsteyn, nor Seuth, or van Burculo, or van Cujanes, or van Leyden, or van Leuven, or van Loosdrecht, or Bennet, or Vertein, or Cornel, or Rome(n) van Werkendam, or van Amsterdam, or Sebra, or Schutt, or any of the remaining Jans "Willemzen" catalogued in Bergen's Early Settlers of Kings Co., N. Y., or Jan Willemszen Hoogtaeling, husband of Barbara Jans, and prominent at Kingston, whom Burhans, in error, was inclined to identify with Jan Willemszen van Loosdrecht, who settled at Bergen. But our Jan may well be identical with the Jan Willemszen, who with his wife Margaret or Grietje Cornelis, 22 Jan., 1662, Kingston entry 13, had baptized a son Willem, evidently their first son, and who may be identical with Jan Willmsen Brant, who with his wife Gritye Cornelissen, 24 April, 1684, had baptized a son Tys, i. e. Mathew, no where else appearing of record (K., 217). The wife's name Margaret is strong confirmation of this identification, and her full name Margaret Cornelisse, i. e. daughter of Cornelis, explains Cornelis, 7, and possibly Cornelia, 8, and it is almost conclusive that the young Jacob Barentsen Cool, who with his recently married wife, Marretje Simons, appeared as sponsor to this couple's first son Willem, 6, supra, 22 Jan., 1662 (K., 13), should also, 39 years later appear as sponsor, 13 April, 1701, to Catharine de Duytser's son Jan, 29 (K., 1232), and 29 Dec., 1701, to Cornelia Jansen de Duytser's son Jan, 25 (K., 1281), the name Jan in each case preserving the name of Jacob Cool's early friend Jan Willemszen. As early as 9 Oct., 1650 (N. Y. D., 2-28), "Jan Helmszen" appears as sponsor at the baptism of Jacob Barentzen Cool's brother Arent; but he may be the Jan Helmsze van "Barlt," Schleswig-Holstein, of "Rensellaer-Bouwier manuscript" mention (p. 827, note). It is possible that Grietje Cornelis was daughter of the Cornelis Leenderts whose sister Marretje became wife of Barent Jacobsen Cool, and so mother of Jacob Barentsen Cool. The name "Willemsen" or "Williamson" was common among the Dutch, German and English, and the early existence of several Williamsons known as "Englishmen," explains the need of the tab "ye duitcher" used as early as 1686 on the "Dutch" Jan and his children. Even a Jan Brandt, "Engelsman, i. e. Englishman, appears 30 Dec., 1646 (N. Y. D., 2-21), with a son Jan. 10 Nov., 1641, there was a Willem Willemszen, "Engelsman" (N. Y. D., 2-12) and 11 Aug., 1672 (N. Y. D., 1-36), Jan Willemszen of Huntington, England, was refused marriage to Margaret Viskaeck (Fiscock). 19 Feb., 1689, a Robert Willemszen "from England," married Grees (i. e. Grace) Cerant (N. Y. D., 1-66), and 14 Sept., 1673, at Kingston, Ulster Co., a Dutch "Jan Willemse" was lieutenant of the local militia, while at Shrewsbury an English "John Williamson" held the same office.

That Jan Willemszen and Roelof Willemszen were, almost certainly, brothers is indicated by the following facts: both appear about the same dates, 1660-3, at Beverwyck, Fort Orange, or the present Albany, each the son of a William. Jan, moving to Ulster Co., has a son Roelof. Roelof's daughter Mageltje, 5, moving, also to Ulster Co., has as sponsors to her child Marretje, No. 19, 25 Aug., 1700 (K., 1189), Roelof de Duytser, 12, and Catharina de Duytser, 9, Jan's son and daughter, and 15 Aug., 1703 (K., 1414), Mageltje appears as "de Duytser." Robert Sanders of Albany, is sponsor to Mageltie's daughter Jannetje, 17, and Robert's son Barent is in his turn sponsor to Roelof de Duytser's son Johannes, 55. Marytjen Wels, 22, daughter of Cornelia de Duytser, 8, is sponsor to Hendrick, 123, son of Mageltje's daughter Marretjen, 19, and Mageltje's daughter Willemptie Oosterom, 16, having married Hendrick Buys. Hendrick, 6 Oct., 1714 (N. Y. D., 2-377), is sponsor with Dirkje Lammerse (Smit), whose cousin soon after married Barent Duytser, 11, and Mynno (Wilhelmina) Buys, a niece of Hendrick, married Johannes De Duytscher, 42, son of Barent, 11.

Mr. Whittemore, in his De Duytscher Genealogy, mainly devoted to the descendants of Roelof de Duytscher, 12, suggests a Dutcher descent from the "De Dechiers" of France, and thereby supplies the inevitable coat of arms. In this country he finds the ancestor in Dirck Corneliszen Duyster, who in 1630 was employed by Killae Van Rensselaer, and was one of those who for him took title to Rensselaerwyck. Dirck's son he assumes to be Cornelis ye Duitcher, No. 7, who is taken to be the father of the other Dutchers. As Cornelis was not born until 1667, and did not marry until 1691, this theory was always untenable. The recent publication of Van Rensselaer-Bouvier Manuscripts (p. 700 and references there given) shows that Dirck was drowned at sea in 1636, unmarried, and that his half-brother Willem died in 1635 leaving no son, Willem being an artist or painter of Amsterdam. "Duyster" means the twilight or gloaming.

The record, therefore, begins:

1. WILHELM,¹ the name of the father of Roelof and Jan. Remembering that Roelof is stated to be "van Heerden," it is just possible that Wilhelm may be the Willem Janszen "van Heerden," who 18 Dec., 1654, m. Leentje Martens, the widow of the patriotic Jochem Pieterszen (Kuyter). (See N. Y. D. M., p. 19.) Kuyter was slain by the Indians, March, 1654, and his widow, probably for protection in those troublous times, re-married without delay, and was herself massacred 15 Sept., 1655; her husband by some means escaping (Riker's Harlem, 92, 160, 162, etc.). As Leentje Martens appears as early as 20 Oct., 1639 (N. Y. D., 2-10), she was probably a matured woman at her re-marriage, and the entry gives no information whether Willem Janszen was a widower or single. Heerden was a very small village, about 30 miles N. N. E. from Arnheim in Gelderland, Holland. But the matter is pure conjecture, and Willem's issue, if any, must have been by an assumed prior marriage.

*2 Roelof² Willemszen, "van Heerden," m. before 1663, Willempje Thyssen; d. before 1674.

*3 Jan Willemszen, m. before 1662, Margaret — (?), probably Margaret Cornelisse.

2. ROELOF² WILLEMSZEN (Wilhelm¹), m. before 1663, Willempje Thyssen (Wilhelmina, dau. of Mathew). 23 March, 1663, Rollof Willamszen "van Heerden," at Beverwyck, later Albany, sold to Geurt or Gerrit Hendrickszen a lot with a cellar and the shed over it, for 275 guilders in see-want (Pearson's Rensselaerwyck, 320), and the day before he borrowed 504 fl. ($100.80) from Hend. Hendricksen, at 10% repayable in July (Albany, Index to Public Records). 23 Sept., 1663, Roelof Willemszen and Willempje Thyssen, his wife, both from Beverwyck, became Brooklyn Church members (1897, Holl. So., 136, 138). 6 March, 1667, Willempje was sponsor with the well-known Resolved Waldron (id. 149). Roelof d. soon after, and his widow, before 1674 became the 3d wife of Jan Corneliszen Buys, son of Cornelis Buys of Buninck, and Hendrickje Janszen Damen, sister of the Jan Janszen Damen so prominent in early New York, who adopted Jan Buys as his son. Bergen's Early Settlers gives a confused and erroneous history of Jan Corneliszen Buys. The facts appear in Mrs. Welch's note on the Boyce Family, 33 N. Y. Gen., 56-57. Jan's 1st wife was Ida or Eybe Lubbertse of Fort Orange, sister of the Tryntje Lubbertse who m. Hendrick Jansen Oosteroom, whose son Jan m. Roelof Willemszen's dau. Mageltje. The Damens, Buys and Oosterooms were all early at Rensselaerwyck and Albany, where Roelof appears. By her 2d husband Willempje had Mattheys Janszen Buys, 14 Jan., 1674 (N. Y. D., 2-113), who

m. Elizabeth Ariaense, and Hiletje Jansen Buys, who m. Klaas (i. e. Nicholas) Symonszen (1897, Holl. So., 164). 29 Nov., 1686, Willempje and Jan Buys made their joint will, proved 28 Jan., 1689-90, on her death. In the proceedings her husband is called Honorable Jan Buys. The personalty, her property, was inventoried at 379 florins (see Kings Co. Conveyances, liber 1, new paging 75-77.) The will mentions Willempje's four children, two by Roelof Willemszen. Willempje made her mark. Issue:

4 Willem Roelofszen, mentioned in the will as living in 1686. No other trace. Bergen's Early Settlers, 389, gives the name in error as "Roelof Willemszen."

*5 Mageltje Roelofsze, probably b. in Albany; m. 19 Aug., 1683, Jan Hendrickzen Oosterom.

3. "JAN' WILLEMSZEN YE DUITCHER" (Wilhelm¹). 1 Sept. 1689, Jan appears as "ye duitcher" in Ulster Co., N. Y., and took the oath of English allegiance (Hist. Ulster Co., 69). "Jan Willemszen" with the subsequently notorious Aert Peterszen Tack, 5 Aug., 1660, purchased of Johanna de Laet, widow of Jan de Hulter, and wife of Hieronymus Ebbingsh of Hamburg, 48 morgens, 2 rods of land at Esopus, for 600 guilders, payable in three annual instalments in grain and beavers (Pearson's Rensselaerwyck; 276-7). Jan Willemszen made his mark. Tack, 14 Aug., 1661 (K., 7), appears in Kingston, and "Jan Willemszen" the same year (1897, Holl. Soc., 131). Burhan's Genealogy, p. 2, mentions an unconfirmed statement of the late Jonathan W. Hasbrouck that in 1663 "Jan Willemszen and his wife" in court at Kingston referred to Jacob Burhans as capable of testifying to their good character, as he came from their town Einigen in Brabant. 18 Sept., 1663, "Jan Willemszen" was fined for venturing outside the Kingston stockade, without a guard, in violation of the decree made after the Indian massacre of 7 June, 1663. 14 Sept., 1673, "Jan Willemszen" was lieutenant under Capt. Matheis Mathysen at Kingston (N. Y. State Hist. Rept., 1-383), and 1686-7 "Jan Willemszen" was corporal under the same captain, with "rullof Johnson" as a private (id. 2-451), and in 1687 "John Williamson" with "Barend a holender" (? Barent de Duytscher, 11), were "fottmen" in Capt. Tomes (Thomas) Gersones' Co. (id. 2-449).

Assuming, as I believe to be correct, that Jan Willemszen ye duitcher is identical with Jan Willemsen, husband of Grietje Cornelisse, the children are:

6 Willem,² b. 22 Jan., 1662 (K., 13); wit.: Jacob Barentszen (Cool) and Marretjen Simons (his wife); Saertje Jelles (i. e. Sarah Giles). No further trace.

*7 Cornelis ye duitcher, b. circa 1667; m. before 1692, Leonora de Hooges.

*8 Cornelia Jansen de Duytser, m. Jan., 1689, Jan Wels.

*9 Catharina de Duytser, b. at Vlecke Bos, Ulster Co., N. Y. Had a son Lucas, 3 June, 1694, and m. Jan Roeland, 11 Feb., 1700 (K. M., 154).

- *¹⁰ Dirck de Duytser, b. Hurley, Ulster Co.; m. 19 Nov., 1699, Jannetje Bont (K. M., 151).
- *¹¹ Barent de Duytser, b. Esopus; m. (1) before 1701, Maretje Conckling; m. (2) 29 Dec., 1717, Dirckje Smit (T. M., 21).
- *¹² Roelof de Duytser, b. Marbletown, Ulster Co.; m. banns 19 Nov., 1700, Jannetje Bresie (K. M., 164); d. 19 Jan., 1737.
- *¹³ David de Duytser, b. Kingston, Ulster Co.; m. 19 Feb., 1714, Elizabeth Davenport (K. M., 309); d. 1773.
- 14 Tys (t. c. Mathew), b. 24 April, 1681 (K., 217); wit.: Jan Ewoutsen and Volkertjen Jans. Jan Ewoutsen (Bergen's Early Settlers) was a pot baker, and it may be noted that Johanna de Laet, from whom Jan Willemszen bought his land at Esopus, conducted an early pottery at or near Kingston. Volkertjie Jans was 1st wife of Claes Jansen van Boekhaven of Albany in 1662 and prior thereto, when "Jan Willemszen" was there. No further trace.

5. MAGELTJE¹ ROELOFSZE DE DUYTSE (Roelof,² Wilhelm¹), b. probably in Albany, whence her parents moved in 1663 to Brooklyn. 1677, "Machild Roelofse," of the Wallabout, was a member of the Brooklyn Church, and is entered as moved to Bergen, N. J. (Bergen's Early Settlers, 243); m. 19 Aug., 1683, at Midwout, L. I. (1898. Holl. So., 90), banns at Bergen, N. J., 22 July, 1683, Jan Hendrickszen Oosterom, b. 24 June, 1657 (N. Y. D., 2-46), son of Hendrick Janszen, van Schaleckwyck, in Utrecht, afterwards called Ostrom, van Oosterom and van Ostrum, by his first wife Tryntje Lubbertse of Fort Orange, m. 4 Dec., 1652 (N. Y. D., 1-18). Tryntje's parents were Lubbert Gysbertszen, the wheelwright, b. 1601, from Blericum, near Naarden, and Divertje (Debora) Cornelis, who with their three sons, Gysbert, aged 10, theus (Matthew), aged 6, and Jan, aged 1½ years, arrived in Rensselaerwyck on de Eendracht in 1634 (see full note, Van Rensselaerwyck-Bouvier Manuscripts, 311, 808). Lubbert d. before the Indian troubles in New York in 1656, and his widow with Jan Corneliszen Buys, her son-in-law, then requested permission "to tap" or sell liquors, as they had been driven from their homes (Fernow's Records of New Amsterdam, vol. 2, p. 93). The request was granted. Jan Corneliszen Buys, whose first wife as already stated was Eybe Lubbertse; m. (3) Mageltje's mother Willempje Thyssen. "Hendrick Jansen Oosterom" m. (2) Grietje or "Geesje" Jacobs, 23 May, 1666, at Bergen, N. J. The identification of "Oosterom" with "van Schaleckwyck," here first made, determines the Oosterom ancestor and gives the baptismal dates of two of his children, Jan and "Trintje. Van Oosterom owned land at Flushing, L. I. (Bergen's Early Settlers, 217), and at Bergen, N. J. (Winfield's Land Titles, 69, 70, 127, 270, 272, 314). Jan's sister, m. 30 Sept., 1672 (Bergen), Adriaen Pieterszen Buys, from Tiel, whose son Hendrick, m. Mageltje's daughter Willempje (16). Jan joined the Bergen, N. J., church, 21 June, 1682, and his wife became a member 1 Oct., 1683, by certificate from Midwout, L. I. The couple moved up to Poughkeepsie, where some of their children were born, and where most of them lived, and where Jan was Elder, elected June, 1716. The loss of the Church Baptismal Records, 1645-1764, precludes an accurate record of many descendants. A Gerrit Willems "Oosterom" was at Rensselaerwyck in 1633, but does not again appear.* As Jan was the only son of his father, all "Oosteroms" trace through him and Mageltje. Issue:

- 15 Trientje* Oosterom, once also called Gertraud, b. 20, bap. 30 June, 1684 (Bergen, N. J.); named after Jan's mother, deceased; wit.: Willempje Tysen, 3, Hendrick Jansen Oosterom; m. 1 June, 1701 (K. M., 174), Herman Reynderszen, b. Bushwick, L. I.; bap. 30 Jan., 1678 (N. Y. D., 2-131), son of Harmen Reynierszen and Jannetie Cortois or Coutois. Resided at Poughkeepsie. The family name became Rynders. I am inclined to identify Harmen and Jannetie with the Harmen Reynderse and Jannetie Jaspers, his wife, who appear in the Records of New Castle in Delaware, pp. 72, 75, 90, 196, 198. Harmen, owing 128 guilders to Henry Ward, was sued and claimed he was to have six weeks within which to pay. The court gave him this time, but he d. before it expired, May 7-8, 1678. It was so reported to the court, and as Harmen's house was under contract of sale to John Ogle (Oakley?), John was directed to discharge the debt out of the purchase money. "Jannetie Jaspers," widow and sole heir of Harmen, accordingly so transferred the house. "Jannetje Jasperse" appears as sponsor to our Hermans' first child, No. 100. If the identification be correct, Jannetje was a dau. of Jasper Courtois or Coutois. She appears 13 Feb., 1667, as a sponsor (N. Y. D., 2-86). Herman Reynders was a volunteer from Ulster County for the 1711 Expedition against Canada. Issue:
- 100 Hermanus* Rynders, bap. 31 May, 1702 (K., 1319); wit.: Jan Oosterom, 5, Jannetje Jasperse; m. Elizabeth Bertley.
- 101 Joannes Rynders, bap. 29 Aug., 1703 (K., 1416); wit.: Barent Van Cleeck, Willempje Oosterom. m. Helena Van den Bogert.
- 102 Jacob Rynders, bap. 19 Oct., 1707 (K., 1671); wit.: Jacob Buys, Jacomyntje Swart; m. Susta or Silsta Vielle.

* Of Hendrick Jansen's dau. Jannetje, there is the Oosterom note in Bergen's Early Settlers. She appears, also, as witness to the baptism of Roelof Oosterom, 18 (see K. 1046). Treyntje, the other dau., m. as stated, 30 Sept., 1672, at Bergen, Arien Pieterse Buys, and had Pieter, 6 July, 1673 (N. Y. D., 2-110); d. young; Tryntie, 28 Aug., 1675 (N. Y. D., 2-120); m. Dirck Straetmaker, i. e. roadmaker or pavior; Gerritje, 15 Jan., 1678 (Bergen, N. J.) Pieter, 12 Dec., 1679 (Bergen, N. J., and 2 N. Y. D., 130); m. Gertrude Hoppe(n); Gertruyt, b. 24 April, 1682 (Bergen, N. J., and 2 N. Y. D., 152); m. Roelof Kobes (Hackensack, 27); Hendrick, 2 April, 1684 (Bergen, N. J.); m. Wilempje Oosterom; Jacob, 11 Oct., 1686 (Bergen, N. J.); m. Maritie de Vaux; Johannes, 2 April, 1689 (Bergen, N. J.); m. Marritje Brouwers.

- 103 Machiel Rynders, bap. 18 Sept., 1709 (K., 1799); wit.: Machiel Palmetier, Neeltje Damen; m. Seyna Clark(?).
- 103a Meinhard (Myndert) Rynders, b. middle of March; bap. 1 Nov., 1711 (West Camp, No. 88); Parents: Herman, and his wife Gertraud, commonly called "Drine Ohrstrohm" Reneresse; wit.: Jacobus Von dem Bogard. Bap. Poughkeepsie.
- 104 Jannetjen Rynders, bap. 23 Oct., 1717 (Poughkeepsie); wit.: Hendericus Van den Burg, Magdalene Knyd; m. David Relje at Poughkeepsie. Also called Johanna.
- 105 Thomas Rynders, bap. 7 June, 1721 (Poughkeepsie); wit.: Robert Sanders, Zytjen Sanders.
- 106 Anthonette Rynders, bap. 6 May, 1724 (Poughkeepsie); wit.: Machiel Van Klecck, Anthonette Parmentier; m. Christoffel Rees.
- 107 Maretje Rynders, bap. 9 July, 1726 (aged about 2 m.), N. Y. Luth. Ch.; wit.: Maretje Oosterom and her husband Hendrick Philips, 19; m. William Gee (Gay).
- 107a(?) Tryntje Rynders, who May, 1738, m. Roelof Dutcher. See No. 59. Probably b. between 1711-1717.
- 107b(?) Helena Rynders, who 17 May, 1741, m. Isaac White, son of William White and Judith Meelis. See under No. 59 and No. 53.

CORRECTION.

To the editor of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record:

SIR:

In the issue of your magazine for October, 1908, under the caption of Lords of Manors of New York, allusion is made to "Billopp, Lord of Bentley Manor."

1. You state that "Capt. Billopp received from the King in 1687 the lordship of Bentley Manor of over 2,000 acres," etc.

The truth is that the Duke of York made this grant in 1668 but withheld title until 1687, and the amount of land was 1,163 acres.

2. Your correspondent further states that "his (Capt. Billopp's) only dau. m. Mr. Young Farmer."

The husband of Eugenia Billopp was Thomas Farmer, her cousin.

3. Further, you state that "the manor was the meeting place of Lord Howe, Dr. Franklin, John Adams and Edward Rutledge in 1778."

The interview was held on Sept. 6, 1776, immediately after the battle of Long Island.

4. Still further, "Farmer-Billopp entered the British Army and became Colonel."

No! He was an Associate Judge of Richmond County and was commissioned a Major of the local militia.

5. Your correspondent adds, "his (Farmer-Billopp's) estates were confiscated by the Revolutionary Party in America in 1782 and he settled in New Brunswick where he became President of the Provincial Council."

Thomas Farmer Billopp d. Aug. 2, 1750, in the thirty-ninth year of his age, and was buried in the homestead graveyard on the Billopp estate.

Thomas Farmer and Eugenia Billopp had two children, at least, a daughter and a son. Salley, as the dau. was called in the family records, m. Alexander Ross of Elizabethtown, N. J., where she lived for a number of years. Their son, b. in 1734, was named Christopher in honor of his grandfather, the founder of the family on Staten Island. In early life he rose to social distinction.

About 1750, Christopher Billopp was appointed Chief of Police of Richmond County. He was repeatedly a member of the Colonial Legislature. Immediately upon the arrival of Sir William Howe's army on Staten Island (July 3, 1776), Christopher Billopp was commissioned a Lieutenant-Colonel of militia, and he organized a battalion of infantry, composed of Loyalists, or native Staten Islanders. He was practically the Provost Marshal of Staten Island throughout the Revolution.

The Colonists of New Jersey were very bitter in their hostility to Billopp, and on two different occasions made him a prisoner of war.

After the war, Colonel Billopp, with fifty-four families of Loyalists, in 1783, petitioned Sir Guy Carleton for extensive grants of land in Nova Scotia. Colonel Billopp soon after went to New Brunswick, in that Province, where for many years he bore a prominent part in the administration of public affairs. He was a member of the House of Assembly and the Council, and on the death of Governor Smythe in 1833, he claimed the Presidency of the Government, and issued his proclamation accordingly, but the Hon. Ward Chapman was a competitor for the same station, and was sworn into office.

IRA K. MORRIS,

Author of Morris's Memorial History of Staten Island.

BOOK NOTICES.

THE BREWSTER GENEALOGY, 1566-1907. A RECORD OF THE DESCENDANTS OF WILLIAM BREWSTER OF THE "MAYFLOWER," RULING ELDER OF THE PILGRIM CHURCH WHICH FOUNDED PLYMOUTH COLONY IN 1620. By Emma C. Brewster Jones of Cincinnati, Ohio. Two volumes. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 1415. Full Index. The Grafton Press, New York. 1908.

The foundation for this work was a manuscript collection made by Lot Edward Brewster in 1847, upon which his granddaughter, the compiler, has built up an exhaustive genealogy of this leading New England Puritan. Her enthusiastic and persistent research, coupled with great natural aptitude in genealogical compilation, has resulted in the only authoritative and accurate record of William Brewster, leader of the earliest Massachusetts Colony, and his descendants. Eleven generations, through four of the grandsons of Elder Brewster, are traced out, approximating forty-one hundred families of the name, as well as the descendants of his nine granddaughters. It would be vain to estimate the labor, time and perseverance devoted to this task and perhaps the highest praise that can be written would be the statement that the result is successful beyond all possible criticism. There is no assumption for the New England descendants of the coat of arms of the Brewster family in England, no claim for nobility of ought save character, and no pretension to honors except such as were won by honest merit and virtuous living. The chapters upon the Scrooby Manor House, once the abode of William Brewster; the sojourn in Lyden; the Mayflower compact; Governor Bradford's List of Mayflower passengers; Elder Brewster's Inventory and the Brewster Book, teem with valuable information. Fortunate indeed for those allied by blood or marriage to this eminent emigrant that such a compilation has been published and the facts therein thus preserved for all time.

The illustrations are numerous, well chosen and excellently re-produced in half tone; the arrangement is standard, and the index exhaustive, thus rendering reference to an ancestor immediate and easy. In typography, paper and binding these volumes do credit to The Grafton Press, and no wishes can be too good for the success, both literary and financial, of this monumental publication.

BUCKS COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY. A COLLECTION OF PAPERS READ BEFORE THE SOCIETY. Edited by B. F. Fackenthal, Jr., of Riegelsville, Pa. Vol. I, Cloth, 8vo, pp. 585. Easton, Pa. 1909.

No less than seventy-two sketches and papers dealing with events and people of local interest are embraced in this volume and as the first printed record of the Society it reflects credit upon the Editorial Committee. Buck County teems with Revolutionary and Pre-Revolutionary events and as the hunting ground of the Lenni-Lenape Indians, the home of William Penn, the early settlement of the Palatine Germans and the Mennonites, the abode of George Taylor, the Signer, and of the Doane family, this county is a rich treasure field for the antiquarian, genealogist and historian. While the extent of the work necessarily includes papers of minor importance yet the greater part of the sketches are well worth preserving in printed form. The typography and appearance of the book is excellent and it is hoped that the Society will be encouraged to issue other volumes of like importance.

THE CHAFFEE GENEALOGY, EMBRACING THE DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS CHAFFE OF HINGHAM, HULL, REHOBOTH AND SWANSEA, MASSACHUSETTS, 1635-1909. By William H. Chaffee. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 663. Full Index of Persons and Places. The Grafton Press, New York. 1909.

The modesty of the compiler of these extensive records in omitting his name from the title page should not exempt him from the praise and credit justly due him. Doubtless much valuable aid has been given by the various members of the family set out in the preface, but without the patience, pride of family and tireless energy of the author of the work, the family had continued to exist without a printed history. The preservation of the great bible of Thomas Chaffe, the first ancestor in New England, with its clear entries in his own handwriting, is one of the few instances of such priceless heirlooms being handed down and in existence at the present day. Certain lineages from other families of like name in the United States, Canada and England, not descended from Thomas Chaffe, are given in the appendix and go far to making the record of the name exhaustive.

The pages on Devonshire Wills of "Chafys" and on the ancient parish of Chaffcombe, Co. Somerset, England, are full of interest but no connection of the New England ancestor with such English forbears can be shown, nor any right of certain American families of the name to usurp the arms born by the English family.

The portrait illustrations in this volume are particularly good, as is its press work and material.

A DOCUMENTARY HISTORY OF CHELSEA INCLUDING THE BOSTON PRECINCTS OF WINNISIMMEY, RUMNEY MARSH AND PULLEN POINT, 1621-1821. By Mellen Chamberlain. Cloth, Octavo, Volume I, pp. 648—Vol. II, pp. 793. Boston. 1908.

No more valuable historical record of the early settlement of Boston has been published than this work of the late Mr. Chamberlain, and the Massachusetts Historical Society has laid historians under a heavy debt by its enterprise and liberality in printing such a collection.

Every important paper relating to "Chelsea" has been set out in full and the long controversy as to the earliest settlement and most ancient dwelling in the upper bay of Boston has been finally disposed of, viz.: Samuel Maverick's Palisade House at Winnisimmet, 1624-5.

The work treats of the early planters at Winnisimmet, the Indian Deeds, Allotments of Land, Gov. Bellingham's Estate and Will, the Winnisimmet Ferry, Early Churches and Pastors, the French War, American Revolution, etc., and the town and court records now published appear to be exhaustive of the subject of ancient Chelsea.

Perhaps a more general historical review of the town and less documentary record would have been easier reading, but the untimely death of the author undoubtedly hampered the final form of the work and at the most the historian need only expend a little more time in reading the transcripts. The publisher of these volumes is to be congratulated upon so scholarly a production and the difficulty of typing ancient documents full of quaint and curious words and alliterations has been well surmounted by the press-men. The work is standard American history and also contains genealogical data of the utmost value to the descendants of the early Chelsea settlers.

GENEALOGY OF THE DE CARPENTIER FAMILY OF HOLLAND. By Edwin Jacquett Sellers. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 59. Indexed. Limited Edition. Philadelphia, Pa. 1909.

The great expense of searching and transcribing the Dutch, French and English records deters many from attempting to trace their ancestry elsewhere than in the new continent of America. This brief work is an unusually good example of what can be found in ancient archives, when given the interest and means to secure skilled archivists, and the pedigree of Pierre de Carpentier of Messen, Flanders, is admirably set forth. The classification of the data obtained and the elimination of unnecessary detail in the work evidences the trained mind of a born genealogist. The two illustrations of eminent members of the family are beautifully reproduced from ancient pictures and the style of the book is much to be commended.

DONALDSON FAMILY RECORD. By James H. Slipper, M. A. Cloth, Large Quarto, pp. 52. New York. 1909.

This work is a record of the descendants of James Donaldson born in the Parish of Rothes, Scotland, 27th December, 1769, who came to New York in 1791, and is compiled more to preserve in permanent form family data, obituaries, war records and family tributes than exhaustive genealogical "data." The value to future family historians is unquestioned and the compiler has produced a creditable publication both in matter and typography.

THE EAST HAVEN REGISTER, in Three Parts. By Stephen Dodd. Cloth, Small 8vo, pp. 200. New Haven. 1824.

This early book is a veritable treasure trove, dealing with the history of the town of East Haven, Connecticut, from its earliest settlement in 1644 to 1800, and containing the names, marriages and births of the families which first settled or resided in the town to 1800, arranged by name, and an account of the deaths from 1647-1823, unfortunately arranged chronologically.

The data given is unusually complete for the early date of compilation and had more of such work been done by the local pastors, the labor of the present day genealogists would have been much lightened.

HISTORY OF THE FIFTH AVENUE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF NEW YORK CITY FROM 1808 TO 1908, with an account of its Centennial Anniversary Celebration, December 18th-23d, 1908. By Henry W. Jessup. Cloth, Large Octavo, pp. 283. New York, 1909.

This work records the history, mission, activities, Pastors and Officers, Reports of Societies and Centennial Addresses of one of the wealthiest and most influential churches in the Empire City. The biographies and portraits of the pastors and officers from the organization of the church to date are carefully prepared and contain many facts concerning the early religious movement of this city. The full names of the church members for one hundred years are given and number many of the most influential citizens, while the tribute to the late Rev. Dr. John Hall, one of the strongest officers of the Presbytery and long Pastor of this church, is worthy of the great work he accomplished.

THE HOLMANS IN AMERICA. By David Emory Holman, M. D., Attleboro, Mass. Cloth, Quarto, pp. 295. Full Index. The Grafton Press, New York. 1909.

This volume records the descendants of Solomon Holman who settled in West Newbury, Mass., in 1692-3, from whom William Howard Taft, President of the United States, is descended, but the connection with any earlier New or Old England ancestor has not been established. The author devotes forty-three pages to more or less detailed account of other Holman families in England, the New England States, and Virginia, as well as inserting interesting illustrations of portraits, pictures and scenes connected with these unrelated lines, as well as his own family.

The Holman coat of arms is also included in the pages, although no kinship is shown with any "armiger." The descendants of the original ancestor who died as late as 7th May, 1753, aged 82, appears to be fully traced out and the genealogical arrangement is excellent. Both in printing and binding the book is worthy of its publishers.

THE HONEYMAN FAMILY OF SCOTLAND AND AMERICA, 1548-1908. By A. VAN Doren Honeyman. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 345. Indexed. Plainfield, N. J. 1909.

In an attempt—unfortunately unsuccessful—to trace the ancestry of his great-grandfather, John Honeyman, the mysterious "Spy of Washington," the author collected a great mass of genealogical data concerning those of the name in Scotland and in this country, and determined to publish this valuable material rather than to allow it to be hidden and become lost. The book deals with Bishop Andrew Honeyman of the Orkneys; the Honeyman family of Newport, R. I., and with the celebrated John Honeyman of Armagh, Ireland, and his descendants, and is divided into four parts, viz.: I. Historical and Biographical; II. Genealogical; III. Gatherings from Scotch Records, and IV. Appendices of Unidentified Persons in Foreign Countries, America, etc. The author shows genealogical aptitude, skill in setting forth difficult subjects concisely and a vast amount of patience and toil in collecting his facts. The Scotch annals are exceptionally interesting and will be of great value to those tracing ancestry to that land. The book is finely printed and illustrated and should find a ready welcome from all libraries and societies dealing with the history and genealogy of early settlers in this country.

THE KING FAMILY OF SUFFIELD, CONNECTICUT, ITS ENGLISH ANCESTRY, 1389-1662, AND AMERICAN DESCENDANTS, 1662-1908. By Cameron Haight King. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 592. Full Index. San Francisco, California. 1908.

Of the many King families in New England claiming coat armor the King Family of Suffield, Conn., is the only one to date which has established its right to arms beyond all possible and probable doubt. The compiler of this work has brought to his task characteristics and qualities of genealogical instinct which are born rather than made, and with the keen analytical mind of a counsellor-at-law, has put together an accurate and reliable family record.

Ugborough, Devonshire, was the cradle town of the ancestors of these Connecticut Kings, the first known ancestor being William King, born about 1622, who married Agnes Elwill and had a son James, baptized 7th November, 1647, who was later the Ipswich, Mass., and Suffield, Conn., settler. There is every indication that the family were settled in Devonshire as early as 1308, and in 1389 Roger Kyng at Dodebrook (eight miles from Ugborough) deeded land there—the original deed being now in possession of Mr. Harvey J. King of Troy, N. Y. In 1721 James King of Suffield deeded to his son Joseph certain Connecticut lands and sealed the instrument with a distinct waxen impression of his coat-armor from the "Silver Seal, King's Coat of Arms," as set out in the inventory of said Joseph King in 1758. The seal appears on various deeds and documents from time to time and is now preserved among descendants. The arms used are those granted by Wm. Camden, Clarenceux King of Arms in 1611 to "King of London" and are described as "Sable, on a chevron or, between three crosses—crosslet of the last, three escallops of the first," and were used with slight differences by Oliver King (1430-1503), Bishop of Exeter, Devon, as well as by Alexander King of London in 1592, and by the Kings of Shelly, Co. Suffolk, as well as the King family of Sherborne, Dorset. The dates would make these arms of more ancient use than the "Lion Rampant" which distinguishes the King family of Devon and Towcester, Northampton, to which family John King, Bishop of London, and the Kings of Warwick, York, Kent, Oxon and Bucks were allied.

The compiler has given a detailed description of the English ancestry, including a view of a King Manor House at Fowelscombe, Devon, still in existence.

The work is excellently arranged after the standard plans, illustrated with various family portraits and objects of interest, and would appear to be exhaustive of the Suffield, Connecticut line. The descendants of the immigrant named King number 1,442 and the daughters made alliances with Fuller, Emerson, Devotion, Remington, Adams, Auringer, Preston, Farrer, Holliday, Bayeux, Haight, Beveridge, Forney, Brown, Baker and Washington families, all of which are set out in Appendices.

The typography, paper and binding leave nothing to be desired and Mr. King deserves great praise for his care, ability, patience and toil in compiling what is the first exhaustive genealogy of a New England family of this name.

The book should be in the collection of every society dealing with early New England families and heraldic pretence.

A BRIEF GENEALOGICAL HISTORY OF DR. ROBERT KING OF BLANFORD, BERKSHIRE COUNTY, MASS., AND THE DESCENDANTS OF HIS SON, CAPTAIN DR. ROBERT KING OF SANDSFIELD, BERKSHIRE COUNTY, MASS., LATE OF CHARLESTOWN, PORTAGE COUNTY, OHIO. By Silvester M. King, M.D. Paper, Octavo, pp. 59. Press of Anderson & Robb, Albia, Ohio. 1883.

Dr. Robert King, the first ancestor of this special King family of Massachusetts, appeared in Blanford about 1768, and is said to have been born near Cork, Ireland. He married, about 1768, Bridget Knox and settled in Berkshire Co., where he had ten children. The descendants of his son, Dr. Robert King, alone are traced down to the number of 208, and are to be found prospering in many of the western cities and states. The compiler has done good work in preserving and perpetuating this family record and while the pamphlet is not arranged or indexed according to present standards, the references to special names are readily found and the annals of the Kings and allied family names clearly set forth. The spirit which actuated the collection and publication of these annals is most creditable and Dr. King deserves praise for surmounting the obstacles of indifference, ignorance and opposition, as well as the difficulty of compiling a genealogy when living so far from the original settlement of the family. It is such works as these—accomplished out of family pride and interest—which will prove invaluable to the genealogists of future centuries.

THE ANNALS OF CHRIST CHURCH PARISH OF LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS, FROM 1830 TO 1899. By Ellen Harrell Cantrell. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 390. Little Rock, Ark. 1900.

The loss of this church, with all its records by fire in 1873, inspired the compiler to secure from oblivion such early facts concerning the birth and progress of the church as could be had by oral and epistolary means and this book is the result of her self-imposed task. The plan, scope and arrangement of the church history is admirable, the biographies of the various pastors are concisely set forth in good literary style, and the parishoners owe a great debt of gratitude to Mrs. Cantrell for her scholarly labors.

The devotion to duty of the early religious pioneers in the West commands the respect and admiration of all interested in the advance, civilization and prosperity of this nation and the author has now preserved for all time the records of their good deeds.

AN ACCOUNT OF THE CELEBRATION BY THE TOWN OF LINCOLN, MASS., APRIL 23RD, 1904, OF THE 150TH ANNIVERSARY OF ITS INCORPORATION, 1754-1904. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 240. Lincoln, Mass. 1905.

The spirit which prompted the preservation in print of the Acts of the townsmen, the Anthems, Addresses, Anniversary Poem, Speeches at the Banquet and Letters of those unable to attend this anniversary celebration of an old Massachusetts town is heartily approved, for it is from such records that future historians will be able to construct the general history of the State.

The book is interesting reading and is filled with admirable photo-gravure plates of the municipal buildings and ancient residences, while its beautiful type and paper will make it a sightly addition to the list of kindred local histories.

LITCHFIELD AND MORRIS INSCRIPTIONS. By Charles Thoms Payne. Cloth, Large 8vo, pp. 304. Full Index. Limited Edition. Litchfield, Conn. 1905.

The preservation of tombstone records fast going to decay, actuated the good work done by Mr. Payne the transcriber. Before each list of inscriptions is inserted a brief history of the graveyard and twelve cemeteries and private burial grounds have been examined and their tombstone inscriptions taken down. The arrangement is excellent and the book is beautifully printed and illustrated by its publisher, Dwight C. Kilbourn of Litchfield, Conn.

As an exhaustive record of those buried in the Townships of Litchfield and Morris, the book will be of extreme value to all claiming ancestry in these Connecticut towns.

LIFE OF COMMODORE THOMAS MACDONOUGH, U. S. NAVY. By Rodney Macdonough. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 313. Full Index of Persons and Places. The Fort Hill Press, Boston, Mass. 1909.

The book is a valuable contribution to American biography, and in recording the life and stirring times of this early American naval hero the author deserves the support and praise of all students of the up-building of a great nation. In the action before Tripoli and the War of 1812 Commodore Macdonough displayed not only a pure patriotism but ability surpassed by few, if any, of the great naval officers of his day, and his victory over the British squadron on Lake Champlain placed him as one of the foremost figures in the naval history of the United States. The author has drawn much material from the unprinted papers of Commodore Macdonough, the most interesting being his autobiography covering twenty-two years of service. The government documents at Washington have also been exhaustively searched and transcribed as well as many hundreds of letters, orders and reports. The chapters are so arranged as to deal consecutively with the ancestors and autobiography of the Commodore, and the creation of the American Navy in the wars with France, Tripoli and Great Britain, and are filled with hitherto unpublished facts in regard to the early naval warfare of this country. The story is ably told, without undue detail or the excessive use of dry and tedious extracts from unimportant archives, and the attention of the reader is held to the last sentence of the book. The work is well illustrated with portraits and maps, the type unusually large, on paper of good quality, and the binding is in keeping with the standard of such work.

THE SECOND RECORD BOOK OF THE SOCIETY OF MAYFLOWER DESCENDANTS IN THE STATE OF RHODE ISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 154. Providence. 1908.

This fine edition of the Society Book contains an Historical Note of the Society, its Constitution, Officers, Past and Present, Committees, Mayflower Passengers from whom descent has been proved, an Alphabetical List of Members, with their Pilgrim Ancestry, and a List of Members and their Addresses. As a reference book for those of Rhode Island ancestry anxious to trace descent to the Pilgrim Fathers it will prove of great use, and for style of arrangement, good taste, fine paper and printing, the little volume cannot well be surpassed.

THE MORRIS FAMILY OF PHILADELPHIA, DESCENDANTS OF ANTHONY MORRIS, 1654-1721. By Robert C. Moon, M. D. Supplement Vol. IV and V. Cloth, Large Octavo, pp. 483. Full Index. Philadelphia. 1908.

These sumptuous volumes consist of additional records of this well known Philadelphia family, collected since the three original volumes of family history were published in 1868. They deal with research at Stepney, England, in Barbadoes, W. I., and at Weymouth and Melcombe Regis, Dorset, England, and give additional data concerning Andrew Dury, the Morris Mansion, the First City Troop of Philadelphia, the Lewis family, the Wister Family, the Kuhn family, the Shober family, the Shippen family, the Nixon family, the Pennsylvania Hospital and many mansions, homes, institutions, etc., identified with the representative descendants of this ancient line. These books are remarkable for 302 fine illustrations, in half tone of portraits, residences, maps, documents, old silver, furniture and other objects of art and interest dealing with the Morrises and their many allied kinsfolk. The type is unusually clear, large and admirably set on fine paper and the books are exceptionally well bound, opening readily and remaining flat for the reader's convenience. Taken in conjunction with the first three volumes of genealogy these supplemental volumes make one of the most complete histories of a leading American family ever published and Dr. Moon in this monumental work establishes himself in the first ranks of family historians and antiquarians. Fortunate indeed any library, public or private, that can add these books to its collection.

✓ HISTORY OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK IN THE SEVENTEENTH CENTURY. By Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer. Two Volumes. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 1173. New York, The Macmillan Company. 1909. Price, $5.00.

In view of the approaching Hendrick Hudson Celebration the appearance of these historical volumes is singularly appropriate, confined as they are to the early Dutch and English settlements of Manhattan Island. Excellent general histories of the City and Province of New Amsterdam and New York are a-plenty, and as such must perforce omit, or give only a few lines to many of the minor historical and political events. The present historian, however, had the happy intuition of writing a detailed history of the city alone, after close and exhaustive examination of the great mass of documents dealing with the Annals of New Amsterdam and New York. In the past few years interest in preserving ancient records has been vastly stimulated by discoveries of many new and priceless manuscripts in the libraries of Europe and England and the publication of many records hitherto inaccessible to the general reader. The mass of these publications had not been exhaustively digested or incorporated into any history of this city and this work it was left for Mrs. Van Rensselaer to accomplish and bring before the public in her scholarly volumes. She shows a remarkable grasp of detail, a masterly analysis of political motive and action, and an impartiality of narrative somewhat rare to find among those women who have attempted historical writings. Easy writings as a rule makes hard reading, but the style of these volumes refutes the ancient saw and the text is neither redundant nor filled with imagery. Each chapter is followed by its pages of reference notes, as though the author was jealous lest her authorities should not be openly declared and referred to.

The style and finish of the publication maintains the high standard of its publishers and these books are indispensable for any adequately equipped public library. Both author and publishers deserve the intellectual and financial support, which their joint labors merit.

THE NEW YORK STATE HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION—Proceedings. The Ninth and Tenth Annual Meetings, with List of Members, Vol. VIII. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 315. Albany. 1909.

The admirable work carried on by this association is here set forth in numerous papers, some of which are General Van Rensselaer and the Niagara Frontier, Ferry and his Victory, the Siege of Fort Erie, Military Career of Maj.-Gen. Sir Isaac Brock, the Iroquois Wampums, the Patroon System and Colony of Rensselaerswyck, Early Charters of Albany, etc. But for the industry and research of the several authors of these papers much of this historical material would have been lost to the world and no better work can be done by local associations than collecting and publishing such special facts. Much quaint and curious data remains to be unearthed in the State and the private papers and collections of many of the old families are rich in those special documents which might clear up and forever set at rest many historical disputes.

The book is well printed, bound for service, and the efforts of its compiler deserve recognition and encouragement.

HISTORICAL CATALOGUE OF THE MEMBERS OF THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH IN PROVIDENCE, RHODE ISLAND. By Henry Melville King, Pastor Emeritus, aided by Charles Field Wilcox. Cloth, Quarto, pp. 189. Providence, R. I. 1908.

The loss of the early records of this important Colonial Church, founded in 1638, is irreparable and the present work only deals with church entries since 1774. Thanks to the untiring efforts of Mr. Wilcox however, a card index was prepared of all known members, collected from every available source, historical, genealogical and from public and private archives, and about four thousand out of the possible five thousand members from earliest times to date have been secured. The genealogical notes and references to many of the names are full of interest and the alphabetical arrangement of the names renders ready reference. The book is beautifully illustrated with plates of the church building and its pastors, and it will prove a desirable addition to Rhode Island historical works.

THE COURSENS OF SUSSEX COUNTY, NEW JERSEY. By Francis E. Woodruff. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 23. The Grafton Press, New York. 1908.

This pamphlet is a reprint of material incorporated in "The Woodruffs of New Jersey," and thus places in ready reference form the special researches concerning this name. The family is traced to a Jan Coursen who was at Recife, Brazil, South America, in 1649 (Recife being then in possession of Holland), who later appeared at New Amsterdam, married there Metje Theunis Cray and was the father of Jacob Coursen, whose descendants flourished in Sussex County, N. J. There is a persistent tradition that the family was of French Huguenot origin but this connection has as yet remained unestablished.

Interesting notes on the Vroom, Cray, Koevert, Reading, Tuyl and Lakerman families will be found in the pamphlet.

JESSE SMITH—HIS ANCESTORS AND DESCENDANTS. By Bertrand Smith. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 183. Full Index. Frank Allaben Genealogical Company, New York. 1909.

Brave indeed must be the family historian who attempts the searching out of a Smith ancestor, for the surname is legionary. The particular worthy of the name dealt with in this volume is Ralph Smith of Hingham, Mass., and there appears to be no danger that his descendants will die out in the land. The lines are clearly and ably traced down, but the claim to the coat-armor of "Smyth of Co. Norfolk, England," would appear to be based upon the fact (for which no proof is advanced) that Ralph Smith, the immigrant, came from Hingham, Co. Norfolk, England.

The engraved cut of the Smyth Arms makes a fine frontispiece, but its assumption is a weakness which mars an otherwise careful and authentic genealogy.

JOHN REDINGTON OF TOPSFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS, AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS, WITH NOTES ON THE WALES FAMILY. By Cornelia M. Redington Carter. Edited by Josiah Granville Leach, LL.B. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 86. Full Index. Boston, 1909.

The genealogy is a reprint—with additions—from the New England Historical and Genealogical Register and exceedingly well done both as to material, arrangement, illustrations and typography. Nothing is set forth upon tradition and no claim to distinguished descent is advanced but the story is one of an honest family, well told. There appears to be a reasonable certainty that John and Abraham Redington were originally of Hemel Hempstead, Co. Herts, England, as Mary Gould, the wife of John Redington, was born in that town. The Redington name is an unusual one in the English Counties and is stated to be confined to Counties Herts, Essex and Berks. The genealogical plan of this book should serve as a model to all contemplating a record of their family, and the work will be a welcomed addition to the collections of critical bibliophiles.

THE VAN DOORN FAMILY IN HOLLAND AND AMERICA, 1088-1908. By A. Van Doren Honeyman. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 764. Indexed. Honeyman's Publishing House, Plainfield, N. J. 1909.

The enormous labor in preparing a work of this magnitude can hardly be realized, but the grand total of 9,948 names tabulated emphasizes the energy, patience and devotion of the compiler to his task of recording the annals of this ancient and interesting Dutch family. The American members of the family are descended from three Holland ancestors, in no way yet known to be related, viz.:—Pieter Van Doorn of Gravezand, Holland, who settled in Gowanus, Long Island, New York; Diedlof Doorn, who appears in New York in 1680, and Anthony Van Doorn, of Rio Berbice, British Guiana, who came to Rhode Island in 1756. The Rhode Island family alone has adhered to the correct spelling of the name and it is reasonable to assume that this branch was descended from those "noble" families of the name in Holland, whose probable cradle was the town of Doorn, near Utrecht. The writer appears to have exhausted every American source of information, the expense of investigating the Dutch Archives and church records deterring him from efforts in that direction. The arrangement of this genealogy is alphabetical and the fact that but two other genealogical works, as the author states in his preface, are so arranged, indicates that such a grouping of descendants is eccentric and not commended by skilled genealogists. The index therefore is not exhaustive and a searcher whose time is limited is much hampered. The book is well printed, bound and illustrated and is a valuable addition to American genealogies.

THE WOODRUFFS OF NEW JERSEY. By Francis E. Woodruff, B.A. (Yale 1864). Cloth, Octavo, pp. 131 with Index. The Grafton Press, New York. 1909.

This work is rather a foundation for a genealogy than an exhaustive record of the Woodruff family history, but it is none the less valuable in that it preserves important material in concise form for the future genealogists, revised and enlarged from "A Branch of the Woodruff Stock," which was published in parts in 1902. Clear proof is produced that the ancestors of John Woodruff, the immigrant, were of the town of Fordwich, Kent, England, and the line commences with a Thomas Woodrove who lived in 1508. The two sons of John Wooduff respectively founded the Elizabeth and the Westfield, N. J., branches of the family and the author has given excellent sketches of early Southampton, Long Island, its whaling interests, land divisions and political history in the 17th century.

Good reproductions of early land maps, persons and places of family note are given and in typography and binding the book reflects credit upon the publishers.

FIFTH BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD OF THE CLASS OF FIFTY-EIGHT, YALE UNIVERSITY, 1858-1908. By William Plumb Bacon, Class Secretary. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 205. The Record Press, New Britain, Conn. 1908.

As the years grow from the Commencement Day of a college class the more interesting and valuable become the life annals of the classmen. The brief biographies set forth in the Record are well written and the compilation and arrangement of the book is to be commended.

PEDIGREE CHARTS.

THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY

226 West 58th Street, New York.

This Society has for sale official forms of genealogical charts called "Register of Pedigrees." These registers are of two varieties, called "single" and "double" charts. They are each paper covered books of 11 x 16 inches in size, properly ruled and printed for the insertion of names of ancestors in successive generations. The single charts consist of 17 pages, and when filled in will give all of the ancestors in all ramifications for 9 generations, arranged so that the family name of each of the 16 great-great-grandparents occupies a page. Family names appear on the marginal index which is formed by the indentation of each leaf. The back of each leaf is arranged for special memoranda concerning the persons named on the page facing it.

The double charts are practically two single charts combined. The object being to devote the first half of the chart to the registration of the complete pedigree of the male line, the second half for a like registration of the female line, and the double chart therefore provides for the registration of 10 generations in both male and female lines.

The price of these charts to members of this Society is as follows:

Printed on Bond paper, paper cover :

Single Charts, 75 cts. Double Charts, $1.50

To those who are not members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.00 Double Charts, $2.00

Printed in Extra Heavy Linen Ledger paper, bound in stiff cloth covers:

To Members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.25 Double Charts, $2.00

To those who are not members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.50 Double Charts, $2.50

Members of the Society, or others who purchase these Charts and fill them in as fully as possible and present them to the Librarian of the Society for filing in the Society's Library, will receive a new one in exchange therefor without additional cost. These charts may be purchased by application to the Librarian.

It is the desire of the Trustees that the members will supply themselves with these registers, fill them out as far as possible and file them with the Society. When received these will be bound in volumes, fully indexed, and will thus form a record of inestimable value to the Society.

Those who have in their possession full information as to their individual ancestry are especially urged to obtain these Charts, fill them in and file them with the Society, as information of this nature is very frequently lost to posterity owing to negligence on the part of those possessing it to make record thereof, in special depositories provided for that purpose.

JACKSON'S HISTORY OF NEWTON WITH GENEALOGY OF ALL RESIDENTS TO 1800.

This history was written by Francis Jackson, brother of William Jackson, both formerly residents of Newton. The original publication was in 1854. The book contains 556 pages, bound in old fashioned embossed cloth covers 5 x 8 in size. Its frontispiece is an engraving of Col. Joseph Ward. It contains a map of Newton as it was in 1700 showing the original grants by the colony which make up the town territory. It not only covers the history of Newton but also contains copious references to the affairs of surrounding towns, and runs from 1639 to 1800. It contains an elaborate genealogy of all known residents of Newton to 1800. It traces out the derivation of the word Newton, runs over names and details concerning early settlers whom it traces from Boston to Cambridge and through Cambridge to Watertown and thence to "New Towne" now Newton. The facts relating to the separation of Newton from Cambridge are reviewed. There are articles concerning the Indians, slavery in Newton, the history of its early mills and factories and a full account of its ecclesiastical history. The battles of Lexington and Concord and the evacuation of Boston are dealt with in a way to show the part that Newton soldiers took in those affairs. In addition to the genealogical table, there is an appendix dealing with prominent individual citizens, for instance, the career of Col. Joseph Ward is set out at length with copies of correspondence between him and George Washington.

This book is not a revised edition. Not a word has been added, omitted nor changed. It is a reproduction made by taking apart an original, photographing each page separately and from those photographs making plates for use in the printing press, so that each page of the book now offered is a photographic reproduction of the original. The old map, although not hand-colored as it was in the original, is still an exact reproduction in colors.

THE EARL OF DUNMORE.

BY GEORGE AUSTIN MORRISON, JR., A.M., LL.B.

No more ancient family exists in the Scottish Highlands than that of the house of Atholl, and the early forbears of this powerful clan by judicious intermarriages with the greater nobility of Scotland were thus able to secure protection and influence from the highest feudal authorities. The alliance of John, First Marquess of Atholl, with Ameliana Sophia, daughter of James, seventh Earl of Derby, founded the fortune of the branch house of Murray, their second son, born in 1685, being named Lord Charles Murray. On 16 August, 1686, the heir of the Murrays was created an Earl, Viscount and Baron of Scotland, and from this period the branch family rapidly came into prominence. John Murray, the subject of this sketch, fourth Earl of Dunmore, was the eldest son of William Murray, the third Earl, and Catherine Nairn, third daughter of his uncle Lord William Murray, who later became Lord Nairn by marrying the heiress of that family. On his mother's side he claimed descent from the royal house of Stuart. He was born at Taymouth, Perthshire, Scotland, in 1732, and died at Ramsgate, England, in May, 1809. Little is known of his boyhood days, except that he was educated at Eton, 1742-1744, and during the rising of 1745 was a Page of Honor to Prince Charles Edward Stuart, the Pretender, at Holyrood Palace. His father, the third Earl, cast his fortune with those of the Jacobite Party, and as chief of one of the great Scottish houses, took an active part in the rebellion, taking his young son and heir with him into the field. His father, however, was taken prisoner at the Battle of Culloden, tried for high treason and imprisoned for life, dying in prison in 1756. There is a strong indication that the then English Government exerted every influence to secure on their side, the young heir to the Earldom, for he was appointed an Ensign in the Scot Guards in 1750 and at his father's death, his succession to the title was confirmed and he sat in the House of Lords as one of the representative Peers in the Twelfth, and the first two sessions of the Thirteenth Parliament, from 1761-1774. He, undoubtedly repudiated the Jacobitish tendencies of his family and finally allied himself with the reigning Hanoverian royal family and as a reward received the appointment of Governor of the Province of New York in 1770. Lord Dunmore arrived in New York during October and at once busied himself with the duties of his office, showing great activity, but little intelligence in the administration of colonial affairs. In July, 1771, he was appointed Governor of the Colony of Virginia, but by delaying his departure from New York for several months, aroused the suspicion and antagonism of the leading Virginian families. Upon his arrival at Williamsburg, Virginia, in the spring of 1772, he at once incurred the hostility of the colonists by dissolving the Virginian Assembly and when it was reconvened in March, 1773, Lord Dunmore again dissolved the body in May, 1773, because it had adopted on the 12th March, a resolution to appoint a committee of correspondence to unite with the other colonies for action against the aggressive policy of the mother country. In May, 1774, Lord Dunmore once more exercised his prerogative and dissolved the Assembly because it had resolved to keep the first day of June, the date of the closing of the Port of Boston, as a "day of fasting, humiliation and prayer." The Governor, either intentionally or through ignorance of the critical nature of the times and the patriotic temper of his province, continued to estrange the colonists and during the Autumn of 1774 aroused their anger by making an injudicious peace with the Ohio Indians. Fearing a popular uprising Lord Dunmore removed the powder from the Williamsburg magazine to on board the Magdalen, man-of-war then anchored in the James River, on the night of the 20th April, 1775.

The people forthwith rose in arms under the leadership of Patrick Henry, and the Governor was compelled to make overtures for peace by paying for the value of the powder he had so arbitrarily removed. A convention of the colonists was then appointed to meet in May, 1775, but Lord Dunmore forbade the gathering by proclamation. The Assembly was convened on the 1st June, 1775, to consider the conciliatory propositions made by Lord North, the then English Prime Minister, but while these were under discussion, a sudden riot took place on the 5th June. Thoroughly alarmed at this second uprising, Lord Dunmore called together the council, but without effecting any relaxation of the tense situation between the royalist and colonial sympathizers. He, accordingly, sent Lady Dunmore on board the Fowey, man-of-war, for safety, and issued a proclamation against "a certain Patrick Henry" and "his deluded followers." He himself soon joined his wife on the Fowey, which was then lying off Yorktown, about twelve miles away. In the meantime, the Virginia Assembly continued to sit, and to forward to him the bills passed—which he in turn refused to sign without the attendance upon him aboard ship, of the burgesses. Thereupon the burgesses decided that their privileges had been attacked and held that by such action the Governor had abdicated.

They then constituted themselves into a convention and vested all executive power in a Committee of Safety. When the news of the Battle of Lexington reached him, Lord Dunmore immediately sent his wife to New York and himself sought refuge in Fort Johnson. Upon the arrival of the British forces in New York, a number of the Royalists joined Lord Dunmore and they proceeded to carry on a petty war against the inhabitants on the James and York Rivers, burning their plantations, destroying their stores and carrying off their goods and slaves. He attacked Hampton on October 25th, but was repulsed with considerable loss, and having determined upon drastic action, on November 7th proclaimed freedom for all negroes who might rally to his standard.

On December 9th, 1775, his small army was decisively defeated at Great Bridge, a small village about twenty miles from Norfolk and on January 1st, 1776, Lord Dunmore retaliated by burning Norfolk, the most flourishing city in Virginia. Soon after this exploit he was forced to flee on board his fleet, and after being driven from one position to another finally anchored at the mouth of the Potomac River. During June, 1777, he made his headquarters on Gwynn Island, in the Chesapeake River, where he attempted a few sallies without success, and was routed from this shelter on July 8th by the Virginians, under the leadership of Andrew Lewis, after being wounded in the leg. Gen. Washington wrote concerning him in December, 1775: "I do not think that forcing his Lordship on shipboard is sufficient. Nothing less than depriving him of life and liberty will secure peace to Virginia, as motives of resentment actuate his conduct to a degree equal to the total destruction of that colony."

During the greater part of the year 1776, Lord Dunmore remained along the coast of Virginia, suffering great hardship and many minor defeats, until he finally burned his smaller vessels and sailed with the remainder of his fleet to the West Indies.

Later he returned to England, as he had been elected in January, 1776, to a vacant seat in the House of Lords, to which he was again returned at the general election of October, 1780, and May, 1784.

His name appears in the Confiscation Act of New York in 1779, but thereafter he disappears from the history of the colonies.

He was appointed and acted as Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Bahama Island from 1787-1796, and upon the expiration of his term returned to England, where he died.

His administration of the Provinces of New York and Virginia was marked by a singular lack of tact and personal interest in the momentous problems of this period and an entire misconception of the importance of his mission and the temper of the colonists. Many of his actions were, not errors but blunders, and his conception of the feudal rights and powers of his office were behind the times and savored more of Highland absolutism than constitutional government.

He appears to have been a man of meagre intellect, narrow principle and unbounded pride and quite unfit for the important offices he was called to fill. His appointments were doubtless due to the fact that he was one of the few Scottish Highland nobles that allied themselves with the house of Hanover, and the King was anxious to reward these adherents for their deflection from the party of the Pretender.

Lord Dunmore married on February 21st, 1759, Lady Charlotte Stewart, daughter of Alexander, sixth Earl of Gallaway, and Catherine, youngest daughter of John, fourth Earl of Dundonald, by whom he had eight children, viz.:

- i. George, Viscount Fincastle.
- ii. Alexander, b. 12 Oct., 1746.
- iii. John, b. 1765.
- iv. Leveson Grenvill Keith, b. 16 Dec., 1770.
- v. Catherine.
- vi. Augusta de Ameland, who m. 4 April, 1793, at Rome, Prince Augustus Frederick, Duke of Sussex, sixth son of King George III. This marriage, being one of a royal prince with a subject and thus contrary to statute, caused great scandal and was repudiated by the King and the royal family. Question arising as to its validity, it having taken place in a foreign country, the Prince remarried Lord Dunmore's daughter on 5 Dec., 1793, at St. George's Church, Hanover Square, London. The marriage, however, resulted in no issue.
- vii. Susan.
- viii. Virginia.

On 10 Sept., 1831, the Earls of Dunmore were created Barons of the United Kingdom and thus entitled to an hereditary seat in the House of Lords.

The portrait of Lord Dunmore is reproduced from an oil painting now in the possession of the present Peer, who most courteously forwarded a photograph of the picture. There is another portrait now preserved in the State House at Norfolk, Virginia, but it is only a head and not particularly well executed. The signature was reproduced from an original on Virginia State Papers at Norfolk.

CLUES FROM ENGLISH ARCHIVES

CONTRIBUTORY TO AMERICAN GENEALOGY.

BY J. HENRY LEA AND J. R. HUTCHINSON.

29 March, 1638, I ROBERT ESTREY of the parish of Edmunton and county of Middlesex, yeoman, being in good health . . . bequeath my body to be buried within the parish church of Edmunton; to the poor of Edmunton 40s. in monie or bread; to my daughter Mary all the moveable goods which were her husband's, mentioned in a certain inventory thereof taken in anno 1632, also the great press standing in the chamber over William Chapman's hall; to Prudence Littlepage, daughter of Humphrey Littlepage by my said daughter Mary, £20; to my son Edward Esery (sic) and heirs all my freehold land in Edmunton, or in default to my daughter Marie's two children James Littlepage and Robert Littlepage equally. All the rest of my goods I give to my son Edward Estrey, whom I make executor. My daughter Mary shall have her dwelling in my house for one whole year after my decease, and shall enjoy the strawberry garden for two years. Overseer: Humphrey Littlepage my son in law. To Judith Alstone, wife of Penning Alstone, one silver-gilt salt, and to Agnes Williams her sister one gilt beaker. Witnesses: Humphrey Littlepage, William Dible.

11 April, 1639, commission to Humphrey Littlepage, overseer, during the absence and for the use of Edward Estrey, now dwelling in parts beyond the sea. (Commissary of London, Vol. 28, f. 33.)

9 April, 1639, I TIMOTHY CANNON, citizen and draper of London, being very weake and sicke of bodie . . . give and bequeath unto Thomas Johnson my nephew my old furd gowne; to my good friend Mrs Moore one of my black mourning gowns; to my neighbour Nicholas Meeking my black truncke; to my friend Thomas Fosket 10s.; to my cosin Edward Jones my great bible; to my sister Anne, now wife of Richard Nash, my half-head bedstedd, and to her husband my sage-colour suit. All the rest of my goods I give to my son John Cannon who is now at Bermoodas in the parts beyond the seas, provided alwaies that if he be dead, or die before he receive my goods, then I bequeath the same unto my cosin John Cannon to divide the same amongst all his children. Executors, my son John Cannon and my neighbours Thomas Hough and Nicholas Mekins. Witnesses: William Johnson, scr., Daniel Mercer.

Codicil dated 10 April, 1639, bequeathing 20s. to Thomas Hough. Witness: Nicholas Mekin.

Proved 18 April, 1639, by Thomas How and Nicholas Meekins, power being reserved to John Cannon the son. (Commissary of London, Vol. 28, f. 34.)

A John Cannon came in the Fortune in 1621, but his name is not found in the division of cattle in 1627. There was a Cannon of Sandwich in 1650, perhaps identical with Robert of New London, 1678.* In the church records of Scituate and Barnstable, 19 April, 1691, occur the baptisms of John, Philip, Timothy, Nathan and Elizabeth, children of Joanna Cannon, probably a widow, who had but recently removed there.†

Memorandum that EDWARD MARSHALL of the parish of St. Peter's neere Paulswharfe, London, who died on or about the fifth day of December, 1639 . . . did utter and speake these words following, that is to say "Cosen (hee then speaking unto Anne Cossens, widdow), I pray see mee buried well, and take all my goods that I have and keepe them for the benefit of my sonne Thomas Marshall," who was then and is now beyond seas, "and if hee come not home again, then I give all my goods unto you." Witnesses: John Cosen, Sara wife of Michael Barnett, Anne wife of Isaac Finch.

10 Dec., 1639, commission to Anne Cosen to administer for the use of Thomas Marshall, son of deceased, now dwelling in parts beyond the seas. (Commissary of London, Vol. 28, f. 92.)

Four persons of the name Thomas Marshall appear in New England prior to the date of this will: Thomas, planter, Dorchester, freeman 4 March, 1634-5 (name sometimes spelled Marshfield); Thomas, Boston, admitted to the church there 3 June, 1634; Thomas, shoemaker, Boston, came in the James in 1635, aged 22; and Thomas, tailor, Lynn, proprietor, 1638; but there is a good deal of confusion in the accounts of these persons as given by Savage and Pope.

I THOMAS MALTHUS of Enfield, co. Middlesex . . . give my grey gelding to Thomas Cullenben; to my two sisters 40s. apiece; to the poor saints of God £5; for the use of those poore children that are to be conveyghed into New England 40s.; and to my wife all my lands in Edmonton and Enfield, for the term of her life, and afterwards to my daughter Elizabeth and her heirs. Witnesses: John Cornish, Joshua Birling. Proved 12 Oct., 1643, by Joan Malthus, relict and executrix. (Commissary of London, Vol. 29, f. 140.)

The testator was evidently a cadet of the family of Leigh of Eggington in Derbyshire, whose pedigree is recorded in the Visitations of 1569 and 1611,* but unfortunately omitted from that of 1663-4,† which would probably have enabled us to place the testator with certainty.

See collection of Hollis wills, and others related to this family, in Water's Gleanings, (N. E. Reg., vol. XLV, p. 51, etc.), having direct reference to the well known benefactors of Harvard College. It is probable that the testator was also a member of this family.

I HENRY TIMBERLAKE of Chilling in the parish of Tichfield, co. Southampton, gent, being sickley in body and lame in my limmes, this 10th day of July, 1625, make this my last will and testament. Henry Timberlake of Newport R. I., was Corporal there 1644. By his wife Mary he had William, Henry, Joseph and John. He died before 1680, and his widow 10 Sept., 1705. It may be that he was the youngest son Henry, named in the will, the connection shown with the Bromfield family indicating a connection with New England rather than with Virginia.

In this most valuable will we are enabled to locate three of the name in New England, all evidently brothers, of whom the deceased husband of the testatrix, who seems to have been Alexander, was of Ipswich, Mass., in 1635, and had been an innkeeper at Chelmsford, Essex, in Old England, before his emigration.* That he was also a mariner is clearly indicated by the mention of his sea clothes and instruments—a fact that also accounts for the absence of his name from the shipping list in which those of his wife Sarah, aged 50, the testatrix, and daughter (or sister) Dorothy, aged 30, appear.†

Philip, the next brother, who had under the will the sea clothes and instruments above mentioned, was of Charlestown, Mass., in 1637. He was there a cooper, and by wife Margery had five children who, at his death in 1665, were of ages varying from eleven to twenty-six years.

Robert, who was in Holland at the time of the making of the will, was perhaps that Robert, formerly of Bristol, England, merchant, who was appointed attorney for Abraham Shurt of Pemaquid in 1647, and who married, about 1651, Anne, widow of

I have in my cheste a pair of muske codd's of Mr Dickeson; Mr West sent them him. I have now in London 35 hogsheads of tobacco in Capt. Andrewes his warehouse, whereof I give one to Mrs Converse and three to my sister Redman. Mr Wilson oweth me £22-14-0, which I paid for him to Mr Menefree‡ in Virginia. Two empty cases I owe to one John Carey of Ratcliffe. I give to Mr William Baker's daughter for their love to me £15. Let John Cole have again the bill he turned over to me. I desire that my will I made in Virginia may stand. To Mr Pidgeon 10s. To the minister, Mr Jones, £5. LISTS OF GERMANS FROM THE PALATINATE WHO CAME TO ENGLAND IN 1709.

The following lists are copied from the original documents preserved in the British Museum Library, London, England, and should be of the greatest genealogical interest to those families in the States of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and elsewhere, which claim descent from the so-called Palatine settlers. These lists have never before been printed to the knowledge of the Editor, and it should be noted that the word "son" or "sons" and "dau." or "daus." followed by figures denote that the heads of the family had as many sons or daughters, as there are figures, and that these sons and daughters were of the respective ages denoted by the figures. The word "wife" indicates that the head of the family was married and that the wife was living. The abbreviations "Ref.," "Luth.," "Bap." and "Cath.," mean that the family belonged to the Reformed, Lutheran, Baptist or Catholic Churches.

7. CORNELIS^s YE DUTCHER (Jan, No. 3, Willem, No. 1), is first recorded, 1 Sept., 1689, as an absentee at the time of taking the oath of English allegiance (Ulster Co. Hist., 70); m. before 1693, Leonora de Hooges (dau. of Anthony de Hooges and Eva, dau. of Albert Andrieszen Bratt), b. before 1655, when her father died, and widow of Willem Monjeur de la Montagne (b. 22 April, 1641), by whom she had seven children. Her father, of "Anthony's Nose" fame, who arrived in 1641, was Superintendent of the Colony of Rensselaerwyck, secretary, bookkeeper and "Vorleser." His history now appears fully in Van Rensselaer-Bouvier Manuscripts, p. 825. Leonora's mother m. (2) Roelof Swarthout, Magistrate, etc., at Kingston, N. Y. See Swarthout Chronicles and De Forests of Avesnes. Cornelis is, in error, given by Mr. Whittemore in his De Duytscher Genealogy as the de Duytscher ancestor. The age of his wife was a great stumbling block to the Jan Willemszen theory until Mr. Van Laer at Albany, at my request, courteously examined the affidavits there of record, whereby it appeared that Cornelis, 17 Oct., 1722, gave his age as about 55 years, or born about 1667. His wife, who m. (1) in 1673 (K. M., 30), was therefore at least 12, and probably 14 years, his senior, which explains his having only one child by her. 10 March, 1693, he and his wife mortgaged to Wm. Fisher land at Mombaccus, formerly of Wm. de la Montagne (Ulster Co. Deeds, A. A., 120). 20 Jan., 1712, Cornelis and his daughter Margaret were sponsors to a child, Cornelius, of his wife's daughter Eva (K., 2018). 1715, he was private in Capt. Johannes Vernooy's Co., Ulster Co. (1897 N. Y. State Hist. Report, 1, 558). 9 Nov., 1719, he was mentioned in a petition reciting the trespass on his and other's lands at Wayhackaneck, on the Little Minissing Creek,

Orange Co., by the Swarthouts (Cal. of N. Y. Eng. Man., 447), and 17 Oct., 1722, in New York City, he made his mark to an affidavit, giving his age, as to the quarrel between Edward Blagg and the Swarthouts, before Lewis Morris, Jr., a notary (Cal. of N. Y. Eng. Man., 473). 20 Jan., 1715, he was assessed at Rochester, Ulster Co., N. Y., on £25 of real estate. 1738, he was assessed on £10.15s. at Minnising, towards building the new jail at Goshen (Hist. of Sussex Co., N. J., p. 30). Issue:

THE HOPPE-HOPPEN-HOPPER LINEAGE.

BY HOPPER STRIKER MOTT.

Considerable data has come to hand from persons interested in this research, some of which we are privileged to use in this final article of the series. Additional notes (p. 272 of the October, 1908, RECORD) on the

COLONIAL HOPPERS.

The name appears in Maryland as early as 1668 and is likely of English origin. The following individuals would seem to be ancestors of the "Eastern shore" family, whose descendants are to be found in the vicinity of Baltimore, Centreville, etc.:

John Hopper, will proved Dec. 20, 1668; had wife Dorothy.

Isabel Hopper was a beneficiary in the will of Abraham Holman of Baltimore County in 1686.

Robert Hopper was a witness to several wills proved in Anne Arundel County in 1686, 1694, 1696, 1697 and 1698. The will of apparently the same man was proved in 1700, viz.:

Robert Hopper, of All Hallows Parish, Anne Arundel County, proved Aug. 17, 1700, wife Mary, sons Thomas and James, son-in-law Ralph Bassiel and brother-in-law David Bell.

William Hopper of Queen Anne's County, will proved April 12, 1711, son William, dau. Jane, born of present wife Mary; also dau. Jane, born of former wife Dorothy, in Bishoprick of Durham, England.

In the first census of the United States, 1790, Robert Hopper appears as the head of a family of four persons in Prince George's County, Maryland, and Sarah Hopper as the head of a family of five.

HOLLAND HOPPERS.

John and Jane Hopper of New Jersey had children during Revolutionary epoch. Query: Who were their parents? At the Holland Society we ascertain that the Pond Church Records were consumed by fire and that the only Ramapo vital records in that library are those of the Evangelical German Lutheran Church from 1750-1817. A careful examination of these has proved fruitless. Issue:

- i. Gilliam Hopper, lived on the Ramapo, removed to Monroe Co., N. Y., circa 1836; m. Hannah, dau. of — Stagg and Ann Wessels, b. 9/24/1754; d. 7/—/1776. Hannah was b. 7/20/1776; d. 1/6/1842. Ann was dau. of Jeremiah, b. 11/1/1729; d. 1/24/1783, and Lucas Wessels, b. 10/22/1727. Issue:
 - i. Hannah, b. 6/15/1800; m. Stephen, son of John S. Bartholp, b. 12/20/1760, at Yampo, N. J.; d. there 1/3/1846, and Susannah Storms. John S. Bartholp was son of Stephen Bartholp, d. 1800, at Yampo, N. J., and Maria Mandeville, d. at same place. Stephen Bartholp was son of Hendrick Bartholp (minister), who was son of Gulliam Bartholp (minister), of Holland.
 - ii. Margaret, b. 7/31/1802.
 - iii. Rachel, b. 2/19 1805.
 - iv. John G., b. 9/8/1807.
 - v. Mary Ann, b. 12/28/1810.

- vi. Maria Hopper, m. John J. Van Ripen.

SOMEWHAT OF THE FLUSHING HOPPERS.

It has not been ascertained whether the Durham immigrants came directly from England to Long Island or whether they were among those Englishmen who had resided temporarily in Holland before coming to America. The three whose names have been found enrolled in Flushing and reputed to be brothers were:

John, (of whom later).

Robert, the shipmaster, who made voyages on the Delaware River as early as 1683. He was a member of the Society of Friends and probably had no descendants in America. A deed made by the administrator of his only daughter recites that he owned land in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland; and

Christopher, who resided in Flushing in 1698, was enrolled in the Colonial Militia in 1715. His will, proved Dec. 9, 1760, is of record in the New York City Surrogate's office, and his children were:

- i. Mary, m. Henry Lowerre of Flushing. Her descendants will probably be found in Lowery lines.
- ii. Elizabeth, m. — Grifflen, probably of the same place. The descendants are said to be quite numerous in the present generation.
- iii. Edward.
- iv. John, m. and left issue.

The estate of one Edward Hopper of Ulster County, N. Y., was administered in 1768 by Abimal Youngs. Query: Was this a descendant of Christopher?

From another source we derive this information: The Flushing pioneers descend from a family in Wiltshire first known as Hooper, but which was indifferently written Hoppe and Hopper and finally Hopper. John Hooper, the first of the name to appear, was of the City of Sarum, in Wiltshire. He m. Agnes, dau. of John Porte. Their third son, Giles Hooper, had a son, Lawrence Hopper, who was buried May 6, 1603, in Stowell, Somersetshire. His son, John Hopper, b. circa 1540, in Sarum, Wiltshire, was a member of St. Thomas Church, and a Burgess of the Borough. He d. Jan. 16, 1583. His son, Thomas Hopper, became an inhabitant and was admitted a freeman of the Borough, March 5, 1580. He m. Edith, dau. of Richard and Sisterly (Basse) Plummer. Their son, Hugh Hopper, was bap. in Aldenham, Hertfordshire, Feb. 8, 1595; m. Marye Jordan, May, 1623. Their son, Thomas Hopper, bap. same place, Oct. 14, 1630, by Rowland Greenwood, minister, removed in 1654 to Darlington, Durham; m. May 6, 1654, Elizabeth, dau. of Humphrey Fletcher. Issue:

- i. Thomas, b. March 12, 1655; m. Aug. 4, 1687, Elizabeth, dau. of John Fletcher and sister of John Fletcher, Jr.
- ii. John, b. Feb. 9, 1656 (see below).
- iii. Humphrey, b. Aug. 17, 1658; m. May 5, 1697, in Gainsford (County Durham) Church, Jane Hidshon, and had issue:
 - i. James, who moved to London where he m. in St. Paul's, Canterbury, Sarah —.
 - ii. Edward, b. 1705; d. March 9, 1765, aged 60; buried in St. Oswald's Cemetery, Durham.
 - iii. John, b. 1706; m. (1) Margaret —; m. (2) Eleanor Perevill of Staindrop parish, in Gainsford Church, Dec. 4, 1746.

1. JOHN HOPPER, b. Feb. 9, 1656, in Durham; with wife Rachel emigrated in 1674 to Flushing, L. I., where he was a planter in 1675, removing shortly thereafter to Deptford Township, Gloucester Co., N. J. He purchased land on Woodbury Creek. His descendants have been traced to various parts of the United States. Some are in New York City, some on Long Island, some in Philadelphia, and many in Western States. It will be noted that in this line of descent John's ancestors are definitely located. It may be that he had brothers Robert and Christopher as suggested above. No conclusive evidence, however, has been found. In his will, dated Sept. 27, 1749, proved March 29, 1750, he mentions (N. J. Wills, 6, 306) issue:

2 i. Samuel, b. circa 1700.

3 ii. John, m. Ann Garwood, Dec. 5, 1737. Issue:

SOME UNLOCATED HOPPERS.

A number of the name appear in the military rolls of the Revolution in several interior counties of Pennsylvania. It is probable that they came of independent lines of English ancestry which have not been traced. Several names appear in New Jersey records which probably belonged to the Gloucester County family, but no connecting links have been found to connect them with the main stem. These are some of those referred to:

Benjamin Hopper of Alloways Creek, Salem County, N. J., will proved 1725; left sons Joseph and John.

Henry Hopper witnessed the will of Simon Clifton of Chester Township, Burlington County, N. J., in 1728.

In 1773, Thomas Saunders and Ann Hopper were married in Woodbury, N. J., Friends' Meeting.

George Hopper owned a lot in Camden, N. J., sometime after 1773.

The autograph of a John Hopper appears among the signatures appended to the Constitution of the New Jersey Society of the Sons of St. Tammy, No. 1, dated May 1, 1782. The document is a manuscript and appears to be an original. (Collections of the Historical Society of Penn.)

In 1797 Joseph Hopper and Amy Woolohorn were married in Gloucester County, N. J.

In 1801 Amy Hopper and Isaac Ivens of Waterford Township, Gloucester County, N. J., were married.

In American Family Antiquities, by Albert Wells, is the statement that Noah Waterbury, m. Sarah McKinnie, widow, the dau. of Mr. Hopper of New York. The marriage occurred at St. Ann's Church, Brooklyn, about 1803. She d. April 9, 1828.

In the N. Y. Genealogical and Biographical Record, Vols. 2 and 3, are some notes contributed by Dr. O'Callaghan containing lists of marriage licenses found by him in the New York Surrogate's Office. These have also been published, in the supplementary list of such licenses, as a State Library bulletin in 1898. Concerning the Hoppers therein mentioned we have gleaned these data from the volumes of Marriage Bonds in the State Library:

5 July, 1698. John Hopper-Margaret Tindell. The State Archivist makes no report other than the fact that the marriage license was issued.

22 Oct., 1736. Edward Hopper-Eliz: Salya. Not a full bond but only a memorandum giving these names and the date. In Vol. M. B. 1, 3.

26 Sept., 1759. Elenor Hopper-Samuel Hopson. Bondsmen: Samuel Hopson of Kings County, Butcher and James Thompson of New York, mariner. Groom: Samuel Hopson as above. Bride: Elenor Hopper of New York, widow. In Vol. M. B. 2, 433.

7 March, 1760. Mary Hopper-Thomas Canpi(?). In the body of the bond the name of the groom is written by the clerk as Kemp; the signature in a rather illiterate hand is thomas canpi. Bondsmen: Thomas Kemp or Canpi of Westchester County, shoemaker, and Isaac Garnier of the City of New York, keel-maker. Groom: Thomas Kemp or Canpi as above. Bride: Mary Hopper of Westchester County, spinster. In Vol. M. B. 3, 67.

We are indebted for part of the above data to Harry Shelmiri Hopper of Philadelphia, Pa., John Jacob Hopper of New York City, and George T. Fish of Rochester, N. Y., to whom thanks are extended.

EARLIEST BAPTISMAL RECORDS OF THE CHURCH OF HARLINGEN (REFORMED DUTCH) OF
NEW JERSEY. 1727-1734.

BY WILLIAM JONES SKILLMAN, ONTARIO, CALIFORNIA.

Earth-hunger did not rage among the Dutch at the start in this country. A whole generation after the planting of the post on Manhattan in 1623, and the people were yet traders, mainly from Holland, with a sprinkling of adventurers of like mind from almost every country of Europe. They had come to buy and sell and get gain, and had scant thought of building for selves or children permanent homes on the soil. Across the East River at Breuckelin, Flatbush, Amersfoort, and contiguous points a few farmers had found what attracted them, but even after the English occupancy in 1664 there was little change. Elizabeth Town, to serve land-grant ends, was a company, gathered mainly as seems from New England, of Ogdens, Tuttlés, Dickensons, Marshes, Cranes, Whiteheads and Woodruffs, the ancestor of the writer's family, Thomas Skillman, among them but not of them. The latter was fifth in that list of sixty-five who on February 19, 1665, took oath of allegiance to Charles II, and thus made a sharp push to give Nova Cesarea or New Jersey its place in the land. But the settlement thus strenuously attempted did not flourish or grow. It took fifty years more before earth-hunger came really to the people, and about 1700 emigration was begun. Among Dutch farmers of Flatbush, Nieuw Utrecht, and other points as Dutch Kills and Newtown a warm craving arose for the New West of the day (New Jersey), setting first toward the Navasinks, so called, rich corn lands of Monmouth County, and then by way of Staten Island going up the valley of the Raritan and its affluents, South River, the Millstone, North Branch and South Branch, and so further afield, soon reaching every nook and corner of the region.

Harlingen Church lay at the extreme west of this most prominent field of Dutch migration from New York. It was at the further end of a very great parish which was ministered to for many years, or from 1720 to 1747, by Domine Theodorus Jacobus Frelinghuysen, ancestor of all bearing that wellknown name in New Jersey and America. The center of the parish was at Raritan, near which soon Somerville with its churches grew up, and it covered Somerset County and the borders of Middlesex and Hunterdon (long known as "the garden of the Dutch Church"), and in the beginning embraced such points or wide parishes as North Branch or Readington with Neshanic, Hillsborough or Millstone, Three Mile Run and then Six Mile Run and "the Church at Lawrence's Brook on the River," or First New Brunswick, and very shortly Sourland with its range of trap hills to the north or west of it. The latter was not known as Harlingen till 1766, but was commonly called op de Millstone, or the church over or beyond the Millstone, before that from the river valley in which it lay, and then Sourland. These early settlers from Long Island homes about New York took their church along with them. It would have been better, perhaps, had they not, or had they taken it with more religion or godliness and brotherly kindness to their new homes. For the spirit of contention, dull or fierce, marred these churches throughout at the first and for a long period. This was because of faction among them, the coetus standing for home-rule ecclesiastic, and the conferentie (Dutch name for Latin) opposing with great persistence and indescribable acridity, and by repute, without scruple. So the baptisms in Sourland or early Harlingen puzzle us. Domine Frelinghuysen took full charge there in 1729 but baptized no children at the start as appears, the ordinance being administered by the opposing or Arondeus faction so called. We have reason to believe that families of prominence at the beginning stood aloof from or indifferent to the church. Not a Skillman name, for instance, appears in the list here of earliest baptisms, though there was a number subject to that rite at that time in the land, owning households of the parish as Jan Skillman and his brother Isaac. So it was with Beekmans, affiliated with these by marriage, more numerous, still larger land holders, and with a host of children. Not one of these grandchildren of Christoffel, son of the famous Gerardus of Flatbush, is in the record. And so very likely it was with others of the pioneers. Church animosity wrought unreckoned evil at the time in this important field.

And now follows verbatim the translation (by whom prepared we are not told) of Volume I of these first annals of Harlingen Church:

"The baptisms of the reformed dutch Church Here having been recorded in the low dutch language from the first origin of said Church on the 23d August 1727 to Feb. 1796 (inclusive), and the sd language having become nearly obsolete, & understood by very few, the present Consistory of sd Church has resolved that to preserve such records, they be translated & copied over in the book in the english language as well as the names admit of."

These baptisms were administered at the start, and so far as any evidence goes to show, continued to be administered throughout, by Domine Henricus Coens, he being pastor from 1725 to 1730 of the churches (Dutch Reformed) of Aquackanonck, Second River, Pompton, and Ponds (New Jersey), dying there 1735. As Corwin's Manual, Millstone, 1869, tells us, "He wrote to Holland a detailed account of the troubles between the churches of Second River and Aquackanonck." These today are the Reformed churches of Belleville and Passaic, New Jersey.

The record as translated here follows. Any explanation or additions in each instance are given by the editor in square brackets:

The first record of baptisms is dated May 18, 1727, when the following children were baptized by Domine Henricus Coens.

This carries us down to where a break occurs. The records are virtually a blank for ten years, or from 1734 to 1744, and what is given therein is far from satisfactory. This is because of repetitions in some instances, and localities seem confounded. But this is more apparent than real. The name "Raritan," it is true, has no place here, and is to be accounted for from the fact that the whole region at an early day was at times called "the country of the Raritons." The name "Millstone" and "Sourland" at first used were at length gradually dropped as applied specially to this church, and the Harlingen name came eventually to take their place, derived from Domine Johannes Martinus Van Harlingen, born in that region, educated in Holland, and pastor of that church and of Neshanic from 1762 to 1795. The record given above is from Book I of the Dutch. In Book II, the first baptism recorded, among scattered notes, is of date May 19, 1737. These later minutes are valuable, but for genealogy they are defective, as the household names of the mothers in the baptisms are not given. This is to be regretted. Still these maternal names, with patience and a measure of worthy zeal, could be even yet recovered, as ought to be done for the sake of the church, the thousands of families represented in its history, and the untold generations of those coming later. It is greatly to be desired and hoped that there will be an effectual movement toward this before it is forever too late.

BOOK NOTICES.

Extensive repairs and the enlargement of the Society's Library Building has rendered inaccessible most of the books, etc., received during the last quarter. Acknowledgment and reviews of these will appear in the January, 1910, issue of this magazine.

REGISTER OF THE MIDDLEBROOK FAMILY: DESCENDANTS OF JOSEPH MIDDLEBROOK OF FAIRFIELD, CONN. By Louis F. Middlebrook, Hartford, Conn. Published Hartford, Conn., 1909. Limited edition of 252 numbered copies. Pp. 412.

This work contains information in regard to the arms and foreign origin of the family, and an excellently arranged genealogical register of 10 generations of the descendants of Joseph Middlebrook, with a limited amount of information concerning the female lines. It also contains the war records of the descendants, many wills and inventories, and deeds and surveys of their property, and is supplied with an excellent index of 37 pages. The work cannot fail to be of interest and value to all descendants of Joseph Middlebrook. It is Royal Octavo in size, printed on fine linen paper and the press work is much to be admired.

COLLECTIONS OF THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY, VOL. IV: STATEN ISLAND CHURCH RECORDS. Published by the Society. Large Octavo, cloth, pp. xii-335.

In the publication of these Records the Society has made an important addition to its already voluminous collection. The fact that the settlement of Staten Island began only a short time after that of New Amsterdam (New York), and by people largely from the latter place, Long Island and the eastern part of what is now New Jersey, constitutes these church records among the most valuable of any ever published. Beginning with the Reformed Dutch Church in 1666 are the baptisms down to 1772; in the Moravian Church, the births and baptisms from 1749 to 1853, marriages from 1764 to 1863, deaths and burials from 1758 to 1828; in St. Andrews Church, births and baptisms from 1752 to 1759, marriages from 1754 to 1808. The pioneers to Staten Island were chiefly Dutchmen, and the Dutch Church in those days gathered most of them into its fold, married them, baptised their children, buried their dead, and considered it part of their religious duty to keep a record of it all. To these records we can now turn with confidence for proof no where else to be found, and the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society has in this splendid volume preserved them for all time. To the careful indexing, revising and printing of these records a member of the Publication Committee of the Society has devoted many years of able and painstaking labor. In addition to the names of those born, baptised, married and died are added the parents and many sponsors and witnesses, swelling the alphabetically arranged index to nearly sixteen thousand names.

HUDSON TERCENTENARY. An historical retrospect regarding object and quest of an all water route from Europe to India; the obstacles in the way; and also Hudson's voyage to America in 1609 and some of its results. By Gen. Frank Chamberlain, 9 South Hawk St., Albany, N. Y. Press of J. B. Lyon Company, Albany, N. Y., 1909. 8vo, pp. 101.

An excellent resumé of the reasons and object of Hudson's voyage to America and it appears before the public at a particularly opportune moment in view of the recent Hudson-Fulton Centennial.

GREENE (GRENE) FAMILY OF PLYMOUTH COLONY. By Richard Henry Greene, A.M., LL.B., 235 Central Park West, New York. Privately Printed. 1909. 8vo, pp. 145, including index.

This is an excellent work embracing the genealogical record of William Greene, the original settler in Plymouth, and his descendants to the ninth generation inclusive. The work is excellently printed and is well indexed, and as the subject matter is the compilation of Capt. Greene its excellence requires no further guarantee. It is copiously illustrated with family portraits.

STEPHENS-STEVENS GENEALOGY. Lineage from Henry Stephens or Stevens of Stonington, Connecticut, 1668. By Plowdon Stevens. 1909. 8vo, pp. 358, including index. Frank Allaben Genealogical Company. New York. 1909.

This is a very creditable work including the record of nine generations of the descendants of Henry Stephens of Stonington, Connecticut, with an appendix and an excellent index; and is a valuable addition to the somewhat limited information of the Stephens-Stevens family.

BEATTY-ASFORDBY. THE ANCESTRY OF JOHN BEATTY AND SUSANNA ASFORDBY, WITH SOME OF THEIR DESCENDANTS. By Mrs. Samuel Rudolph Turk. Frank Allaben Genealogical Company, publishers. Small 8vo, pp. 184, including index.

This is an excellent little work dealing with this particular branch of the Beatty-Asfordby family and will be of great value to students of genealogy along these lines; and is a fair example of the excellent work emanating from the press of the Allaben Company.

COLONIAL FAMILIES OF AMERICA. By Frances M. Smith. Vol. I. 8vo, pp. 358, including index. Frank Allaben Genealogical Company. New York. 1909.

An excellent work containing short sketches of the American families of Bacon, Bailey, Baldwin, Ball, Bancroft, Bradford, Brooks, Brown, Cary, Conway, Dickinson, Dubois, Edwards, Field, Fisher, Fox, Freeman, Goodridge, Griffith, Hawley, Horton, Loomis, Manning, Martin, Merritt, Miner, Montgomery, Osgood, Phillips, Read, Roosevelt, Savage, Sewall, Smith, Todd, Wallace, Wendell, Wilson, Winslow, Wright. With numerous armorial cuts. This work has more to do with the origin of these various families than with their genealogical records.

DANIEL PERRIN, "THE HUGUENOT," AND HIS DESCENDANTS IN AMERICA. 1665-1910. Compiled by Howland D. Perrine, A.B., LL.B., of the New York Bar. Illustrated. Small quarto, 450 pp. Edition of numbered and signed copies limited to 250. Price, $10.00.

Members of the Perrine family and a great many others that are collaterally related, will be pleased to know that this genealogy is to be issued very soon.

PEDIGREE CHARTS.

THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY

226 West 58th Street, New York.

This Society has for sale official forms of genealogical charts called "Register of Pedigrees." These registers are of two varieties, called "single" and "double" charts. They are each paper covered books of 11 x 16 inches in size, properly ruled and printed for the insertion of names of ancestors in successive generations. The single charts consist of 17 pages, and when filled in will give all of the ancestors in all ramifications for 9 generations, arranged so that the family name of each of the 16 great-great-grandparents occupies a page. Family names appear on the marginal index which is formed by the indentation of each leaf. The back of each leaf is arranged for special memoranda concerning the persons named on the page facing it.

The double charts are practically two single charts combined. The object being to devote the first half of the chart to the registration of the complete pedigree of the male line, the second half for a like registration of the female line, and the double chart therefore provides for the registration of 10 generations in both male and female lines.

The price of these charts to members of this Society is as follows:

Printed on Bond paper, paper cover:

Single Charts, 75 cts. Double Charts, $1.50

To those who are not members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.00 Double Charts, $2.00

Printed on Extra Heavy Linen Ledger paper, bound in stiff cloth covers:

To Members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.25 Double Charts, $2.00

To those who are not members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.50 Double Charts, $2.50

Members of the Society, or others who purchase these Charts and fill them in as fully as possible and present them to the Librarian of the Society for filing in the Society's Library, will receive a new one in exchange therefor without additional cost. These charts may be purchased by application to the Librarian.

It is the desire of the Trustees that the members will supply themselves with these registers, fill them out as far as possible and file them with the Society. When received these will be bound in volumes, fully indexed, and will thus form a record of inestimable value to the Society.

Those who have in their possession full information as to their individual ancestry are especially urged to obtain these Charts, fill them in and file them with the Society, as information of this nature is very frequently lost to posterity owing to negligence on the part of those possessing it to make record thereof, in special depositories provided for that purpose.
